HOOVER DENIES REQUESTS FOR EXTRA SESSION

Progressives and World Court Advocates Answered.

DELAY TO ECONOMIC RECOVERY IS FEARED

Statement Claims Majority of Congress Opposes Meeting Now.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

President Hoover said yesterday that he does not propose to call an extra session of Congress. His statement was a reply to those who have been urging him to call Congress back before December so that something can be done about unemployment and American adherence to the World Court.

"I do not propose to call an extra session of Congress," the President said. "I know of nothing that would so disturb the healing processes now undoubtedly going on in the economic situation.

"We can not legislate ourselves out of a world economic depression; we can and will work ourselves out.

President Claims Majority.

"A poll of the members of Congress would show that a large majority agrees with me in opposing an extra session."

The President's statement was at once a reply to religious organizations like the Federal Council of Churches, which have been clamoring for an extra session to take up the World Court, and to progressives like Senator Robert M. LaFollette (Republican), of Wisconsin, who want an extra session to deal with unemployment.

The President is in favor of American adherence to the World Court, and has urged the Senate to ratify the protocols which he has forwarded to it. Primarily, therefore, his statement must be a reply to Senator La Follette.

Action Replies to La Follette.

At the Progressive conference held here last March, Senator La Follette appointed a committee to make a survey of unemployment conditions. If this revealed the necessity for such action, a special session of Congress was to be "demanded to prevent widespread starvation."

Last Thursday, Senator La Follette, having received a report from his committee, appealed to President Hoover to call an extra session to enact relief measures for the unemployed. The survey, he said, indicated that there would be 6,000,000 persons out of jobs next winter.

To which the President's reply is that an extra session would not help, but would hurt.

Time Was Too Short.

The revised protocols for American adherence to the World Court were forwarded to the Senate by President Hoover last December 10, slightly less than three months before adjournment on March 4. Prior to that, he had received numerous memorials from religious and peace societies, urging that he call upon Congress to take action.

In a message accompanying the protocols, the President asked the Senate to give consideration to the World Court question as soon as the emergency relief and appropriation legislation had been enacted.

Both friends and foes of the World Court in the Senate agreed then that there would not be sufficient time to take the matter up before March. And subsequent events showed that they were right.

Shelved by Close Vote.

On December 17, the Senate foreign relations committee, to which the World Court protocols had been referred, voted to shelve them until the next Congress should convene in December, 1931. The vote was 10 to 9.

Senator Reed (Republican), of Pennsylvania, who suggested that action be postponed, pointed out that to call up the World Court matter at that busy period not only would endanger favorable action on it, but would block action on a half dozen important appropriation bills, and make a special session a necessity.

Some of the proponents of American adherence to the court were hopeful that President Hoover might call a special session immediately after March 4, but Senate leaders announced that the President had no such plan in mind.

Foreign Powers Objected.

Five years ago, the Senate voted for American adherence to the World Court, and the vote was well over the two-thirds that was necessary. First, however, the Senate adopted a number of reservations.

One of these reservations was not acceptable to the other powers be-

Freedom Is Granted To All Religions by New Spanish Decree

Move Seen As First Step To Separate Church and State.

(Copyright, 1931, Associated Press.)

Madrid, May 22 (A.P.).—The Spanish provisional government took what is generally regarded as the first important step in its avowed program to separate the church and the state when the cabinet tonight decreed absolute religious freedom of worship for all creeds in Spain.

Although the measure does not yet actually mean separation, since there is a signed concordat between Madrid and Vatican City, which must be terminated by mutual agreement, the decree provides that the government no longer professes the Catholic religion as official. This is regarded as highly significant.

Under the new measure, which was submitted by Minister of Justice De Los Rios, who has charge of the religious question, all religious creeds are now equal in the official eye.

Under the monarchy the Catholic religion was official and the only one permitted to practice its beliefs publicly. Formerly all creeds could worship, but had to do so within their own temples and not publicly.

The new law says that all creeds are equal before the republican gov-

ASPIRANT TO BENCH HELD IN 2 MURDERS

David Clark, of Los Angeles, Charged With Deaths of Politician and Editor.

Los Angeles, May 22 (A.P.).—Two murder complaints were lodged today against David H. Clark, candidate for municipal judge, for the slaying Wednesday night of Charles H. Crawford, millionaire political boss, and Herbert F. Spencer, Small Magazine editor.

A possible underworld election frame-up was suggested by detectives as the motive for the killings. Police were searching for June Taylor, who has a long record of arrests under several aliases on morals charges, in connection with a possible frame-up linking the woman's name with Clark on the eve of the election, June 2.

Clark, former deputy district attorney of Los Angeles County, will have his name on the ballot at that election. June Taylor was said by police to be a former confidante of Albert Marco, vice chieftain, convicted by Clark while he served as a deputy prosecutor.

Clark's candidacy had been opposed by Spencer and Crawford. The killings at first were attributed to gambling interests which had been attacked in Spencer's magazine, Critic of Critics. Spencer, before becoming editor of the magazine, was city editor of the Los Angeles Evening Express.

When he gave himself to police late last night Clark declined to say anything, but today he said, "When I talk I will have plenty to say."

The investigators were anxious to ascertain the movements of Clark since last Saturday. They said they were unable to verify a statement Clark had visited border resorts, as it had been reported.

District Attorney Buron Fitts was granted permission by the county supervisors to appoint a special prosecutor for the Clark trial. He said prosecution would be too difficult for the men with whom Clark served eight years as a deputy.

"It's going to be a war," Fitts said. He declared he would take the case to the grand jury for a complete investigation and, in order to avoid a preliminary court hearing, saying the time had come for a city clean-up.

Clark was placed under observation in the county jail hospital ward today, so the district attorney's office will have a record on the question of his mental condition should a plea of insanity be made in the trial.

Clark was arraigned late today. He smiled and joked with friends in the municipal court. Leonard Wilson, former municipal judge, appeared as his counsel, and on his request for an early preliminary hearing the case was fixed for next Thursday.

MAYFLOWER HOTEL RECEIVERS NAMED

Littlepage and Evans Are Appointed as Temporary Managers by Court.

A group of five bondholders late yesterday secured an order from Justice Jennings Bailey, motions judge of the District Supreme Court, appointing temporary receivers to take over the Mayflower Hotel, one of the most fashionable hostelries in the country.

Thomas P. Littlepage, prominent attorney, and Joshua Evans, jr., were appointed to take over the property and manage it pending outcome of a court action seeking to have the hotel permanently placed in the hands of receivers or of a group of stockholders.

Simultaneously Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, in Chicago, names the Chicago Title & Trust Co. as receiver for the American Bond & Mortgage Co., the $50,000,000 firm which financed the Mayflower Hotel. He ordered that operations of the company be continued.

The action followed the filing of a petition asking a receiver and a petition of involuntary bankruptcy by bondholders of the company, many of whose names included New Yorkers and also some from Davenport, Iowa, acting under the firm name of Arthur Young & Co.

The petition declared that the company owned $8,000,000, that $3,000,000 was secured, and that the firm was not insolvent, although it was unable to pay.

The company's affairs were placed in charge of protective committees in August, 1929, and the Department of Justice recently undertook an examination of the conduct of its business by the company's former officers. The American Bond & Mortgage Co. consented to the receivership.

Lack of interest payments on bonds of the hotel, due April 1, was the precipitating factor in the proceedings, Mabel Walker Willebrandt, attorney for the bondholders, said. She pointed out that a reasonable market value of the property in March, 1928, was $6,300,000, while the bond issues and other encumbrances now on the property amount to $9,900,000.

A pending reorganization of the hotel financial set-up, in which dissenting bondholders are to be "frozen out," was pictured by Mrs. Willebrandt. The reorganization, she said, would resolve solely to the profit of the operators and would remove safeguards which holders of certain of the bonds now enjoy.

The complaining bondholders are Ernest C. Mulvey and George R. Ellis, of North Attleboro, Mass.; G. Wallace Tibbets, of Boston; Franklin F. Noyes, of Waterville, Me., and John D. Colgan, of New York. They claim the hotel is controlled by the Mayflower Hotels Corporation of America, which in turn is owned by the Mayflower Hotel Co., controlled by the Ameri-

Capital Debutante Testifies Virginia Officer Cursed Her

Miss Margaret Calvert Told by State Dry Agent to "Shut Her Mouth," She Says in Companion's Traffic Case.

Charlottesville, Va., May 22 (A.P.).—A Washington society girl told a magisterial court this afternoon that she was cursed and told to "shut her mouth" when she protested against actions of State officers who arrested her university student companion.

The girl, Miss Margaret Calvert, and her sister, Eleanor, debutante daughters of George H. Calvert, jr., Washington attorney, testified at the hearing of Sam R. Baker, of Montgomery, Ala., president-elect of the law school class at the University of Virginia, charged with traffic law violation and interfering with an officer. Baker, in turn, has sworn out warrants charging J. Warren Davis, State prohibition inspector, with unlawful search and use of profanity, and J. Aldine Smith, State motor vehicle officer, with unlawful assault and use of abusive language.

Baker's case was not completed today, but was continued until Tuesday morning, when charges against the officers also are scheduled for a hearing.

The various charges grew out of an incident early Saturday night when the two girls, accompanied by Baker and Thomas Dew, of Fredericksburg, Va., another law student, were riding near the university.

The two officers and Smith's brother Harold, who accompanied them, testified today that Baker drove his car past theirs on a curve and then resisted arrest.

Baker said the curve was a slight one and the officers' car was moving

PAN-EUROPEAN STATES, SOVIET NEAR ACCORD

More Cordial Relations Likely as Result of Geneva Parley.

SOLUTION OF DANZIG CRISIS MAY FOLLOW

Briand Warmly Welcomed in Paris; Foes Stage Riot; Arms Meeting Set.

Geneva, Switzerland, May 22 (A.P.).—An impression that the present week may mark the beginning of more cordial relations between the Soviet government and capitalistic states of Europe gained strength in League of Nations circles today, after Maxim Litvinoff, Russian commissar for foreign affairs, had held a series of brief meetings with other European statesmen here.

This impression first was created by the amicable exchanges between the Moscow government representative and others attending the sessions of the Pan-European Commission, which ended yesterday.

Minister Litvinoff, who yesterday called on Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, paid a short visit during the day to Arthur Henderson, head of the British foreign office. At noon the Soviet leader entertained Dr. Julius Curtius, German foreign minister, and the German delegation at luncheon.

Reticent Over Conversations.

This afternoon Litvinoff was visited by Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, and by August Zaleski, head of the Polish foreign department.

Russian, British and Italian quarters were very reserved upon the conversations held at these meetings, but for the most part it was believed they were in the nature of formal courtesies. It was assumed, however, that a few words were exchanged also regarding the Soviet proposal for an economic non-aggression pact which now is in the hands of a committee of the Pan-European Commission.

Dr. E. Ziehm, president of the Danzig State Senate, also saw the Soviet foreign commissar, giving rise to rumored that economic relations between the Soviet and the Free City of Danzig likely would be more active.

The Russian delegation is scheduled to leave tomorrow morning for Moscow.

Plan Arms Cut Conference.

Meanwhile the council of the League of Nations this afternoon authorized invitations to the United States and all other nations of the world to participate in the general disarmament conference beginning in Geneva January 2 next. The nonmember league countries invited besides the United States are Afghanistan, Brazil, Costa Rica, Ecuador, Egypt, Mexico, Turkey and the Soviet Union.

The council also directed the secretary general to publish a special edition of the armaments year book before the opening of the conference.

The council, in examining several minorities questions, found relations between Danzig, which is largely of German population, and its 30,000 Polish citizens in a critical condition. The league's executive board urged the Danzig government to take steps to maintain order and suppress pub-

MIDDLETON SET FREE IN DEATH OF CUNNINGHAM

Suspended Policeman Is Now Held on Charge of Housebreaking.

ACCUSATION CHANGED AFTER INVESTIGATION

Vernon Hawks Is Detained for Story on Shooting of Burt Smith.

Patrolman Wallace J. Middleton, suspended from the police force for his alleged participation in a hi-jacking expedition with Jack Cunningham, slain police informer, last night was released in $3,000 bail on a charge of housebreaking.

The charge is an outgrowth of the theft of several cases of ale and whisky which was taken from a speakeasy on I street, near Twelfth street, on May 8, in which Cunningham and Middleton are alleged to have taken part.

A .45-caliber revolver, which was found by a workman on Lincoln road near Trinity College, will be submitted today to Lieut. John H. Fowler for a ballistics examination. Test shots will be compared with the .45-caliber bullet which was found in Cunningham.

Middleton to Appear Today.

The decision to charge Middleton with housebreaking came late yesterday when Charles E. Ford, attorney for Middleton, was preparing to begin legal action for his release. The suspended policeman will appear in Police Court today. Early next week the grand jury is expected to hear the evidence against him.

Capt. Edward J. Kelly is in possession of a statement which, he says, tends to show that Middleton was in the Cunningham house on the night of the theft of the liquor, and that he returned on the following night to drink some of the alleged ale.

Middleton, in addition to being absolved from complicity in the Cunningham shooting near his home on I street near Fourteenth street early Tuesday, has also been eliminated as a suspect in the attack on Dr. Don Carlos Leiva, in the Legation of El Salvador two weeks ago. Middleton does not fit the description of the diplomat's assailant.

The gun which was found by Edward Gant, colored workman for the District Highway Department, is an old Army revolver, the numbers of which have been filed off. While the bullet which killed Cunningham was the type used in .45-caliber automatic pistols, Lieut. Fowler said, Army .45-caliber revolvers fire automatic ammunition.

Hawks Still Is Held.

Vernon V. Hawks, 28 years old, of New York avenue near Ninth street northwest, was still being held last night by First Precinct police, who wished to obtain the story from him of the shooting of Burt L. Smith, in a speakeasy several days ago. Hawks denies he was present at the shooting. The District Commissioners yesterday approved the suspension of Middleton from the Police Department.

Cunningham was buried yesterday in Arlington Cemetery. Six women were the mourners. Services were held in Ryan's funeral parlors, 317 Pennsylvania avenue. His World War services entitled him to a grave in Arlington Cemetery. An inquest into his death will be held at 11:30 Monday morning at the District morgue.

Fliers Soon Will Leave New York to Cut Mark of Graf Zeppelin.

Two well-tanned, husky young men, Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, rested in the Capital last night, preparatory to the start of a flight they hope will take them around the world in ten days.

With completion of only one last official detail—permission to fly over Poland lacking—they saw nothing to block their plan except impossible flying weather. They expressed confidence in their Lockheed monoplane, and conceded little possibility of failure through motor trouble. No difficulty was expected in securing Polish permission.

They plan to fly to New York early today, and thence, as soon as weather

LABOR FUND INQUIRY LINKED TO SHOOTING

Union Heads Investigating Alleged Irregularity When Fired On.

Revelation that two of the three officials of the International Union of Operating Engineers were investigating alleged irregularities in the accounts of a former official involving aproximately $172,000 at the time they were attacked by gunmen fits closely with two of three police theories in the case.

Officials of the union admitted yesterday that Arthur M. Huddell, of Boston, and John M. Possehl, of Cleveland, were in Washington to investigate the irregularity in the organization's benefit fund when a gunman's pistols blazed in a cafeteria, seriously wounding Frank Langdon, 72-year-old editor of the union's trade journal.

Ruddell and Possehl are president and secretary, respectively, of the International Union of Operating Engineers. It is believed the bullets which struck Langdon were intended for them. One bullet did strike Huddell, but his life was saved by a notebook which he had in a pocket over his heart.

Police theories of the cause of the shooting are, first, that the gunman who attacked the three labor officials was imported here, hired by members of the union outside of Washington, who wished to stop the investigation; second, that the man was hired by some members of a disgruntled clique of the local union, or, third, that he was hired by a combination of the two factions.

The former official of the organization, whose affairs are under investigation by Huddell and Possehl, was in another city at the time of the shooting.

Their inquiry was started after an affiliated union complained it had not been credited with a payment made by check some months previously. The officers then launched an investigation of all assets of the union, including a fund of $136,000 set aside for investment in authorized securities.

The inquiry has disclosed that unauthorized securities have been purchased, it is said. Other irregulari-

WAR PLANES GATHER FOR NEW YORK SHOW

Five Flying Fields Near City Shelter Ships After One Mishap.

New York, May 22 (A.P.).—Fourteen flocks of war birds, 671 of America's planes which will defend Manhattan tomorrow against a theoretical enemy, sailed out of a brilliant sky today and nestled for the night at Mitchell, Valley Stream, Farmingdale and the two Roosevelt Flying fields.

The 102d, 103rd and Ninth observation groups were the last squadrons to arrive at Mitchell Field. The 102d and 103rd groups are National Guard organizations and the Ninth is permanently stationed at that field. They arrived a few minutes before 6 o'clock.

The arrivals had the best of flying weather, and an equally good day was forecast for the Saturday maneuvers.

A crackup which nearly cost two pilots their lives was the lone mishap that threatened at the outset to mar a perfect setting of firm fields and unclouded skies.

A Douglas observation plane, among the first to alight, nosed over into a steep gully when Lieut. C. W. Pyle overshot Roosevelt Field and taxied past the western edge.

Pyle and Sergt. F. L. Kurtz, observer, escaped unhurt although the lower wings of their craft were sheared away and the leading gear and propeller destroyed.

Brig. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois, on whose shoulders rests the responsibility of commanding the greatest air armada the world has seen, landed his plane at Mitchel Field shortly after 4 o'clock.

The first group, 30 strong, comprising the Seventh Bombardment Squadron, was the first to arrive. Flying in three "V" formation groups, the unit circled Mitchell Field shortly after 1 o'clock and moved on to Roosevelt Field to alight in close formation on ground made hard by a hot sun.

Maj. McNary led the squadron from Middleton, Pa.

Forty-five ships of the 151st observation group landed at Mitchell Field at 2:10 p. m. (Eastern daylight time). They arrived in groups of

GAS COMPANY CONTROL LAID TO CHICAGOAN

Bride's Opinion Contends Peirce Is Owner of Local Concerns.

RESULT OF FINDINGS MAY BE GIVEN COURT

Commission Is Undecided on Course of Action to Be Followed.

Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission, late yesterday announced that Corporation Counsel William W. Bride had submitted an opinion which, declared in effect that an exhaustive investigation revealed the Washington Gas Light Co. and the Georgetown Gas Co. are believed to be owned and controlled by the Central Public Service Corporation, of Chicago.

While this has been alleged for several months during which time the corporation counsel's office and the Department of Justice were making an inquiry, this was the first definite statement on an official finding.

The text of the opinion was not made public because the commission does not wish its contents to be known pending a decision as to whether court action shall be taken. While the links between the local gas companies and the Chicago capitalists are extremely involved, Gen. Patrick said, the opinion declared that the controlling stock is held by the Westfield Trust and A. E. Pierce.

Pierce Owns Company.

Mr. Pierce in turn owns 100 per cent of the Westfield Trust stock and is president of the Central Public Service Corporation and the Central Public Service Co.

The next step of the commission depends upon the advice of its counsel, Mr. Bride and William A. Roberts, special assistant corporation counsel, who has worked up the major portion of the case. The utilities body will confer with the attorneys early next week, Gen. Patrick said, and an announcement may be forthcoming shortly thereafter.

Both Mr. Bride and Mr. Roberts were decidedly secretive about the whole affair even after Gen. Patrick's announcement. They declined to answer any questions or to make any predictions even as to the history of the case.

Suit Is Matter of Conjecture.

Whether the commission will institute suit against the new owners of the gas companies under the La Follette antimerger act, as it did when the Seaboard Investment Trust gained control, is a matter of conjecture. It will depend largely on what the counsel considers are the chances of conviction.

The former suit, and the only case ever tried under the La Follette law, was lost by the commission when the court held that the Seaboard Investment Trust was a common law trust and therefore not a violation of the antimerger act.

While the Central Public Service Corporation would not have this loophole, it might have others, and the commission will not be likely to take another chance of defeat unless the odds are pretty well in its favor.

Even if the suit were filed and the case won, the stock of the local gas companies probably would be just shifted about among out-of-town capitalists until the ownership came within the law. The control, meanwhile, would be no nearer in local hands.

Corporation Denies Ownership.

The commission's investigation was ordered several months ago when an announcement was made from Chicago that the Central Public Service Co. had assumed the management of the two Washington gas companies and that the ownership had been changed from the Seaboard Investment Trust to the Washington & Suburban Companies.

The latter transfer, however, was said to be one of name only, and the Central Public Service Corporation denied owning any stock of the District firms.

Farrell Raps Steel Wage Cut; Rail-Oil Men Discuss Issues

Carriers' Executives and Producers Confer on Transportation.

New York, May 22 (A.P.).—Rail chiefs and oil producers discussed for four hours today problems growing out of competitive transportation agencies without, the conferees stated, deciding what course should be pursued.

The meeting was not open to the press, but a statement was issued after the session in which the railroad leaders said they had called attention of the oil interests to "problems of mutual interest."

The statement said:

"This friendly conference was in line with the announced policy of the rail carriers to confer jointly with the various shipping and other interests involved, in an effort to meet on some common ground mutually satisfactory to shipping * * * with respect to the future of transportation in its various forms."

The statement continued that the meeting also was for the purpose of reaching a clearer understanding of "just what the problems for consideration were, so far as they affect the oil interests and the railways."

No definite conclusions, the statement added, were reached, but further conferences will be held by the two interests "in an endeavor to reach a common ground mutually satisfactory to all interests."

Competitors of the railroads include pipe line companies and motorized shipping on the highways, for which some form of regulation is sought.

U.S. Corporation's Chief Declares Situation Is "Diabolical."

New York, May 22 (A.P.).—James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, today accused the big standard companies of his industry—"the companies in the headlines," he called them—of failing to maintain wage scales.

Mr. Farrell made his accusation at the semiannual meeting of the Iron and Steel Institute, attended by the principal executives of the industry in this country.

He declared some companies were giving their products away. Unless prices are raised and wages are stabilized, he said, the steel companies should shut down rather than waste their raw materials.

His address came directly after a talk by Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation and president of the institute, who said wages had been maintained in the industry, although decreased production had put workers on a part-time basis.

Mr. Farrell told his hearers he would not embarrass them by naming the companies he had in mind when he made his charge of wage-cutting. After his address, he told the Associated Press he was referring to Bethlehem. Mr. Schwab made this statement:

"I really discover no difference between my views and Mr. Farrell's, and I heartily indorse all he said."

In his attack on wage policy which surprised the 1,000 assembled execu-

Former Commissioner Asks Strong Arm Methods to Curb Crime Here.

The wave of shootings, assaults and other felonies which is sweeping over Washington is traceable to failure of police to apply strong-arm methods, according to Frederick A. Fenning, Capital lawyer and former Commissioner of the Metropolitan Police Department.

In a stimulating article written especially for The Washington Post and which will appear in tomorrow's editions, Mr. Fenning deplores the "molly-coddling" tactics in vogue and declares that force must be brought into use to combat "the alarming conditions," even though by "methods which shock the sensibilities of mollycoddlers."

APPEAL TO RESTORE PITTS' BOND ARGUED

Convicted Banker's Counsel Seek to Reestablish Sum Canceled by Surety.

Attorneys for G. Bryan Pitts, convicted former head of the F. H. Smith Co., yesterday placed before Chief Justice A. A. Wheat a proposal to reestablish a $50,000 half security that a professional bondsman canceled two weeks ago.

Pitts had a $100,000 bond, posted by two sureties, and when one of them desired to cancel his half of the bond Judge Jesse Adkins granted his request. That left Pitts with but half of the bond that the District Supreme Court had set for his release in the event that the Court of Appeals grants him a new trial.

Leon Tobriner, Wilton J. Lambert and Robert I. Miller argued the case before the chief justice. The latter indicated that he would take the mater of allowing another half surety of $50,000 to be placed under advisement, though Neil Burkinshaw and Nugent Dodds, for the Government, said that any bail was futile, because Pitts has several more indictments pending and would not regain his liberty in any event.

Mrs. Gladys Pitts, the attractive young wife of the erstwhile nationally known banker, was an attentive witness throughout the proceedings. She came to court with Mrs. Robert I. Miller, wife of one of her husband's attorneys, and she was closeted with Mr. Pitts for half an hour while he went over his case with his attorneys.

The chief justice will announce his ruling next week.

Law Enforcement Speaker Hits Rum

Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson Blames Liquor Traffic in Capital Crime.

In a strong attack on the liquor traffic, Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson, president of the National Woman's Democratic Law Enforcement League, told the Northwest Union, Woman's Christian Temperance Union, last night at its fiftieth aniversary in the Roosevelt Hotel, "Liquor is directly responsible for the shocking number of murders here within the past week."

"The person guilty is the man who sold the outlawed liquor and the prohibtion commissioner and police officials should not be content until they have brought the guilty to justice. You ned not tell me that with the powerful secret service and Uncle Sam wholeheartedly making an effort to find the guilty culprits that they can not find them if they are honest and sincere."

Mrs. George A. Ross president of the Northwest Union, presided. Other speakers were Mrs. Mary Campbell, former president of the W. C. T. U. in India, where she was a missionary for 34 years.

PRESIDENT REFUSES TO CALL CONGRESS

longing to the court. It provided that the World Court should render no advisory opinion in which this country had, or claimed to have, an interest without the consent of the United States Government.

President Coolidge selected Elihu Root to get together with foreign statesmen and work out a compromise reservation that would be acceptable to the other powers. This Root did.

Probable Passage Admitted.

In sending the revised protocols to the Senate, President Hoover pointed out that the movement for a World Court originated in the United States and that it had had the support of Presidents Wilson, Harding and Coolidge. The protocols, he said, protected the United States from any entanglements in the diplomacy of other nations and further permitted the United States to withdraw from the court at any time without reproach or ill will.

Opponents of the court—men like Senator Hiram Johnson (Republican), of California, and Senator Clarence Dill (Democrat), of Washington—assailed the President's statement and made ready for a fight on the protocols.

Privately, however, the opponents admitted that they did not have the votes to block ratification.

Miss Margaret Calvert said that when the officers pulled up beside them they thought at first they were holdup men. They grabbed Baker and yanked him out of the car, she said. When she protested against this, she said, Davis told her, with profanity, "to shut her mouth." Miss Eleanor Calvert said the officers were "rough-looking men" and that she thought they were attempting a holdup. SAVINGS BANKS URGE RAIL RATES INCREASE Privilege of Membership in Reserve System Also Is Favored.

(Associated Press.)

Resolutions approving the efforts of railroads to increase their earnings through higher freight rates and favoring the privilege of membership in the Federal Reserve System for mutual savings banks were adopted yesterday by the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks.

The 600 banks in the association have approximately $1,250,000,000 invested in railroad securities, mostly in bonds. The railroad resolution was presented by Austin McLanahan, of Baltimore. It said the association is interested in every attempt to improve the present economic conditions, especially when such effots are directed to the betterment of the investment situation.

The association directed its Federal legislative committee to seek an amendment to the Federal reserve act to permit mutual savings banks to become members of the system, such membership to be optional with each bank.

It also adopted a resolution authorizing a personal economy educational campaign to increase thrift and savings throughout the country, particularly in the 31 States not having mutual savings banks.

At the final session of the three-day meeting Howard Biddulph, of Newark, N. J., was installed as the new president. Other officers elected were Wilson G. Wing, of Providence, vice president; Walter E. Hallett, of New York, treasurer, and John W. Sandstedt, of New York, executive secretary. The next convention city was not selected.

Shortly after his inauguration President Biddulph issued a statement saying, "The way is now being prepared for industrial recovery." Pointing out that 13,000,000 persons have $10,000,000,000 deposited in mutual savings banks and that deposits in commercial banks total $18,000,000,000, the new president said. "It is plain that the American people have in their savings alone a great reservoir of liquid capital. It is being increased each day. The people are in positio nto engage in new undertakings with the irst upward turn."

Woman's Assailant Thought Demented

Police Narrow Search Down to One Man, Missing Since Attack.

Police have narrowed to one man the search for the assailant of Miss Caroline Arnold, 30 years old, an employe of the Foster Information Bureau, who was struck on the head by a stranger who came into her room at the Powhatan Hotel Thursday night.

The man the police have in mind, it was learned, is partially demented, and, police say, this explains the apparent lack of motive for the attack. A man who occupied a room on the same floor with Miss Arnold has been missing since the assault.

New Highway Jobs Doubled for April

Contracts Are Signed for 7,296 Miles of Road by 40 States.

(Associated Press.)

An increase of 100 per cent in the value of State highway contracts awarded in April, as compared with the same month last year, was announced yesterday by the President's emergency employment committee.

The American Association of State Highway Officials informed Acting Chairman Croxton, of the committe, that 40 States let contracts in April for 7,296 miles of road at $96,879,463. This was twice the amount contracted for in April a year ago and did not include contracts totaling several million dollars for bridge construction.

From the Labor Department came reports that building permits issued during April gained 6.2 per cent in value over March from 340 cites. The department had reports of permits totaling $140,372,920, an increase of 19.3 per cent in new residential buildings, but a decrease of 3.3 per cent in nonresidential structures. Another $20,000,000 in contracts for alterations and repairs was recorded.

Georgia Planter, Aid Indicted in Swindle

Jersey City, N. J., May 22 (A.P.).—The Hudson County grand jury today indicted Col. Telamon Gruger Smith Cuyler, George planter and financier, and Joseph Brooks, in an aleged $250,000 metals swindle.

Cuyler, elderly and of distinguished bearing, has been in custody of New York police for a wek, and Brooks, known also as Price, has been in jail at Jersey City.

STEEL CHIEFS HIT WAGE SLASH

Charles M. Schwab (left), who agreed yesterday with James H. Farrell, right, when the latter declared that certain steel companies had cut wages. Mr. Farrell termed this a "cheap practice."

Farrell's Frankness Cheered by Gathering

New York, May 22 (A.P.).—At the conclusion of his address, charging certain steel companies with cutting wages, James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, today turned to Charles M. Schwab, presiding at the Steel Institute meeting, and said:

"I am not going to give the industry, Mr. Schwab, the sort of benediction that you have given them and say, 'Now you are all fine men, and you are all doing good jobs.'

"I say that we are not doing a good job and until we do a good job, we should not indulge in fulsome praise."

Mr. Farrell sat down amidst applause.

RAIL AND OIL CHIEFS DISCUSS PROBLEMS

Among those representing the railroads were P. E. Crowley, president of the New York Central; Elisha Lee, vice president, Pennsylvania; Daniel Willard, president, Baltimore & Ohio; Hale Holden, chairman, Southern Pacific; J. J. Pelley, president, New York, New Haven & Hartford; E. N. Brown, chairman, the Frisco Railroad; S. T. Bletsoe, chairman, Santa Fe; E. M. Durham, executive vice president, Missouri Pacific; R. H. Aishton, chairman, and Alfred P. Thom, general counsel, Association of Railway Executives.

Oil Leaders Present.

The American Petroleum Institute was represented by Walter C. Teagle, president, Standard Oil of New Jersey; E. Howard Pew, president, Sun Oil; R. C. Holmes, president, Texas Co.; Herbert L. Pratt, chairman; Standard Oil, New York; W. T. Wallace, vice president, Gulf Oil; E. G. Bullock, vice president, Standard Oil of Indiana; C. B. AMes, vice president, Texas Co., and W. R. Boyd, jr., executive vice president, American Petroleum Institute.

Considerable optimism was expressed in railway and banking circles today over the prospects of the program launched by Eastern railway executives yesterday for a revision of freight rates.

The committee appointed to work upon the plan was expected to meet for organization some time next week, possibly Tuesday, but in the meantime, it is understood that individual members of the committee are working upon various aspects of the problem.

Proceeding With Caution.

The Eastern railway presidents' conference is officially proceeding in a cautious manner. The secretary said he was unauthorized to give out any information whatever about the prospective meeting of the committee. He was not even permitted to make any official announcement of the election of the committee yesterday.

The railway presidents seek to "restore" freight rates to a level which will give them about $400,000,000 in additional annual gross revenue, to protect their credit standing.

Little likelihood is seen in banking circles for an increase before the mid-year revision of the lists of bonds available for savings bank investments in New York State, and bankers expect more issues will be disqualified because of dwindling revenues.

Joan of Arc Fete to Open.

Rouen, France, May 22 (A.P.).—The memory of St. Joan of Arc, burned at the stake in Rouen 500 years ago, will be recalled reverently here tomorrow, and during a series of fetes extending through the succeeding eight days.

WAGE CUTS IN STEEL RAPPED BY FARRELL

tives, Mr. Farrell said: "I think this is a pretty cheap sort of business."

"You say wages have been stabilized," the steel corporation president said. "They have not. We are living in a fool's paradise. Honeycombing and pinching of all sorts of things have gone on. The so-called big standard companies, the companies in the headlines, are not maintaining the standard of wages. It's a shame that when some of the large companies are trying to maintain wages, others are cutting them even when htey are affording only three days a week employment."

Tragedy, Says Farrell.

"There is a tragedy behind this whole business," he continued. "We have ourselves to blame for present conditions in the steel industry. You hear much of the interference of the tariff wall, but the stones for that wall have not even been quarried yet. The average duty on iron and steel would not pay the freight on steel from New York to Lancaster.

"I don't see any hope of better prices until the presidents of the companies stop the present diabolical situation. I am not seeking any alibis for myself, except to say that the corporation I am connected with has been watching the price barometer."

The industry should be thriving—but isn't—on 50 per cent operation, Mr. Farrell said.

"By what manner of reasoning do you people conclude that as production goes down prices should get cheaper?" he asked. "We should set up resistance. I think we should take the risk of closing down rather than to waste our raw materials.

"It is not honest for us to sell our steel below cost and knock off something from our dividend and reduce our wages."

Schwab Sees Improvement.

Mr. Schwab, in his speech, saw "a very strong note of improvement in the general situation." He said there was reason to believe liquidation was about over and "there are many signs of stirring in our economic life."

The luncheon meeting of the directors, attended by 22 men, began at 1 o'clock and lasted into the evening. Usually such meetings are ended at 3 o'clock.

It was learned that a frank discussion of wage scales by leaders in the industry and action by them on the basis of such a discussion is regarded as impossible under present laws. It was pointed out that in 1911 a group of leaders in the industry tried just such a move and several indictments under the Sherman antitrust la wresulted.

War Mothers See Tomb of Napoleon

Second Group Returns to Paris After Visiting Battlefields.

Paris, May 22 (A.P.).—The American gold star mothers' party B visited Napoleon's tomb in the crypt of the Invalides this afternoon and were much impressed at the magnificent setting of the sarcophagus and its tattered battle flags.

Party A returned to Paris this evening from their tour of the cemeteries and battlefields. Tomorrow night between 9 and 11 o'clock they will be taken for a night view of the city.

Mrs. Gertrude Olsen, of Hayti, S. Dak., remained in a critical condition tonight, after having undergone a blood transfusion for an intestinal trouble.

Two of the other mothers who have been ill were reported improved today. They are Mrs. Catherine Lutz, of Buffalo, who contracted pneumonia on the boat, and Mrs. Jessie McAbee, of Baltimore, who has been suffering from an attack of facial erysipelas.

Contract Award Scored by Labor

North Carolina Firm Hit by Delegation Before Federal Board.

Organized labor and building trades bodies strongly protested yesterday against award of a contract to the W. P. Rose Co., of North Carolina, for constructing the tuberculosis building at St. Elizabeths Hospital.

A delegation appeared personally before the board named by Secretary of the Interior Wilbur to consider bids for erection of the structure.

John B. Colpoys, of the Central Labor Union, denounced the Rose firm as "destroyers of the set standards of organized labor and worse than murderers" in urging that their bid not be accepted.

Stones Damage Auto In Fight Between Men

An automobile fared the worst in a fight between two men at Eleventh and E street southwest yeserday. For some unknown reason two men started fighting. One threw rocks at the other, and when the target was no longer in sight the stone tosser pelted the automobile with bricks, causing a short circuit in the car and a fire.

The Fire Department was caled to quench the blaze. The Police Department was summoned to arrest the fighters. Slight damage was caused to the auto. The participants in the fight disappeared.

IMPASSE THREATENS WHEAT CONFERENCE

Export Quota Plan Arouses Opposition; Parley's Fate Uncertain.

London, May 22 (A.P.).—The international conference of wheat-exporting nations tonight faced a possible impasse over a solution for the world's wheat production difficulties.

After meeting since midafternoon, but making little progress, the committee attempting to draft a comprehensive plan for presentation at tomorrow's plenary session recessed at 7 o'clock tonight.

Observers professed to see in the course of events indication that the conference might close with tomorrow's session unless a realignment of the diverging views held by the various delegations is accomplished.

International Bureau Suggested.

The committee was reported to be attempting to draft plans for an international bureau for exchange of wheat information, with a view of continuing a study of wheat problems It was admitted, however, that such contribution to the flooded wheat markets would have little effect and would not even be assured of wholehearted support by the conferring delegaes.

The United States has taken a strong stand against any schemes for fixing international wheat export quotas, a theory favored by many of the European conferees.

Although there was some pessimism tonight in conference circles, the experts were working vigorously to arrive at a common agreement in tomorrow's session.

Supporters of the information bureau proposal hope that by dissemination of accurate figures to remove speculation concerning wheat production, exports and consumption and permit buyers to get into the market for their normal purchase without fear of subsequent lowering of prices after they had loaded up.

Quota Plan Is Opposed.

The Danubian countries sought to include some quota plan, but opposition from Canada and Australia as well as the United States forced abandonment of this scheme. Russia's statement favoring the Danubian proposal was described as unchanged. The Soviet union's insistence on credits for financing wheat held off the market, however, fell upon barren ground.

On adjournment of the committee tonight it was planned that Chairman Riddell, of Canada, would consider the proposal as the committee had drafted it so far with a view to reporting it back to the committee tomorrow morning preparatory to presenting the idea to the conference for adoption or rejection.

The American delegates were noncommittal tonight on the present situation confronting the conference. Somewhat the same attitude was adopted by Argentina, Canada and Australia, the countries which would be most affected by a quota scheme.

The Argentine view that there could be no agreement unless all countries signed seems to make the situation more complicated in view of the United States' stand. The Russians, however, have intimated unofficially they regard an agreement possible without the signatures of all nations participating in the conference.

can Bond & Mortgage Co. The bond company is said to be owned by William J. and Hattie Moore, Harold A. Moore, Kenneth W. Moore and Kathryn Moore, and Charles C. Moore. All are named defendants.

The allegation was made that the defendants floated loans aggregating $9,900,000 "for the purpose of enriching themselves, and with the intent to trick, cheat and defraud the investing public." The cost of floating this loan was said to be $1,099,385, while the defendants "enriched themselves" $1,625,614.55. This made the bonded indebtedness of the hotel $9,537 per room, exclusive of the public rooms, it was declared.

The court was told that the defendants knew they could not meet terms of the notes because the property had been "unsuccessfully operated" from its beginning. In two years the losses were $760,000, it was charged.

Immediate action on the petition is necessary, Mrs. Willebrandt points out, because it is alleged the defendants may conceal or squander the $200,000 now held by the Mayflower Hotel Co., or the books of the hotel might be destroyed or hidden.

The belief was expressed that the hotel may be made to pay all operating expenses and make some return to the second mortgage bondholders. Bond for the receivers was set at $100,000 each.

MOLLYCODDLE POLICE TACTICS ASSAILED

Mr. Fenning, and agitators against its use base their arguments on isolated cases and occasional court rulings. While there have been times, he concedes, when an innocent but weak man confesses to a crime which he did not commit, these instances are trivial in number to the cases which have been hastily brought to trial by police officers who were proficient in strong-arm tactics.

As head of the Capital's police force from June2, 1 925, until August 2, 1926, Mr. Fenning had considerable experience in the field with which his article deals. He contributes frequently to legal and medical journals on the legal aspects of mental diseases, and contributed a chapter for White and Jelliffe's "Treatment of Nervous and Mental Diseases."

Mr. Fenning saw active service for two years as a captain and, later, as a major in the Quartermaster Corps. He is 56 years old.

Defendant Given Year For Attempted Attack

A sentence of a year and a day was given Francis H. Harding yesterday by Justice Peyton Gordon. He had been found guilty of an attempted attack on a girl, who at the time was a student of the Wesern High School. Th eatack, it was testified, oocurred in the Wardman Park Hotel a year ago.

Justice Gordon, in passing sentence, said that a physician's certificate that Harding was suffering from a lung ailment had something to do with the sentence. Harding denied hat he had attacked the girl. Assistant United States Atorney Walter M. Shea prosecuted the case.

HOOVER INTRODUCES RADIO SCIENCE TALK

Prof. Millikan Opens Series of Lectures on Wide Range of Topics.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover introduced Dr. R. A. Millikan, of Pasadena, California, to a radio audience last night as one of America's foremost scientists.

The Chief Executive spoke from the Cabinet room in the executive offices at the White House. Dr. Millikan, who spoke immediately after from Los Angeles, was first speaker in a series of addresses arranged by the national advisory council on radio education.

The President said:

"Dr. Millikan's address tonight on 'radios past and future' is the first of a series arranged by the national advisory council on radio in education, of which society he is the President.

"It is the purpose of the association to provide the radio audience with addresses from leading authorities upon significant developments in the fields of science, arts and the professions.

"It is distinctly a public service that leaders in thought in our country have banded themselves together to give to the radio audience this opportunity of knowing from those who can speak with authority the progress we are making in the fundamentals of civilization.

"Dr. Millikan is one of America's foremost scientists. He ranks among the world's greatest physicists. He is the director of one of the most successful of our great physics research laboratories. He has given to America great contributions in the whole field of education and science. Dr. Millikan is more than a physicist. He is one of America's leaders in philosophic thought."

Woman Hides Body Of Husband In Auto

Mate's Corpse Taken 1 5 Miles After Killing in Quarrel.

Lakeland, Fla., May 22 (A.P.).—A woman who secreted her husband's body in an automobile and drove with it 145 miles from Gainesville to her sister's home here, after he was shot and killed during a domestic quarrel, went back home tonight to face murder charges.

Mrs. Nellie Pierce, 40, and James F. Pierce, 43, quarreled in their home at Gainesville early Thursday. Mrs. Pierce told the coroner her husband leaped from bed, seized a shotgun and threatened to kill her 14-year-old son by a former marriage.

She said she took the gun from him and he went back to bed. Then, as she was placing the weapon under hte bed, she said, Pierce lunged at her and it was discharged. She ran out of the room and returned to find her husband dead with a wound through the temple.

Boy, 9 Years Old, Is Sent to Asylum

Court Moved by Mother's Sobs as Testimony Commits Lad.

A heart-broken mother and fully a dozen women spectators wept openly in the District Supreme Court yesterday when a 9-year-old boy, handsome and stalwart in appearance, was ordered committed to St. Elizabeths Hospital for the Insane.

The mother cried bitterly when she took the stand. Between sobs she said she believed her son was in need of care and treatment. Her testimony followed that of two alienists.

As the mother left the witness chair she ran to her boy, grabbed him and caressed him. Justice Oscar Luhring left his seat and walked around the inclosure behind his bench. Lee Ashford, who has "clerked" a thousand insanity cases, was visibly affected. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former Assistant Attorney General, sat motionless as a spectator. The sobs of the mother echoed through the corridors of the courthouse as the boy was led away by attendants.

CURTIUS ASSAILED BY RIGHTIST PRESS

Foreign Minister Is Asked to Resign; Conference at Geneva Scored.

Berlin, May 22 (A.P.).—The editorial attack on Julius Curtius launched by the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung continued today in several of the Rightist newspapers with demands for the foreign minister's retirement.

The democratic Tageblatt, however, came to the defense with an assertion that the whole movement was inspired by Rhenish industrialists and Hamburg shipping interests who, it said, already have agreed on their candidate to succeed Curtius. The democratic Acht Uhr Blatt goes still further, asserting that the candidate is Wilhelm Cuno, chancellor in 1922 and 1923.

The Leipziger Neueste Nachrichten, mouthpiece of the right wing of Curtius' own Peoples' party, speaks of the uselessness of sending Curtius to talk with Ramsay MacDonald next month after the "Geneva fiasco," and of the futility of remaining in the League of Nations, "which now more than ever appears to be merely a device for perpetuating the Versailles system."

In government circles, however, it is pointed out that Curtius is getting the same thing the newspapers of the right wing gave his predecessor, Gustav Stresemann.

Robinson Pokes Fu At Hoover Stories

'Human Interest' Resorted To in Effort to Regain Public Faith, He Says.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, said last night that the country has lost faith in President Hoover.

"For the first time in our political history that I can recall," he said in a statement through the national committee, "the President of the United States in the middle of an initial term finds it necessary to go into a campaign to rehabilitate himself in the estimation of the voters.

"Perhaps it is because of a realization that there can be no adequate explanation of the administration's failure," he added, "that his newspaper organs have suddenly blossomed forth with a crop of childish stories having for their purpose what the paragraphers have dubbed 'humanizing Hoover.' * * *

"These stories could hardly be circulated without the President's cognizance. In effect, they constitute an appeal to the country tantamount to saying, 'I man not be a wise executive, but see what a kindly, humane and homely sort of chap I am!'"

The Modern Captain Kidd

WHERE once the famous buccaneer used to put in for stores and water and where, tradition says, the sea rover buried some of his piratical loot and pieces of eight, a new kind of a pirate found haven until prohibition enforcement officers swooped on him. In the Sunday Magazine Section of The Washington Post is told the inside story of the capture of one of the biggest of the rum-runners at Taylors Island, the source of the contrabrand supplies for New York and Philadelphia.

HARWOOD PARK, who, prohibition agents say, operated the wireless between shore and the rum-runners' "mother ship."

A gigantic business, which operates with every modern invention from $100,000 speed boats to a wireless station operated by a debonnair youth was disclosed, say enforcement officers. The facts assemble themselves with the breathless rush of fiction and the tale is permeated with the salt of the sea and shrouded in a fog of mystery.

COMPETITORS ARGUE FLAG CENTER DESIGN

Monument and Capitol Dome Win Favor as Contest Entries Gain.

Interesting arguments with reference to the center design to be used in the District of Columbia flag have been elicited in the contest now being conducted by The Washington Post in its effort to obtain a suitable emblem for the city.

The consensus as expressed by contestants who already have submitted designs is that the colors used in the flag should be red, white and blue but the question seems to be the most representative monument or statue for the center—one that would at a glance identify the flag in people's minds.

A picture of the Capitol dome in the center of the emblem seems to be in the lead now, and the reason expressed for its selection is that the building is such a glorious inspiration to those visiting Washington and a sight never to be forgotten. As William H. T. Fowles states in a letter accompanying his design, "No matter where displayed or flown, it could not possibly be mistaken."

Next in line is the Washington Monument, which makes a very impressive, distinctive and original flag design for Washington. One reason for its selection is expressed by C. I. Schofield, as follows: "I think the monument a more appropriate symbol for the District of Columbia than the Capitol dome, which belongs to the United States at large."

Then there are those who would like to see honor done to George Washington and the reason for this selection is very aptly stated by F. X. Hollenberger, Ph. D.: "George Washington was really the President under which the District was begun. Therefore it is proper to have his personal insignia in the flag, and especially since the District was named after him."

So, contestants, make up a design and send it in to the flag contest editor of The Washington Post and compete for the $25 being offered for the one selected by the judges. Make the drawing in black and white, so that it may be reproduced in The Post, and describe the color scheme in an accompanying letter.

DESIGN FOR DISTRICT FLAG

Sumner E. W. Kittelle, 2229 California street northwest, has submitted the above design for a flag to be adopted as the District of Columbia emblem following The Post's contest to determine the most appropriate design.

lic demonstrations of a nature likely to disturb the peace.

Several disputes disclosed that the Poles and German Danzig residents were diametrically opposed as to facts and that no pacific solution was in sight. Hopes were expressed for more conciliatory attitudes at the next council session.

The council concludes its sessions tomorrow by trying to clean up on minorities questions.

Paris, May 22 (A.P.).—France's foreign minister, Aristide Briand, was welcomed with wildest enthusiasm by a solid mass of admirers, both men and women, when his train arrived here from Geneva at 10:30 o'clock tonight.

Police Disperse Rioters.

Later several persons were slightly hurt in a free-for-all fight which occurred in a large cafe where anti-Briand shouts were heard. A crowd stormed the establishment and administered what the French call "correction" to the unsympathetic manifestants.

For a time tables, chairs and glasses flew from all directions, and police reinforcements were rushed to the cafe to restore peace. They induced the disturbers to disperse.

Amid shouts of "Vive Briand," heard for blocks, the smiling foreign minister stepped from the train into the arms of four stalwart policemen, who sought by force to open a lane through the crowd.

Decision Likely Tuesday.

One delegation of women representing a score of organizations, who had come to urge the foreign minister to remain in office and continue his crusade for world peace, were unable to make themselves heard. They could only thrust several large bouquets into his hands before they were swept aside by others seeking to welcome the minister.

Other officials, including President Doumergue, President-elect Doumer and Premier Laval, are expected to press Briand to retain his portfolio.

No official decision is anticipated before Tuesday's meeting of the council of ministers.

Briand was still pale and trembling from the buffeting at the station when he arrived at his official residence at the Quai d'Orsay.

A few persons lingering outside raised cheers for the foreign minister and for peace as he mounted the steps into an antechamber, which was filled with flowers sent by admirers. He made no public statement except to say he was highly satisfied with results obtained at Geneva.

LABOR SHOOTING BELIEVED PLOT TO BALK FUND MISUSE QUIZ

ties in the union's accounts have been found by the international officers, it is said, and the officers were in the midst of an attempt to insure the union against possible loss when the gunman attacked them at the Robin Hood Cafeteria, Tenth and K streets northwest, Wednesday.

These efforts are being continued in conjunction with bonding concerns and banks, it is understood.

Officials Face Court Action.

While the probe of union funds was under way, Huddell and Possehl themselves became involved in litigation arising from charges by suspended members that the officials had misused their power and had conspired to misappropriate funds. Several suits filed in this connection have been dismissed, but another is pending in the Court of Appeals.

Col. James Easby-Smith, attorney for the union, said yesterday that litigation was started by nineteen suspended members of the organization in New York, Boston, Chicago and Cleveland.

Five members were suspended by the Washington local, he said, but at first they brought suit individually in the District Supreme Court. These suits were defeated, Col. Smith said.

The nineteen from the four outside cities were grouped together by Samuel Untemeyer, of New York, who filed suit for them in the Washington courts. At present four of the five suspended members from Washington are attempting to intervene in the suits of the nineteen as participants on the part of the plaintiffs, he said, adding that these men are William I. Green, Robert Ely, Walter O. Cox, and Jesse L. Bray.

Clique Has Financial Backing.

The attorney declared that the longest suspension of any of the 24 men involved was for six months and that the suspension periods have long since expired and the men could have been reinstated at any time they saw fit to take the proper steps. He said they were not suspended until after a proper investigation reported misconduct in office in the local unions, and that they had been suspended by proper authority.

He said that the 24 men represent the only dissenters in a union which numbers 40,000. The clique has extensive financial backing from some unknown source, however, according to Col. Easby-Smith.

Meanwhile, as investigations, rumors, charges and counter charges fly in case, Langdon, the wounded editor, fights for his life at Emergency Hospital. Some improvement was noted in his condition yesterday, and he has a chance for life, but an operation was necessarily performed which cost him the sight of one eye. One of the bullets which struck him passed through his skull and out the eye.

Three men were arrested yesterday by Detectives R. D. Bryant and Henry Rinke, of the Second Precinct, for questioning in connection with the case. They gave their names as Clarence B. Rochenbaugh, 48, of Kennedy street northwest near Ninth; Dennis Southern, 50, of Prospect street northwest near Bank; and Norman W. Jacobs, 26, of Florida avenue northeast near Sixth street.

Front Royal, Va., May 22.—Cass Rust, retired business man, a lifelong citizen of this place, died last night at his home on Virginia avenue after a short illness of pneumonia. He was 70 years old and is survived by his wife, Mrs. Gertrude Weaver Rust; one daughter, Mrs. Brooke Smith, of Baltimore, Md.; four sons, Robert Rust, of Flint Hill, Va.; John and George, of Kansas City, and Harry, of Oklahoma; one sister, Mrs. R. E. Miller, of Rappahannock County, Va., and a brother, W. O. Rust, of this place.

Funeral services will be held from the Baptist Church Sunday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Walter Burton. Interment will be in Prospect Hill Cemetery.

Baltimore Holds Youth For Holdup in Florida

Baltimore, Md., May 22 (A.P.).—Harold Moore, 19, of Albany, Ind., was held in $2,000 bail today by a police magistrate for Florida authorities after he had admitted, authorities said, he was wanted in Jacksonville for a theater holdup several months ago.

Moore told police he and a companion held up the ticket seller at the theater and made their escape with $116.

GAG ON WAR NEWS URGED BY SWOPE

Former Editor Presents Plan to Replace Information With Propaganda.

(Associated Press.)

Plans for controlling public opinion in time of war through censorship and propaganda were presented to the War Policies Commission at its concluding public session yesterday by Herbert Bayard Swope, former editor of the New York World.

The commission completed its hearings in search of a plan for taking the profit out of war and will not meet again until fall, when it will begin to work out a report for presentation to Congress in December.

Bernard M. Baruch, former chairman of the War Industries Board, appeared at the final session to elaborate upon his plan, presented early in the hearings, for "freezing" all prices at the outbreak of a conflict.

A plan for drafting capital by limiting its war-time profits, through taxation, to 1 1-3 per cent, was proposed by Senator Brookhart (Republican), Iowa. He described Mr. Baruch's price-freezing plan as "an impossible thing that would never get anywhere."

Mr. Swope contended: "Wars are not won by guns, but by spirit. Public opinion must be dealt with in time of war just as raw materials, capital and men are conscripted or controlled.

"Enlightened and informed public opinion in war is ideal, but the plan is dangerous. Censorship must prevail."

He proposed a licensing system, operated by a central group composed of members of the press, periodical and book publishers, radio systems and representatives of the Army, Navy and State Departments, to censor all publications, and the creation to a Cabinet post to preserve morale through propaganda.

U. S. Arms Cut Delegates May Be Headed by Kellogg

(Associated Press.)

Frank B. Kellogg, former Secretary of State and now judge of the Permanent Court of International Justice, was mentioned last night in official circles as a possible delegate to the general disarmament conference next year.

The State Department has completed a mass of data requested by the League of Nations as a part of the preliminary preparations for the conference which will seek to limit the world's sea, land and air forces.

Senator Morrow (Republican), New Jersey, one of the American delegates to the London Naval Conference, and Hugh S. Gibson, ambassador to Belgium and a leader of America's efforts to cooperate with the league's preparatory work for the general conference, have been conferring for two days with Secretary Stimson. It was considered possible by some officials that President Hoover would approach Judge Kellogg on heading the delegation.

Graduates Guests Of Manassas Club

Kiwanians Entertain for Members of 4 Classes at Parish House.

The Kiwanis Club of Manassas, Va., last night entertained 60 members of the graduating classes of the high schools of Manassas, Haymarket, Brentwood District School and the Occoquan District School at the parish house of the Trinity Episcopal Church, Manassas.

Dr. C. R. C. Hayden, president of the club, presided. Eli Swavely, director of the Swavely School, of Manassas, gave the principal address.

Dorothy Hoyt, of Occoquan, gave a recitation. Grace Swank, of the Brentwood School, read a paper, "The New Era," and Sylvia Showalter expressed the thanks of the students to the Kiwanis Club. Group singing was led by C. Raymond Ratcliffe, accompanied by Mary Waters.

PROSECUTION NEARS END IN HAYNES CASE

Government Will Call More Witnesses to Stand on Monday.

The announced program of the Government that it would complete its prosecution in the case of Harry V. Haynes failed to materialize yesterday with the result that Monday morning United States Attorney Leo A. Rover will have to send more witnesses before the jury.

E. J. Armbruster, Department of Justice agent, yesterday concluded his analysis of the exhibits relating to each of the fourteen counts in the indictment against Haynes. There are three more Government witnesses to be heard and then H. Winship Wheatley will take up the task of placing Haynes' defense before the court.

That Haynes, former bank president, would take the stand in his own defense was the expectation of his attorney. An attempt will be made to "sell Haynes to the jury" in addition to the contention of his counsel that others besides Haynes might have been responsible for certain conditions found in the bank by national examiners.

Should Haynes take the stand it is expected that he will be submitted to a gruelling examination by Mr. Rover. The myriad of exhibits will be placed before him and he will be asked to explain their circumstances.

Mary Wood College Student Wins $300

Baltimore, May 22 (A.P.).—Miss Marie Scanlon, Tobyhanna, Pa., a student at Mary Wood College, was announced today as the winner of the $300 first prize in an essay contest open to students of Catholic colleges. The award was announced at the annual convention of the Catholic Press Association.

Miss Genevieve Kunkel, Baltimore, student at Notre Dame of Maryland, won the $200 second prize.

Kin Sued for Divorce As Capitalist Expires

Reno, Nev., May 22 (A.P.).—Edward Thomas Bedford 2d, nephew of Edward Thomas Bedford, capitalist and philanthropist who died yesterday at his summer home near Westport, Conn., was sued for divorce here yesterday by Gertrude Robertson Bedford.

Mrs. Bedford charged her husband was quarrelsome and antagonistic. They were married September 20, 1921.

Building Quiz Plea Rejected by Capper

Central Labor Union Told Gotwals' Inquiry Has Been Satisfactory.

Senator Arthur Capper, chairman of the Senate District committee, from his home in Topeka, Kans., yesterday turned down the request of the Central Labor Union here that the committee thoroughly investigate the controversy over methods involved in school building construction in Washington.

He said he had received a lengthy report from Maj. John C. Gotwals, Engineer Commissioner of the District, in reply to his recent request for information concerning accidents and injuries at the Stuart Junior High School and the Roosevelt High School.

"I think Maj. Gotwals' position on the matter is satisfactory," Senator Capper declared. "I believe he is doing everything he can to obtain the facts and I have confidence that he will take whatever action or precaution is necessary. At any rate, we will let the matter stand for a while so far as the District committee is concerned."

COUNT WILL DECIDE PARK SPAN ACTION

Commission Orders Traffic Census Be Taken at Highway Bridge.

The National Capital Park and Planning Commission yesterday instructed its coordinating committee to make a traffic study of the Fourteenth street approach to the Highway Bridge and adjacent park roads to ascertain the feasibility of proposals to construct an overpass at the East Potomac Park outlet and to extend Fifteenth street to the Tidal Basin.

This action followed a prolonged discussion of the traffic problem in this area during which Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, chief engineer of the District Highway Department, and William A. Van Duzer, newly appointed traffic director, were called into the conference.

The overpass proposal is being pushed chiefly by the District Highway Department as a solution to the traffic congestion at Fourteenth street and the East Potomac Park outlet road, while the Fifteenth street extension has been proposed by engineers of the Park and Planning Commission.

The coordinating committee, of which Capt. E. N. Chisolm, jr., is chairman, with the aid of the commission staff, will make a count at the bridge entrance, the East Potomac Park outlet and other park roads, and at Fourteenth and Water streets. The data likely will be used in arguments before congressional hearings.

Following a discussion of appraisals of proposed park land in Maryland just north of the District line, the commission designated Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, executive director, and Maj. C. Y. Stewart as a committee with executive authority to confer with a committee from the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission regarding purchases.

The remainder of the session yesterday was taken up with land purchases. This will continue this morning.

Physician Is Slain By Neighbor's Shots

Piedmont, Ala., May 22 (A.P.).—Dr. J. D. Morris, prominent physician and land owner, was shot six times and killed at his farm near here today by Thomas Lane, a neighbor, who surrendered. Lane told authorities he killed the physician because they could not get along.

Police said they were told several days ago by Lane's brother, Collie Lane, that he was demented. They also quoted neighbors of Lane as saying he had been going about the community telling residents "Dr. Morris is putting poison in the air."

Tobacco Price-Fixing Evidence Held Lacking

(United Press.)

The Federal Trade Commission's investigation of charges alleging antitrust law violations by tobacco buyers resulted yesterday in a finding of "no evidence of collusion among manufacturers in price fixing."

The report also listed several factors said to be contributing to financial distress among tobacco growers, including overproduction, lack of systematized grading, antiquated marketing methods, lack of adequate market reports and absence of cooperation between the grower and the manufacturer. It was recommended that the Secretary of Agriculture be authorized to enforce a standard grading system on tobacco offered for sale.

MRS. NOBLE IS FREE IN BLACKMAIL TRIAL

Judge Is Expected to Deny Mistrial Request of Four Other Defendants.

A ruling of Justice Jesse Adkins yesterday cleared Mrs. Emile B. Noble, one of those indicted for conspiring to blackmail Capt. and Mrs. C. C. Calhoun, of any complicity in the alleged conspiracy. He directed that the jury bring in a verdict acquitting Mrs. Noble, and she was immediately freed from any connection with the indictment.

At the same time, Justice Adkins said that he would postpone until Monday his ruling on the request of defense counsel for a mistrial on the grounds of intimidation of a witness. He indicated, however, defense attorneys said, that he would not grant the mistrial Monday.

A rift in the lute between Mrs. Anna Hillenbrand, one of the four remaining defendants, and her counsel, was indicated when Paul Sedgewick asked permission of the court to withdraw from the case. He had previously joined with the others in asking a mistrial, and when Mrs. Hillenbrand later asked that the motion insofar as it pertained to her, be withdrawn, the attorney was placed in the position where he would have to about-face.

The defendants now are W. Clark Noble, James F. Bird, Stephen Armstrong, jr., and Mrs. Hillenbrand.

Defense counsel yesterday indicated that they expected to take ten days to present their case, which will probably start Monday.

103,000-Gallon Still Is Seized in New York

New York, May 22 (A.P.).—A 103,000-gallon still, the largest, Federal men said, ever seized in America, was confiscated by Government men today in the old Consumers Brewery at 42 Sutton place—in the heart of the socially distinguished section.

Two prisoners were taken by the eight Federal agents who conducted the raid. The seizure included 80 gallons of molasses mash and a huge quantity of alcohol.

Harmony Sought In Park Activities

Three Agencies Here Given Service of Advisory Committee.

As a means of effecting closer coordination among the three District agencies directing administration of parks and playgrounds, the District Commissioners yesterday announced organization of an advisory committee.

The agencies whose work thus will be brought in closer harmony are the District playgrounds department, the Community Center department of the public schools and the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks. Two laymen also were named on the committee to represent the public.

E. C. Graham, a layman, was designated chairman of the group, which includes Maj. Donald A. Davison, Assistant Engineer Commissioner; S. E. Kramer, assistant superintendent of schools; Lieut. F. B. Butler, assistant director of public buildings and public parks, and Col. West A. Hamilton.

Little Likelihood Seen For Borah's Conference

(Associated Press.)

Senator Borah, of Idaho, said yesterday that American business leaders seem to take kindly to his suggestion for an "unmanaged" conference to discuss the legislative program due for consideration by Congress next session. There appears to be little likelihood of harnessing the sentiment for the conference into definite action, however.

Senator Borah said it would be a mistake for any one in Washington, most of all any political leader, to direct the proposed conference or even participate in it.

wRider Rescues Horse From Bed of Creek

The Fire Rescue Squad was called late yesterday to rescue a horse, which slipepd from the bridle path in Rock Creek Park near Sixteenth street. However, before the squad's arrival Maj. Donald Armstrong, the rider, had waded into the creek and extricated the horse.

Maj. Armstrong was riding the mount on the bridle path when it slipped in the soft mud. Maj. Armstrong was thrown, but was uninjured. The horse slid down the bank and against a rock, whence it was rescued.

Staunton Cadets Open Week's Training Camp

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., May 22.—Nearly 600 cadets of Staunton Military Academy, representing virtually every American State and several foreign countries, went into their fifth annual camp at Rouss Park here today for a week's intensive military training, a part of the academic curriculum.

Maj. H. L. Taylor, U. S. A., is in command. Col. Thomas H. Russell, superintendent, heads the faculty of 40. Maj. Thomas Beardsworth directs the cadet band of 60 pieces.

Miners Await Result Of Red Cross Appeal

Charleston, W. Va., May 22 (A.P.).—Back in their cabins in the West Virginia hills, where, they said, "there are children who haven't had food for three days," Kelly's Creek miners today were hopefully waiting for their "hunger march" of yesterday to bear fruit.

Tramping to Charleston, the men sent an appeal to the American Red Cross in Washington. Last night they received a reply. They were advised to make known their needs to agencies in this district.

BEAUTY BECKONING AT WOODLAND BEACH

The Post Invites You to See New Development and Enjoy Outing.

Warm spring days. A longing for the country air. A desire for hours along the water, with a cool breeze fanning your face. An appeal from the woods that must be answered. The family car running smoothly and asking to be driven some place.

What a combination. And what better way to satisfy all these yearnings than a trip to Woodland Beach tomorrow, to inspect the site of your future summer home and enjoy with hundreds of others, the beauties and advantages offered at this new development.

The Washington Post, which is sponsoring the Woodland Beach development, cordially invites you to visit the Beach tomorrow to spend as much time as you desire. The Post feels that you will be well repaid for your time.

How to Get to Beach.

Gather up the members of the family, pack a big lunch for the youngsters, hop in the old bus and start right out. Take the Defense highway toward Annapolis, turning right at Camp Parole. After leaving Defense highway follow Maryland State route No. 2 across the South River bridge, then left onto Mayo road. Follow Mayo road until you reach Woodland Beach—which can not be missed. It is just 32 miles of delightful driving with many pleasant surprises at the end of the journey.

If driving does not appeal to you and you wish to visit Woodland Beach, take a Washington, Baltimore and Annapolis traction car to Camp Parole. From 9 o'clock in the morning until dark, the Post will have automobiles meet each car at Camp Parole to escort visitors to the summer home site and return them to the traction line.

Another suggestion which those of you who have not purchased lots at Woodland Beach may find highly satisfactory is to visit The Post this morning, look over the charts of the development and pick out your lot. Then when you make your visit to Woodland Beach tomorrow you will realize the charms and enchantment of the location you have picked.

Combination of Delights.

Remember Woodland Beach offers you a combination of delights seldom to be found in any such summer home development. For the lovers of sport the beach has boating, bathing and swimming. For those who like to commune with nature there are wooded knolls, beckoning coves and fascinating shaded nooks. For those interested in the formation of a pleasant community of summer home owners the work being done on the development will be attraction enough.

One of the features of Woodland Beach will be a community clubhouse, now in the course of construction, which will be deeded to an association of lot owners, planned for later on.

Securing a lot at Woodland Beach is very simple and inexpensive. The first requirement is a subscription to The Washington Post. After that a down payment of $9 permits the selection of a lot, and then the balance may be paid in easy monthly installments of $3.50 each until the amount has been paid.

Visit The Washington Post today and learn the details of this great offer, or else take a trip to the beach tomorrow and see for yourself. A large corps of courteous salesmen will be on the ground all day to inform visitors on all phases of the development.

Postal Men Assail Promotions Delay

Clerks' Official Complains to Hoover That Capital Denies Pay Increases.

A protest against the policy of the Postoffice Department in withholding special clerk promotions in the postal service has been made to President Hoover by Thomas F. Flaherty, secretary-treasurer of the National Federation of Postoffice Clerks.

According to Mr. Flaherty, the Postoffice Department officials have taken advantage of a technicality in the law to deny promotions to nearly 1,000 clerks in the $2,100 salary grade who, ordinarily, would be promoted into the $2,200 grade, and then a year later, into the $2,300 grade.

"Government officials are constantly urging private employers to avoid wage slashing," said Mr. Flaherty. "This action on the part of the Postoffice Department in denying earned salary increases to approximately 1,000 clerks is at variance with the doctrine preached by administration leaders."

Gandhi May Delay London Meeting

Mahatma Refuses to Leave India Until Present Issues Are Solved.

Simla, India, May 22 (A.P.).—Arrangements for the Federal structures committee meeting in London on June 29 preceding the Indian round table conference were upset today by Mahatma Gandhi, the Nationalist leader, who said he could not attend on that date.

Gandhi notified Viceroy Lord Willingdon that he had not receded from his original intention to remain in India until the Hindu-Moslem communal problem is solved and all of the government's obligations under the Delhi pact are fulfilled.

It generally is believed here that the other Indian delegates to the round table conference will not go to London without Gandhi, in which case Premier MacDonald is thought likely to postpone the meeting.

Examinations Ended By 2,000 Midshipmen

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., May 22.—Final examinations of the academic term were completed for approximately 2,000 midshipmen today. Books have been cast aside, for there will be no more regular study hours or recitation periods, but academic routine will remain in full force.

Next Friday will see inauguration of a program of drills, practical exercises and other events leading up to commencement day, June 4.

ON PROGRAM

RENICK W. DUNLAP,
Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, who will speak on "Some Advantages of Rural Life" at the 11 o'clock service tomorrow morning, at Woodside Methodist Church, Woodside, Md.

MIGHTY AIR ARMADA SOARS OVER CAPITAL

Vanguard of Planes on Way to New York Tarries Here Briefly.

The skies above Washington yesterday resounded with the drone of a mighty aerial armada as 71 observation planes, the vanguard of an even greater host, passed over the city en route to "attack" New York.

Hopping off from Dayton early this morning, the observation group of 71 planes made a brief stop at Bolling Field before it again took flight to carry out orders in the greatest peace-time aerial drama in history.

In addition, 600 other craft yesterday were in flight from Dayton to other points in the New York concentration area. They were spread out over a 300-mile front.

The first detachment of observation planes, comprising the 104th group, commanded by Maj. L. H. Brereton, commandant of the post field at Fort Sill, Okla., arrived at the Army Air Field a few moments after 9:30 a. m. After nearly 100 gallons of fuel were put into each plane, the entire detachment was off again at 11:30.

At 11:45 the next observation group was over the field, piloted by young fliers, in training at Kelly Field, San Antonio, Tex. The flight from Dayton to Washington was said to have been the most gruelling test they have met in training.

fifteen and alighted with precision at positions marked off by chalked lines.

The remaining squadrons arrived in the following order:

Twentieth Pursuit, with 57 ships, at Valley Stream; 104th Observation, with 39 planes, at Mitchell; 101st Pursuit with 57 planes, at Valley Stream; 152d Observation with 50 planes, at Mitchell; First Pursuit with 76 planes, at Valley Stream; Thirty-first Transport, at Roosevelt No. 2; Second Bombardment with 38 ships, at Roosevelt No. 1; Third Attack with 51 planes, at Farmingdale; Headquarters with 3 planes, at Mitchell Field.

A crowd of several hundred persons, considerably below the expectations of the advance guard which arrived to make arrangements several days ago, lined the field.

Gen. Foulois said he was pleased with the conduct of the maneuvers thus far.

"The principal thing learned," he said, "is the possibility of use of commercial fields. We have found them equal to our demand in every particular."

Gen. Foulois said he believed the present concentration would probably be the largest this country would see for several years. "The Air Corps is at full allotted strength," he added, "and it is doubtful if it will be enlarged greatly in the near future."

At 1:30 tomorrow afternoon the entire assemblage will go into action. Flying in squadrons, the 671 ships will head for the north shore of Long Island, proceed eastward across Oyster Bay and then fly across the sound into Connecticut. They will then push northwestward to a point near Peekskill, where they will loaf around in the air until every one is present.

Then the Army Air Corps will string out in a parade from 10 to 20 miles long. Straight down the Hudson they will fly, past the Sing Sing Prison, past Tarrytown and Dobbs Ferry and Yonkers. They will skirt the edge of Manhattan and fly directly over the river to the Battery and across Governors Island.

Once over New York Bay, the leaders will swing the sky parade through the channel and past Coney Island to Floyd Bennett Airport, on Barren Island. The flight will be reviewed by Army officers and other dignitaries at the airport, which is to be dedicated to one of the country's most daring airmen.

Then, having dipped their noses in salute to their commanders, the ships will go back to their berths for another rest before sailing away to Boston and New England.

The panoramic scene will be broadcast by three radio stations and witnessed by upward of 6,000,000 people.

Dr. Phoebus Levene Wins Gibbs Medal

Chicago, May 22 (A.P.).—Dr. Phoebus A. Levene, of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, New York, tonight was awarded the Willard Gibbs Medal, one of the highest distinctions in chemical science, by the Chicago section of the American Chemical Society.

At the presentation, Profs Fred C. Koch, of the University of Chicago, designated Dr. Levene as "the outstanding American worker in the application of organic chemistry to biological problems," for his investigations into the nature of nucleic acids.

Barnes, Circus Man, Seriously Ill.

Indigo, Calif., May 22 (A.P.).—Al G. Barnes, veteran circus owner, was dangerously ill in the Community Hospital here today, following a severe attack of pleural pneumonia. Dr. Russell M. Grey said Barnes' lungs would be tapped in an effort to save his life.

DR. KOBER'S ESTATE VALUED AT $397,355

Mrs. Lizzie Leclerc Is Given Income for Life Under Terms of Will.

The will of Dr. George M. Kober, dean emeritus of the Georgetown University Medical School, filed for probate yesterday by the Washington Loan & Trust Co., named as executor and trustee, shows that he was possessed of real estate valued at $62,119 and personal property of $335,236.49 at the time of his death April 24.

Dr. Kober is survived by Mrs. Lizzie Leclerc, 1819 Q street northwest, and a number of relatives here and in Germany. Mrs. Leclerc is to have the income from the whole estate for life, and then the estate is to be split up among Henry Kober, who gets $15,000; Florence L. Page, $20,000; Katie Juchatz, $10,000; Mary Link, $10,000; Henriette Seedorf, $9,000; Dora Zehner, $10,000; George, William and Charles Hilkemeier, $8,000 each; Lizzie Otten, $10,000; William P. Habel, $7,000; Amelia Lins, $8,000; W. P. Herbst and Lizzie Bryant, $20,000 each; G. M. Kober, $5,500; and Martin Habel and Lee K. Habel, $5,000 each.

Georgetown University is given the income of $10,000 for a student loan fund for the medical school, and the hospital is given the income of $10,000. The District Medical Society gets a $6,000 fund, the income of which goes to needy or infirm physicians here. Bequests of $5,000 are given the Children's Hospital, Concordia Lutheran Church, Instructive Visiting Nurse Society, German Orphan Asylum, and Tuberculosis Association. Salvation Army, Neighborhood House and Saengerbund are given $500 each.

A gift of $10,000 is given a Masonic lodge in Fort Bidwell, Calif., and the burgomaster of Alsfeld, Hessen, Germany, is given the income from $10,000 for the benefit of sick people of that place. One hundred shares of the Washington Sanitary Improvement Company is given the District Commissioners, who are to use the income for prizes for student nurses at Gallinger Hospital, and the other half for domestic science pupils in the public schools.

What is left is to be divided among 33 relatives.

FREEDOM IS GRANTED ALL CREEDS BY SPAIN

ernment and they can worship in any way they see fit, provided they do not disturb public order.

Coincident with the religious freedom decree the cabinet tonight also decided that public schools in the future will not be required to keep the Catholic religion. Children will receive religious instruction only when their parents demand it.

Another decree passed tonight limited the sale and disposition of objects of Spanish art and literature, many of which are owned by the Catholic Church. These objects now can be sold only with permission of the government.

Tonight's important decree comes upon the heels of widespread anti-church agitations during which much church property recently was attacked and burned in various sections of the country.

The disorders started twelve days ago when Monarchists and Republicans clashed in the streets of Madrid and threats were made against the lives of some of the Monarchists.

During the next two days the riots spread to other cities and took the form of attacks against church property. Churches, monasteries and asylums were burned and looted.

Many monks and nuns sought refuge with their friends and some left the country. During the past few days the disorders had almost ceased and quiet was restored.

Last week the government announced that moves would be made to hold the exiled King Alfonso and certain of his followers responsible for inciting the disorders.

A few days ago Pope Pius described the burning of religious houses as "sacrileges against God and holy religion." He added that there was a great responsibility on those who have caused these "unhappy things."

Papal Nuncio Tedeschini has been conferring with President Alcala Zamora during the past few days, presumably over a protest from Vatican City in regard to the attacks against church property. There have been no official statements about these discussions.

Meanwhile, the newspaper La Voz in an editorial said that there were reports from Vatican City that Luis de Zulueta, newly designated Spanish Ambassador to the Holy See, was persona non grata there.

Cardinal Scouts Fear Of Communism in Spain

New York, May 22 (A.P.).—Cardinal Mundelein, of Chicago, arrived today from Rome, expressing regret at the Spanish revolution.

"It's rather a pity to have upset things just now," he said. "Spain was fairly prosperous. It is the general opinion throughout Europe that the country lost a pretty good sort of ruler and that Alfonso acted very much the gentleman in the crisis."

The next year, he said, will show whether Spain is ripe for a republic. He scouted the idea that Communists might gain control, praising the Spanish people as level headed and sensible. In trying times various elements rise to the top, he said, but are soon "skimmed off" or drop to the bottom again.

The cardinal went abroad six weeks ago for the inauguration of the new Propaganda Fide College, a $1,500,000 institution for the training of missionaries.

"The occasion was made doubly solemn," the cardinal said, "by the unexpected appearance of Pope Pius XI himself to dedicate the college." It was the second time since 1870 that a Pope left Vatican territory.

Gov. Ritchie Narrowly Escapes in Car Wreck

Richmond, Va., May 22 (A.P.).—Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland escaped unhurt in an automobile accident near here this afternoon as he was en route to Richmond to attend the funeral of his aunt, Mrs. Mannie Enders Cabell.

The car skidded from the highway at a point where the road was under repair, plunged through thick underbrush for about 30 feet and struck two trees. Gov. Ritchie and his party, none of whom was reported hurt, completed their trip here in another car.

7 YEARS HERE

REV. GODFREY CHOBOT.

Pastor to Observe 7th Anniversary

Rev. Godfrey Chobot Will Deliver Special Sermon Tomorrow.

Seven years ago, on May 20, the Washington Presbytery installed the Rev. Godfrey Chobot in the pastorate of the Sixth Presbyterian Church. Tomorrow Mr. Chobot will celebrate that anniversary with a special program and a special sermon.

During this brief pastorate Mr. Chobot's congregation has built a beautiful Gothic church at Sixteenth and Kennedy streets northwest. They have grown in other ways under his stimulating and inspiring ministry.

The Sixth Presbyterian Church is an old congregation. For a great many years it was in the Southwest section of the city. For a long time after its membership moved from that neighborhood they stood true to the old house. Eventually, however, it was found desirable to move, and the present location was selected, on the avenue of churches.

Mr. Chobot came to Washington from New York. He is of French extraction—his name is pronounced "Ko-bot," with the accent on the first syllable. He is one of the best liked members of the Presbytery, which contains among its members an Englishman, an Irishman, a German, a Hollander, a Canadian, Scotchman, and mybe some other nationals. All of them, however, are good Americans and blue stocking Presbyterians.—D. R. B.

Church Music Council Concert on Wednesday

The Washington Church Music Council will present a sacred concert at the National City Christian Church at 8 o'clock on Wednesday. The choirs from the National City Christian Church, William E. Braithwaite, director; the Mount Vernon Place M. E. Church South, R. Deane Shure, director; the Calvary M. E. Church, Louis A. Potter, director, and the First Congregational Church, Mrs. Ruby Smith Stanl, director, will participate.

Each will render a group of numbers separately and unite in a massed chorus to give "The Heavens Are Telling," from "The Creation." Miss Charlotte Klein, dean of the District of Columbia Guild of Organists, will give selections on the organ.

POST, GATTY PLAN 10-DAY WORLD HOP

conditions permit, to Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, stopping there only long enough to refuel before attempting the longest leg of their venture, the 2,800 miles to Berlin.

Arriving yesterday from Oklahoma City, via Columbus, Ohio, Post and Gatty spent the day in last-minute conferences with aviation and government officials. Their primary purpose in coming to Washington was to apply, through the British Embassy, for authority to fly over Soviet Russia and Siberia. Permission was granted yesterday, however, shortly after they left Oklahoma City.

Arrangements also were made for an official check by the National Aeronautic Association of their departure from and return to New York City. Yesterday afternoon they visited Secretary Stimson, the British Embassy and the Soviet Union information office.

The departure from New York will culminate months of planning for the flight, which is sponsored by F. C. Hall, Oklahoma oil man. The fliers have reduced their equipment to a minimum. Every article not absolutely essential has been discarded, even to their parachutes and the engine starter.

The plane carries 540 gallons of gasoline, and with a cruising aped of 160 miles an hour they estimate they have "almost a 100 per cent margin" on fuel.

"We have probably the best-equipped plane ever used in such a flight," Post said.

"The motor is in perfect shape and never functioned smoother than on the flight from Oklahoma. We are absolutely ready and will leave New York the minute the weather looks right. After we get started we will go through almost any kind of weather."

Post, winner of last year's California-Chicago Air Derby, will handle the plane controls. Gatty, a graduate of the Australian Naval Academy, will navigate.

On the entire 4,000-mile flight they contemplate [illegible] only at Harbor Grace, Berlin, Moscow, Novo Sibirsk and Yakutsk, Siberia; Nome, Alaska; Edmonton, Alberta; Cleveland and New York. Gasoline and oil supplies at these points already have been arranged.

The fliers said the purpose of the flight was to lower the present round-the-world record held by the dirigible Graf Zeppelin.

"We want to take the record away from the balloons," Gatty said.

Late yesterday afternoon it developed that through a misunderstanding, no application had been made to Poland for permission to fly over her territory, and State Department officials arranged for this permission to be given the flyers when they reach Berlin.

The plane will carry a radio set with call letters KHRDW. It will have a transmitting frequency of 35½ meters, with 10-watt power. The fliers will be able to receive on either high or low wave lengths.

Oklahoma City, Okla., May 22 (A.P.).—F. C. Hall, oil man financing the proposed world flight of Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, said today he would arrive in New York Tuesday morning, and the fliers would depart for Harbor Grace, N. F., on the first leg of the flight the first day following that gave promise of favorable weather.

PREACHERS THRONG CONGRESS LIBRARY

Leading Clergymen May Be Found There Preparing Their Sermons.

Where do all the sermons come from? This is a question often in the minds of those who go to church and listen, Sunday after Sunday, to their minister as he preaches for them. Some of the ministers preach twice on Sunday; others only once; still others prepare two sermons, a Thursday evening lecture and a Bible class lesson.

This, it will be admitted by those who do intellectual work is a heavy task, when taken in connection with all the other work that the pastor of a city church has to do.

One wonders what time the ministers have in which to prepare their sermons and where they prepare them. If they remain at home and attempt to do their reading and studying there, every precious hour that should be devoted to that work is broken into by repeated telephone calls, or by visits. This is the lot of the average city pastor.

Big Library a Retreat.

Fortunately for those who labor in Washington, they have a retreat to which they can go and do their work without molestation. Beginning on Wednesday and continuing through Friday you will find the reading room of the Library of Congress filled with ministers of all denominations, their desks piled high with books and papers, their backs bent to their task, and their brows knitted in thought.

I have got so that I know a large number of them in this way alone. I know the day on which Dr. Allen A. Stockdale, minister of the First Congregational Church, comes to the library, where he sits, and from his friendly conversation the wide extent of his reading. His range of thought seems to belt the globe, and his sympathies are just as wide.

In a certain nook, where the theological works are assembled, I can find, on another day, the keen-eyed Rev. Gerhard E. Lenski, minister of Grace Lutheran Church, following the European habit of standing up and reading a book, fitting his position to the light as it travels through the reading room. Often he has one book in his hands and another under his arm, and just as often, when he leaves the library he carries with him, by special permission, of course, an armful of books.

Dr. McCartney There.

Some days, standing at the desk waiting for the delivery of his requested books I see Dr. Albert Joseph McCartney, minister of the Covenant First Presbyterian Church, his solid countenance absorbed in thought, he entirely unconscious that any one is near him.

Every day I am there I run into some very intelligent young Catholic priests, who evidently are not making sermons, but are reading up for quizzes on a course of lectures. Their book lists show the catholicity of their reading.

It is in the periodical room, however, standing at the racks and turning the pages of newspapers from everywhere, or seated at the tables reading current magazines of serious literature from this country and from Europe, that I oftenest find my ministerial friends. They do not limit themselves to secular literature alone, but range through a numerous lot of religious magazines, to find out what the current religious thought of the world is.

This, I wot, is where the sermons come from.—D. R. B.

K. of C. Convention Urged for District

National Order Is Invited to Meet Here in 1932; Officers Named.

An invitation to the national organization, Knights of Columbus, to hold its fiftieth anniversary convention in Washington next year was extended by the District order at the State council meeting held this week. Officers declared the convention here would attract upward of 50,000 members and friends.

It was announced that Columbus University, at its commencement exercises at the Mayflower Hotel, June 10, will confer the degree of doctor of laws upon Daniel J. Callahan, supreme treasurer and a director of the national board of directors of the Knights of Columbus.

Election of officers resulted as follows: Albert E. McCarty, State deputy; William G. Feely, past State deputy; Charles W. Dean, State secretary; Manning J. Wilcoxon, State treasurer; William A. Mulligan, State warden; Edward L. Tucker, State advocate, and the Rev. Francis X. Cavanagh, State chaplain.

CATHEDRAL SERVICE WILL HONOR COLORS

10,000 Tomorrow Will Witness Massing of 300 Flags in War Commemoration.

Tomorrow is Pentecost, the day in the church calendar when the Christian Church was born. It will be variously celebrated in Washington churches. The big celebration will be at the Washington Cathedral.

Delegations from virtually every veteran, military and patriotic organization in the District of Columbia, with members of the President's Cabinet, the Diplomatic Corps and high ranking officers of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps will assemble at 3:30 o'clock in the open-air amphitheater at the cathedral to pay tribute to the heroic dead of the Nation.

The Right. Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, will deliver a Memorial Day address and color guards from more than 100 participating societies will mass United States flags and emblems of their orders before the outdoor altar. A congregation of 10,000 is expected and thousands of others are to hear through the medium of the radio this annual commemoration of all who have fallen in defense of their country. It will be broadcast over Station WMAL.

Sponsored by Chapter.

The service is sponsored by the District of Columbia Chapter of the Military Order of the World War. The committee in charge is headed by Chaplain Arlington A. McCallum as chairman. Brig. Gen. John Ross Delafield, national commander of the order, is to attend. New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore chapters are expected to send flags and color guards.

The United States Marine Band will play patriotic and sacred airs during the first half hour of the function. During the service the band will provide instrumental accompaniment for congregational singing. A vested choir of 200 voices will take part. It will be directed by Edgar Priest, Washington Cathedral organist and choirmaster, and will include choirs from the cathedral, St. John's Church, St. Mark's Church, St. Paul's Church, St. Stephen's Church, the Church of the Good Shepherd and St. John's Church, Georgetown.

The order of service provides for special commemorative prayers for those who made the supreme sacrifice in all wars of the United States. Participating clergymen will include the Rev. Charles Dubell, of Philadelphia, national chaplain of the Military Order of the World War; Col. Julian E. Yates, chief of chaplains of the United States Army, and Capt. Sidney K. Evans, chief of chaplains of the United States Navy. The Rev. Dr. G. Freeland Peter, canon and chancellor of Washington Cathedral, will be master of ceremonies.

300 Flags to Be Carried.

More than 300 flags will be carried in the opening procession. The marchers, with their colors unfurled, will descend the pilgrim steps in view of the congregation, circle the amphitheater and proceed down the center aisle to the altar where the flags will be grouped during the progress of the service. Music for the procession will be provided by the 260th Coast Artillery, National Guard of the District of Columbia Drum and Bugle corps.

Nickie Badoni, 11-year-old mascot of the corps, will sound "Taps" at an impressive moment during the service. In previous years this service has been performed by noted Army buglers.

The procession will form in the cathedral grounds on Wisconsin avenue, north of St. Alban's Parish Church, under the direction of Maj. Walter W. Burns. Color guards of the various organizations have been asked to report to Maj. Burns not later than 3:15 o'clock. There will be marshals and aids for the several groups. The clergy and choir procession which will follow the flags will be formed in the cathedral chapels.

Synod of Baltimore To Meet in Frederick

The Synod of Baltimore and the Women's Synodical Society for Missions will hold its annual meeting at Hood College, Frederick, Md., June 18-19. A number of Washington Presbyterians will attend. Dr. Alfred H. Barrows and Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, of this city, are on the program.

Among the national leaders to be present are Dr. Joseph A. Vance, president of the Board of National Missions; Dr. Silas Evans, president of Ripon College; Miss Mary E. Moore, young people's secretary, Board of Foreign Missions; Dr. Herman N. Morse, representing Council of Home Missions; Dr. H. Augustine Smith, director of music and fine arts, Boston University, and the Rev. William Chalmers Covert, D. D., general secretary of the Board of Christian Education.

Evangelist Pennington Continues Revivals

Evangelist Edith Mae Pennington tomorrow begins the sixth week of the Gospel Crusade, which is being conducted under the auspices of the Full Gospel Tabernacle, of which the Rev. Harry L. Collier is pastor. The services at the Masonic Temple, on New York avenue, have attracted large crowds and the interest has been kept at a high point.

Accompanying the preaching service is a healing service at the Full Gospel Tabernacle on North Capitol street.

Presbyterians to Hear Charles Brandon Booth

Charles Brandon Booth, son of Gen. Ballington Booth, of the Salvation Army, will speak from the pulpit of Washington Heights Presbyterian Church tomorrow morning. For a number of years he was general secretary of the Big Brother movement, and lately has been national extension secretary of the Volunteers of America, which was founded by his parents.

Mr. Booth is said to have inherited some of the genius of his mother, Maude Ballington Booth, a preacher of note and power.

Vacation School Plans Under Way.

Plans for a number of vacation church schools are under way in the churches of Washington and vicinity. Some of these will be established and maintained by single congregations, others will be in the nature of community schools, several churches of different denominations cooperating in order to have a larger and more efficient work.

DECORATED

VERY REV. FATHER GINDLIN,

of the Russian Orthodox Greek Catholic Church and the Russian Orthodox City Mission in Washington, who has been in charge of this unique work here for six and one-half years, has had bestowed upon him the rare decoration of the Crown of Tharus of Jerusalem, through the officials at Versailles, France, for his services in bringing about church unity. During this period he has also acted as chaplain of the Royal Jugoslav Legation, representing the Serbian Church.

Divinity of Jesus Theme of Dr. Shelton

Dr. W. A. Shelton, pastor of Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church South, will discuss the eternal question of the divinity of Jesus in his sermon tomorrow morning.

For a number of years he was a teacher of the Bible at Emory University, and has written a number of books on Bible themes. His exegetical sermons have attracted much attention since he came to Washington.

Chevy Chase Service To Hear Dr. Kinsman

Dr. D. O. Kinsman, of the American University, who has recently traveled and studied in Russia, will speak at the union evening service of the Chevy Chase churches.

The service will be held in the Wesley Methodist Episcopal Church at 8 o'clock. Dr. J. Phelps Hand, pastor, will preside.

DR. HARMON CALLED TO PASTORATE HERE

Indianapolis Minister to Fill Dr. Wilfley's Pulpit for Six Months.

Dr. H. H. Harmon, of Indianapolis, has been called, by a unanimous vote of the official board of the National City Christian Church, to assume the pastorate of that church for a period of six months. This action was taken in order that Dr. Earle Wilfley, the regular pastor, might be granted further time for recuperation from a recent illness.

Dr. Harmon is secretary of promotion and endowments of the board of education, Disciples of Christ, the duties of this position including direction of the National City Christian Church crusade, which assembled the funds for the new church building on Thomas Circle. He is, therefore, well known not only to the members of the local congregation but to members and friends of the Christian Church throughout the country. This feature is especially fortunate, as thousands of these members and friends from outside of Washington visit the National City Church during the course of each year.

Dr. Harmon is a forceful speaker of the old school, and is also an organizer of recognized ability, and the knowledge that he has consented to carry on the work of the Washington church has been received with universal approval.

During the World War Dr. Harmon served in France with the Second Division, A. E. F., as divisional secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and prior to this had preached for three years in David City, Nebr., six years in Columbus, Ind., and for nearly eighteen years in Lincoln, Nebr. In the latter city he filled the pulpit of the First Christian Church, one of the outstanding Protestant churches of the Middle West.

His many years of experience in the pulpit and in religious educational work have ideally fitted him to take up and carry on the ambitious program of the National City Christian Church, the active promotion of which has been seriously handicapped during Dr. Wilfley's illness.

Unitarians End Boston Session

Filipino Church Took Part in Deliberation, Says Dr. Pierce.

Dr. Ulysses G. B. Pierce, minister of All Souls' Unitarian Church, has returned from Boston, where he attended the annual meeting of the American Unitarian Association, of which he is a director.

This was one of the most important meetings of this association held in recent years. One of its striking features was the presence and participation of the representative of the Filipino Independent Church, which, with three million members, has recently adopted the Unitarian position.

Resolutions were adopted taking strong ground on the subject of unemployment, disarmament, the renunciation of war, air maneuvers and temperance education.

In addition to Dr. and Mrs. Pierce, the following members of All Souls' congregation were in attendance: Mrs. Fred G. Harden, Dr. Julia M. Green, Dr. H. Barrett Learned and Mr. Laurence C. Staples.

Luther Place Church To Admit 50 Members

Pentecost at Luther Place Memorial Church, of which the Rev. Carl C. Rasmussen is pastor, will be marked alike by meditations upon its significance as the birthday of the Christian Church and by the reception of another large group of new members.

At the 11 a. m. service approximately 50 new members will be received into the fellowship of the congregation. This will bring the total number of new members received between June 1 of last year and May 24 of this year up to a total of 450, and will give the church a record of approximately 500 new members since April 1 of last year.

Financial Campaign Planned by Federation

With Bishop William F. McDowell presiding, the executive committee of the Federation of Churches held its first meeting since his election on Thursday, with 28 members representing many denominations gathered for luncheon at 12:30, and the business session followed, continuing until 2 o'clock.

Plans were laid for a financial campaign and a committee was appointed to revise the constitution and bring it up to date. The resignation of the juvenile court worker was accepted.

Recital and Lecture Planned for Tomorrow

An attractive program has been arranged for the Cleveland Park Congregational Church Sunday evening by the minister, the Rev. George Farnham. It consists of an organ recital by Mrs. Page McK. Etchison, assisted by Randolph E. Myers, soloist, which begins at 7:45 o'clock, to be followed by an illustrated lecture, "The Passion Play of Oberammergau," by Page McK. Etchison, director of religious work of the Y. M. C. A. The public is invited.

Petworth Youths To Lead Service

Will Usher, Sing, Pray and Read Tomorrow in Methodist Church.

Petworth Methodist boys, none over 15 years of age, will have complete charge of the service tomorrow evening, except the sermon, which the pastor, the Rev. Robert L. Wood, will preach himself.

The plan worked out is for the boys to integrate themselves into every part of the worship. They will act as ushers; a group of them have been formed into a chorus and will conduct the song service, composed of familiar hymns; and they will participate in the pulpit ministry.

Harold Lindsey will preside; Murrell Lank will lead the Heart Warming Song Service; Eugene Otto will lead in prayer; Frederick Church will read the Scripture lesson, Wayne Hill, a boy cellist, will play Wagner's "To the Evening Star," and will unite with his brother, Hermon Hill, jr., in a violin and cello duet, "Yester Dreams," by Zamecnik.

(Rector of Grace Episcopal Church).

Hands

WHAT interesting things the human hands are, with all their various lines which the Palmist seeks to interpret, and how clearly do those fleshly tablets record the deeds of a man's life! At but a glance, a close observer can see the Artist, or the Musician, the Mechanic, the Stone Mason or the Bricklayer by their hands.

Just think how much good can be done, both in God's and in Man's service, by the hands. The Surgeon with his skillful hands saves myriads of human lives. The Musician, with his long and limber fingers, has delighted man since the beginning of time. The Artist, with his brush, has reproduced on canvas the beauties of nature that will live long after he has passed away. The Nurse, with her quick and capable fingers, can soothe the feverish brow, and ease the aching limbs.

The pressure of a Friend's hand can bring comfort and consolation in the hour of sorrow and distress.

Then—on the contrary—think how much harm these hands of ours can do! The cunning thefts that are practiced, the shocking murders that are committed! How unattractive and loathsome these deeds make the hands seem! What tools of sin, and wickedness, and crime a man's hands can become. Money, graft, and greed are so frequently the motive which lead men to misuse their hands.

What use are we making of our hands?

Are they helpful hands? Ministering to the wants and comforts of others? Are they strong hands, ever ready to uphold the weak and to fight for the downtrodden and the oppressed?

In answer to the question as to "Who shall ascend into the hill of the Lord, or who shall stand in His holy Place?" the Psalmist answers without hesitation:

"He that hath clean hands and a pure heart."

Church to Relay Old Corner Stone

St. Paul's Lutheran to Have Special Dedication Tomorrow.

St. Paul's Lutheran congregation has arranged to rededicate the corner stone of the old Epiphany Church on U street near Sixteenth, which has been relaid in the walls of the new St. Paul's Church, at a special service to be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Dr. Henry W. Snyder, the minister, will preside, and the Rev. Charles F. Steck, of Waynesboro, Va., will deliver the address. Dr. Steck laid the original stone while he was pastor of Epiphany Church.

The services, which are elaborate, will be held in the chapel of the new St. Paul's Church, now in course of erection on Connecticut avenue and Everett street northwest.

St. Paul's and Epiphany Churches united five years ago. Together they are building one of the handsomest churches in the city. The first unit of it will be dedicated on Sunday, June 14, with a program to follow which will extend through a week, and be continued on two following Sundays. Speakers of national note in the Lutheran Church have been engaged and are coming here for this service.

NO EXTRA SESSION.

President Hoover reassures the country when he announces that he will not call an extra session of Congress. In making the announcement he says: "I know of nothing that would so disturb the healing processes now going on in the industrial situation."

A change for the better is making itself felt throughout agriculture and industry. The increasing certainty of a bountiful harvest which will bring at least $10,000,000,000 of new wealth is encouraging both agriculture and industry. Pessimism has spent itself and has nothing more upon which to feed. "We can not legislate ourselves out of a world economic depression," says Mr. Hoover. "We can and will work ourselves out."

By readjusting their affairs, by economies and by hard work, millions of American citizens have already passed the most dangerous point of the world depression. This country has maintained wages and taken care of its unemployed without committing the folly of adopting a dole system. Labor and industry have maintained cordial relations in spite of drawbacks resulting from slack business and lessened need of labor. There have been no strikes or lockouts. Now that fresh wealth from the soil is about to invigorate the arteries of business it would be a calamity to precipitate an avalanche of foolish legislative proposals and demagogic political squabbling.

With the parties so evenly divided in the new Congress an extra session at this time could accomplish nothing but mischief. The presidential campaign is in the offing. Politicians in the Democratic and insurgent camps revealed only too plainly last winter that they would not hesitate to make mischief with the economic situation for the sake of political advantage. A flood of bills proposing all sorts of quack remedies for the depression would be the first activity of an etxra session, and sober-minded members of Congress would find themselves fortunate, indeed, if they could bring the extra session to a close with no more harm to the country than has already been done.

Pacifists, scheming politicians and well-meaning but hysterical citizens are the elements that desire an extra session of Congress. Mr. Hoover intimates that he has received many petitions from organizations asking for an opening of the floodgates on Capitol Hill. Some of these organizations purport to be working for unemployment relief, but others are known to be bands of pacifists who seek to break down the national defenses by pleading that the times demand economy and retrenchment. They would cut down the Army and the Navy and base their argument upon the claim that the Government should be saving money in these hard times. This false plea is abhorrent to the majority of Americans, and it is gratifying to know that President Hoover shares with the mass of his countrymen the opinion that the United States has not reached the stage where it must enfeeble its defenses and endanger its security.

A situation of unparalleled difficulty has been courageously dealt with by the President of the United States. Under his leadership the industrialists of the country have carried their burdens with fortitude. They are now within sight of better times. The inherent strength of the country is mastering the malady of depression. The appearance of 500 legislative and political doctors at this stage would be sufficient to cause a relapse in the convalescent, to say nothing of the shock that would be given by administering scores of conflicting quack "remedies."

RAILROAD RATE INCREASES.

Executives of all railroads east of the Mississippi River have decided definitely to petition the Interstate Commerce Commission for an increase of freight rates. The action was unanimous. Every road is facing a dilemma of reduced income; some have found it necessary to cut dividends, and others have incurred deficits.

The resolution adopted asks for rates that will "restore the credit and service of the carriers." The railroads require $400,000,000 annually more than they are now receiving, and they have come to the conclusion that an increase in freight rates is the only way in which it can be raised. Rates have been gradually diminishing since 1921, when the railroads were returned to private control. Most of the increases which were allowed at that time have been wiped out. In many cases the railroads themselves have sponsored adjustments downward to meet the competition of other transportation agencies. Lower rates have been offset largely by increased efficiency. But the depression has made sharp inroads into railway revenue and the executives are convinced that drastic action is necessary.

While additional income is the fundamental purpose of this petition, it is also put forward as an aid to the recovery of business on the ground that "when the railroads prosper the country prospers." If the railroads are granted a larger income they will be able to maintain wages at their present level, make needed improvements, purchase supplies and render better service. This argument is sound so far as it goes, but it is based on the fallacy that the railroads can draw increased revenue from the free air. Higher freight rates mean greater costs of doing business. Farmers, manufacturers and merchants would find it a little more difficult to market their goods. Higher rates might stimulate one form of economic activity, but they would certainly be a drag upon another.

There is a good deal of aprehension, too, as to whether the increased revenue which the railroad executives see is only a mirage. They recognize that a blanket increase would defeat its own purpose by diverting business to their competitors. But can any substantial changes be made without risking lower volume for higher rates? Competitors of the railroads are numerous and constantly growing. Fleets of trucks, buses, pipe lines and even airplanes are ready to encroach further upon rail traffic at every opportunity. Capital and labor for new enterprises are available and cheap. There is grave danger that, if the Interstate Commerce Commission should grant the carriers' requests, railroads would merely flop from the frying pan into the fire. They can not expect the public to pay higher rates by rail than are charged by equally efficient competitors.

JARGON OF THIEVES.

While the Soviet foreign minister, Maxim Litvinoff, has been coining lying phrases about an economic truce between communism and capitalism at Geneva, the Soviet delegation to the world wheat conference in London has definitely asserted the intention of the U. S. S. R. to continue its dumping program. There appears to be an absurd inconsistency in the Soviet's attitude, but it is more apparent than real. The conference in London reached a point where the Communist delegates could no longer conceal their real aims. At Geneva the Pan-European commission adjourned with Litvinoff still passing out palpable lies.

What the Soviet really proposed in both conferences is that all opposition to Russian trade be smothered, so that the Moscow dictatorship may be facilitated in its economic war upon the capitalistic world. Litvinoff prates of "the peaceful coexistence of the Communist and capitalistic systems" hoping by lying to pull the wool over the eyes of capitalistic enterprise. The agricultural delegation in London had the effrontery to ask that the nations agree to limit their wheat exports at a ruinously low figure, so that Soviet dumping might proceed with universal approbation.

The Soviet attempted to cultivate the good will of the wheat conference by declaring itself in favor of Poland's plan to limit exports. Suggestions by the American delegation that each country curtail its acreage were condemned. The Soviet wishes to have export quotas fixed for all countries, but the conference was plainly informed that the Soviet does not intend to curtail its planting. On the other hand, Russia insists upon much larger crops and asks Europe, Canada, Australia, Argentina and the United States to cut down their exports so that the Soviet may enjoy a larger market.

At previous wheat conferences Soviet delegates declared that export quotas would have to take into consideration Russia's volume of exports before the war. Now they demand that the quotas of other countries be allotted on a prewar basis. In short, the Soviet wants the privilege of exporting, under the protection of an international agreement, twice as much wheat as any other country in the world.

Eleven exporting nations sent delegates to London to devise means of reducing the vast surplus of wheat on hand and cutting down production. The Communists pretend to sympathize with that aim and then demand that their country alone be priviliged to expand enormously its wheat exports. This is exactly what was anticipated by every one who understands the Soviet's propensity for double-dealing.

The Soviet also served notice on the conference that any attempt at price regulation would be frustrated. By enslaving the Russian people the Communist regime is able to grow wheat cheaper than other countries. It will tolerate no restrictions against expanding its crop through forced labor and dumping that crop on the world market. Of course, this means the failure of the wheat conference. Every nation is put on notice that if it wishes to protect its farmers from an avalanche of slave-grown wheat it must erect embargoes against the Soviet. In the face of what the Communist regime believes and practices, Litvinoff's talk of "economic cooperation" sinks to the level of thieves' jargon.

WEALTH DISTRIBUTION.

The Soviet government makes the statement that though the United States is a rich country, a comparatively few plutocrats are enjoying vast wealth while the masses live in dire poverty. It is an old charge against this country that 4 per cent of the population own 80 per cent of the wealth, thereby implying that the vast majority are impoverished.

It is interesting in this connection to examine a few figures assembled by Secretary Hyde. The wealth of the United States is roughly estimated at $360,000,000,000. If 4 per cent, or 5,000,000 persons, owned $288,000,000,000 it would leave to the remaining 117,000,000 citizens only $72,000,000,000. Out of this we must deduct 22 per cent of the population who are farmers. Certainly they can not be classed among the plutocrats. In 1928 farm wealth was estimated at $56,000,000,000, which leaves $14,000,000,000 to the remaining 91,000,000 persons, or $154 apiece.

There seems to be something radically wrong with the idea of 4 per cent owning 80 per cent when it is found that there are 25,000,000 automobiles, and that they can hardly be considered as the property of the 5,000,000 men, women and children of the select class. Also there are more than 10,500,000 homes owned by families living in them, 6,500,000 of them clear of any debt.

American savings accounts aggregating $28,413,000,000 belong to 53,000,000 depositors. Twelve million building loan shareholders own $8,000,000,000 of assets, and there are 29,000,000 policyholders owning insurance reserves that total more than $10,000,000,000.

There still remains too great a concentration of wealth in this country, but the masses are gradually being transferred to an increasingly higher standard of living. The trend has been steadily upward, and the annual income, including that of unskilled labor, is the highest in the world.

CALVIN COOLIDGE SAYS:

Northampton, Mass., May 22.—One of the wise men of our country told us that experience is a hard school, but some can learn from no other. In 1914 some of the nations concluded they would no longer bear what they thought were the threats and arrogance of their neighbors. Others conceived there was a short way through war to glory, aggrandizement and world power. Out of four years' mutual suffering people came to a better political understanding of international relations. They learned the wisdom of patience and forbearance. The political world is on a firmer foundation.

In the short era which culminated in 1929 the economic world became convinced that there was a short way to riches and power through expansion, inflation and speculation. A season of great avarice and extravagance brought the inevitable reaction of loss and suffering. Just as the political situation had to be liquidated, so the financial situation had to be liquidated. We may well be thankful it is not worse. Out of our chastening we shall emerge with less speculative and more balanced production. Economic life will be more logical and better controlled. The financial world will be on a firmer foundation. UNPOPULAR $2 BILLS

From the Boston Transcript.

The unpopularity of the $2 bill grows apace. For this there may be many reasons, but W. S. Broughton, commissioner of the public debt, gives an explanation which takes no note of the rather widely entertained belief that the bill is unlucky. Admitting that the bill is rejected by the American people, and that its circulation is largely artificial, he gives as the reason that the bill is out of line with the decimal system, and that it is not an even part of the next higher denominations.

As specifically showing how unpopular the bill is, Mr. Broughton reminds us that estimated requirements for the fiscal year to begin July 1, are for $52,500,000 of the 2's, as compared with $659,640,000 of the 1's, $283,200,000 of the 5's, $448,200,000 of the 10's and so on. The number printed invariably exceeds the number in circulation, which gives ample opportunity each year for the exchange of worn out bills for new ones.

The Treasury plans to issue $60,000,000 of the $50 bills next year, and $50,400,000 of $100 bills. If we compare these figures with the $52,500,000 of 2's, and recall that the circulation of the larger denomination is obviously much less than that of the smaller, other things being equal, it would nevertheless seem that the unpopularity of the $2 bill rests in part on a widespread belief that the $2 bill is unlucky.

This is borne out not only by common observation, but by the receipt at the Treasury daily of a large number of twos, each with a corner torn off. It is popularly supposed that such mutilation removes the "curse." As a matter of fact, this superstition is proving rather costly to the Government, for each of the mutilated bills must be replaced by a new one. Last month the cost of the replacement was $15,000. There is, of course, no hope of destroying the superstition itself.

The increasing popularity of the $1 bill is shown by the number of them in circulation from 1924 to 1930. In the year first named, it was 378,678,000; in 1929 the figure had gone up to 454,249,000, and at the end of July, 1930, to 484,751,000. It is estimated that before long it will be more than 500,000,000.

And They Kept It From Us All These Years.

POST HASTE.

Russia's "international pact of economic nonaggression" will be dissected by European specialists to see what brand of poison it is packed with.

The Prince of Wales says he found the women of Argentina as charming as ever. At least a trade-last came out of the South American trip.

The Red Cross, said Miss Boardman, has "weathered the danger of becoming a subsidized Government agency." A unique record. The only thing the Red Cross ever fought is what every other agency seeks to embrace.

Of course, since 82 cents will buy as much as a dollar a year ago, you are careful to put all the 18-cent bonuses in the savings bank.

Government and private experts who watched the London wheat conference are convinced that "American wheat must be produced on a domestic consumption basis." Good work; but remember, there are spots where Americans do not eat enough bread, flapjacks and cake.

British hands will be extended to Texas Guinan on arrival. On one of them will be "stop" and on the other "go."

Productive capacity—increased output—has advanced faster than wages. Lower wages would add to the unconsumed surplus. No diagram needed.

If an American representative goes to the next European armament conference he will probably sit in with concealed weapons.

Senator Robinson favors an international conference "to remove artificial barriers which have depressed the price of silver." With what kind of "natural" supports will he bolster it?

The chronic one who still croaks, though his salary hasn't changed and his dollars buy more, had a brother who lost everything in the market crash without ever owning a share of stock. P. H.

AN OUTSTANDING MAYOR.

Berlin, having struggled along without a mayor for nineteen months, according to the Boston Post, has chosen for the post Heinrich Sahm, seven feet and one inch in height, Europe's tallest man holding any official position.

Herr Sahm, if he had happened to have been born a couple of centuries earlier, would have been kidnaped, if necessary, by Frederick William I, who collected giants from all over Europe for his famous Potsdam Guards. In electing giants instead of kidnaping them, Germany has made some progress in the last 200 years.

BURDEN SHARING.

"Why do you sigh?" said I, "today,
Since all is well with you?
You walk a smooth, untroubled way,
No task is yours to do.

"You've coin to settle every need,
Your comfort is secure.
What grief then causes you to plead,
What woe must you endure?

"All's well with you beyond a doubt!
Your skies are wondrous fair.
You should gay-hearted walk about,
But still a frown you wear."

"All joy does not depend on me,
'Tis true I should be glad,
But how can I be gay," said he,
"When friends of mine are sad?

"Can I go smiling while they sigh,
Because no pain I feel,
And can I blindly shut my eye
To woes their eyes reveal?

"Until this earthly journey ends,
From care I'm never free.
The grief which falls upon my friends
Must also fall on me."

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

MY DEAR LOUISE:

I want your life to be one of joy and peace. I want you to face it without fear or misgivings. And because I want so much for you, I am myself filled with dread when I read the ever-increasing volume of agnostic literature and wonder how it will affect you.

Such men as Mencken and Darrow will trick you unless you are wary, for they are witty and plausible and their fame is great among their kind. If you read the works of such men, you must weigh each sentence carefully before accepting it as truth.

For example, there is Darrow's statement that he does not deny the existence of a God but merely wonders why the truth is hidden from him and revealed to illiterate peasants, and Mencken's scornful rejection of the idea that ignorant yokels should know more about God than is known to the greatest of scientists.

That kind of mockery impresses the unthinking. But observe how illogical and unfair it is.

The ignorant native knows more about the interior of Siam than either Mencken or Darrow, for neither of these learned men has been there.

Is it surprising that a devout illiterate should know more about God than a learned man of science who never has attempted to know Him?

The real scientist accepts nothing as truth until it is demonstrated, for science is the study of facts. Yet Mencken and Darrow, who have faith only in science, reject prayer and the power of faith without any effort to demonstrate either.

They say the Christian's beliefs are contrary to nature; but what do they know of nature, when the wisest of scientists still are trying to discover the causes of weather and the nature of the atom.

Don't let their criticism fool you, my dear.

With your own eyes you can see all about you the evidence of an all-pervading Power and Intelligence.

You know the earth was created, for it is here. You know the Power that made the laws to govern it still is in power, for the laws function still.

You can see that all things are made to serve a useful purpose; and since that is the law of the universe, you know that you also are part of the Creator's plan.

You can see that the plan is one of growth and development, and simple logic tells you that mankind, being part of the plan, must share the promise of continued development.

And if you wonder what the purpose of the plan may be, observe the plan any father adopts in training his children.

Doesn't he strive to make them perfect? Doesn't he try by precept and example to make them like himself?

Doesn't reason suggest that as the destiny of the race?

Let those doubt who will. Your five senses and your common sense will find abundant proof that the Father whose Spirit is everywhere still cares for those who form the warp and woof of the pattern He is weaving.

Love,
DAD.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Immigration Shrinks.

New Orleans Times-Picayune.

According to the latest estimates immigration to the United States this fiscal year will set the lowest record since 1862, with the total admissions numbering less than 100,000. Depression and consequent unemployment in this country no doubt have dissuaded many aliens from seeking admission, but probably the shrinkage in larger part is due to "new discretionary powers" vested in the American consuls whose visas are prerequisites to admission. Under the new restrictions enforced at their discretion, it is asserted that the consular authorities have the power to "deny 90 out of every 100 applicants" on one or other of the numerous grounds. The depression, of course, made the application of restrictions easier. Dearth of employment opportunities, for example, automatically increases the danger that an immigrant may become a "public charge."

Checking of the alien inflow thus drastically is responsive to the popular will. With millions idle over here, the addition of job-seeking aliens must in theory at least complicate our unemployment problem and increase our relief burden. Congress talked last winter of stricter immigration enactments for that reason. Doubtless the subject will be brought before the December session.

Owen Young Is Willin'.

Clinton W. Gilbert, in Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Is Owen D. Young a candidate for President? The answer is unquestionably yes. In the first place, the presumption that any man who has a reasonable chance to be nominated as a candidate is so strong as almost to be a certainty. Then when a man's name is mentioned prominently for nomination by one of the great parties which has a good prospect of victory, and that man does not forbid the use of his name, it is virtually certain that that man regards with favor the movement in his behalf. Then, when you find persons close to such a man, his friends and business associates, ardently advocating the man's nomination, any doubt that may have existed is dispelled.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

"Experts" on Depression Give Silly Explanations—Sensible Conclusions of Charles M. Schwab.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A somewhat novel cause is held responsible for the present depression in the United States by a prominent Swiss lawyer and economist. It only took two days of investigation in New York for Dr. H. Robert Welti, of Zurich, to conclude that an important factor in the slump was "a too highly developed cult of the feminine, resulting in lack of creative, constructive power."

Dr. Welti's quick sleuthing ferreted out some other minor contributing influences for hard times, such as tariffs, our "standardized mass psychology" and "medieval lawlessness," but he insisted the main trouble was that "the men of the United States were wasting time and admiration upon the women." He added that American women were not so well equipped mentally as the women of Europe.

That settles Dr. Welti, of Zurich. From Boston is heard the assertion from Dr. William T. Foster, an expert in economic research, that the business depression is "purely mental." "It is not only mental," insists Dr. Foster, "but it is a silly depression and would be over in two months if the people of the country would decide that it should end. We have everything in this country that should create prosperity, and if it were not for the mental attitude of the people prosperity would be here now and the depression would not have occurred. The depression was brought on purely through money, and it will end with money."

The optimistic note is sounded by Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, who told the American Iron and Steel Institute that there was reason to believe liquidation was about over. He found it an encouraging fact that the country had met this depression "with much less fear, less distress and with much more organized intelligence than in any previous period of hard times." Mr. Schwab asserted that there are many signs of stirring in our economic life and he believes the country can be cheered by the knowledge that the tide is coming in.

H. C. POWERS.

Pedestrian Faces Added Danger in Hoover Left Turn — Congestion Makes for Accidents.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Why sacrifice life and limb for speed? The Hoover left turn adds a danger and a very great one to the pedestrian, as it adds an extra line of automobiles at the crosswalks of which pedestrians have to be watchful. The handwriting on the wall points to a change in the left turn, and that change will not be in favor of the great number of pedestrians. The Hoover left turn causes congestion, and congestion causes accidents.

In Baltimore last week, I witnessed a congestion caused by the Hoover left turn, and some of the automobiles could not make the turn until the "go" signal had changed three times. The police commissioner states that two of every three deaths resulting from motor accidents in Washington claim pedestrians. Then why sacrifice life and limb with the Hoover left turn?

The police commissioner concedes that the rotary left turn for automobiles now in effect in Washington may be the safest method in theory. Is it not so in fact? Has there been at any time an attempt to instruct visiting drivers on our safety laws before they are broken? Visiting drivers claim that the circle turns are more confusing than all the other traffic regulations here. The visiting driver is instructed about parking regulations through reading the different signs, but he is not instructed in saftey driving.

CITIZEN F. W. W.

Baptist Layman Objects to Political Activity of Ministers.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Since last Sunday's papers carried the news concerning the action taken by the Southern Baptist Convention, in passing a resolution in which the members of that church are urged to defeat all candidates for political office who do not love, revere and obey the eighteenth amendment, several political writers have come forward with the view that possibly the stand taken by this convention may have far-reaching effect in both the selection of a candidate for President in 1932 and the election of that year.

In this connection it should be remembered that that convention was not representative of the laymen of the Baptist Church. In point of fact, it was composed largely, if not almost entirely, of ministers of the church, and for this reason the resolution relating to the prohibition issue which it passed represents only the views of a very small percentage of the people who are affiliated with the Baptist Church.

The laymen of this great church will deplore the fact that this convention saw fit to deviate from the duty for which the convention was intended and attempt to again drag the church into politics. Every one knows that the Antisaloon League is a political organization; yet this convention urged in its resolution that all the churches support that organization. The laymen of the Baptist Church will resent this suggestion, and rightly so, regardless of their views on prohibition.

Being a Southerner and a Baptist, and also a believer in temperance, it is my view that the church has a higher calling and a greater duty to perform than to be messing in every political election that crosses the horizon. And if the preachers of the Protestant churches persist in dragging politics into the church they will find not only that they have no following, but will soon be speaking to empty pews.

A BAPTIST.

MOTOR GROUP VOTES '32 CAPITAL PARLEY

Administrators Adopt Ban on Automatic Free-Wheeling Accessories.

Special to The Washington Post.

Trenton, N. J., May 22.—The National Capital today was chosen as the scene of the May, 1932, meeting of the Eastern Conference of Motor Vehicle Administrators by unanimous vote of members of the organization in session here. Although not officially represented at the present conference, which is the guiding influence in the Nation's vehicle regulation, the District of Columbia is a member.

Decision to meet next year in Washington serves the double purpose of participation in the George Washington Bicentennial celebration and also as a tribute to William A. Van Duser, incoming director of motor vehicles and traffic of the District of Columbia. Mr. Van Duser is well known to members of the conference through his participation in previous sessions as a representative of Pennsylvania.

The invitation to visit Washington next year was personally extended by Thomas J. Keefe, of Washington, general manager of the American Motorists Association.

Rule on Free Wheeling.

As a member of the conference the District is expected to base its policy with regard to automatic free-wheeling for motor vehicles on the principle laid down by the conference today.

Free-wheeling of the kind which provides optional gear control, the variety offered as standard or factory equipment on passenger cars, is outside the range of the resolution adopted by the conference. Only those designs which are offered as accessory equipment are affected by the resolution, the full text of which follows:

"Resolved, That no free-wheeling device be legally sanctioned in the States comprising the Eastern Conference of Motor Vehicle Administrators unless it is a design that gives the operator full control of all gears in all ratios as he desires."

Various Subjects Discussed.

Uniformity of motor vehicle regulations, psychologic tests for drivers, variations in physical requirements which condition issuance of operators permits, official regulation for drivers' schools, procedure in administering license laws, reciprocity between States and motor vehicle insurance were among the subjects considered by the conference, which concluded its business sessions today.

Apart from the free-wheeling resolution, chief interest of the conference centered in the discussion of the virtues of mental tests for operators' permit applicants, while the delegates took no official action approving or disapproving of such a departure in the acceptance or rejection of applicants, the sentiment of a majority was favorable to the inclusion of such a step in examination of the future.

Boy Slightly Hurt by Truck.

Charles Merillat, jr., 5 years old, of 3809 Twelfth street northeast, was injured slightly yesterday when his father's automobile struck a truck of the General Baking Co. near Fifteenth and M streets northwest.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

IT seems to be a certainty, as nearly as such things can be estimated this far in advance, that with the beginning of the next regular theatrical season, Radio-Keith-Orpheum will give the public's interest in the revival of vaudeville a practical test by routing a number of eight-act unit shows through their houses.

The past season is said to have demonstrated to RKO that it was in many instances their vaudeville that kept up the grosses and lessened the losses that a straight picture policy might have entailed.

If vaudeville, as we used to know it on Fifteenth street, for example, really experiences any such renaissance as seems to be expected by the powers that be, a drastic revision of policy in the motion picture houses almost necessarily would result.

That might not be a bad idea, at that!

Speaking of vaudeville, Annie, Judy and Zeke, the "Three Georgia Crackers," who recently scored a sensational hit at the Earle—and they were not in the ace spot, either—went into the RKO-Coliseum Theater in New York the week of May 2 and on the strength of the hit they made during that engagement have been booked solid by RKO through the week of December 12, with more time to follow.

Annie and Judy are the act, Zeke evidently just being along to carry the bags!

And as long as we are on the subject, there is another record-breaking act in the "All Girl Revue," opening today at the Palace. Bobbie Grice and her Fourteen Bricktops have earned the right to be ranked among the foremost dance orchestras of the country. In addition to their musicianship, these versatile young women are real show folks, putting on an act that no male organization could surpass—and few equal.

I have no way of knowing how much you are on the bridle paths, but if you do much gallumping around on horseback you probably have passed more or less the entire personnel of the National Theater Players. Stanley Ridges, leading man, and Daphne Warren-Wilson, ingenue, are particularly enthusiastic, dressing as well as performing a high quality of equestrianism.

Brought from Spain to play in films produced in this country for foreign consumption, Conchita Montenegro makes her debut in English-speaking pictures in "Strangers May Kiss." Norma Shearer's new starring vehicle, to be seen for the first time locally today, at the Columbia.

In the picturization of the Ursula Parrott novel Senorita Montenegro assumes the role of the alluring Spanish dancer. Previously she appeared in both the Spanish and French versions of Ramon Novarro's "Call of the Flesh."

Unless 50 or 60 years of disuse has developed a flaw in my inimtable command of the classic and pure Castillian of the Dons, Miss Montenegro's full name, translated into English, means Littleshel Blackmountain. Now I ask you!

And since you bring it up, this nomenclature, as we say down by the gas house, is ticklish business. It is not Sylvia Sydney who appears in "Siv Cylinder Love" at the Fox this wek, as intimated in yesterday's column. It is Sidney Fox. I must have forgotten my glasses!

No wonder Johnny Marvin enjoys such a wide and unfailing popularity. He gives the public what it wants. Yesterday, for instance, immediately following the first performance at the Fox, he revised his "Dr. Cheer" act by eliminating everything that didn't click at the first show, and substituted sure-fire material. By now the turn is 100 per cent unadulterea and unblemish eejoyment—which, I trust, will answer at least one 'phone call I received yesterday afternoon.

Probably a great many who remember it have been drawing comparisons between John Barrymore's "Svengali," at the Metropolitan, and First National's earlier silent version of Du Maurier's "Trilby," which played the same theater.

The silent Svengali, as I recall it, was Arthur Edmund Carewe, who did a rather more forbidding job of the repulsive charlatan than Barrymore's. But of course he was not heard. It would be a little ridiculous to pretend that Mr. Carewe, competent actor that he is, could out-read the star whose greatest triumphs were achieved in such plays as "Peter Ibbetson," "The Jest," "Justice" and "Hamlet."

On the other hand, it seems to me that Andree LaFayette, the Parisian importation who never did anything else worth while, was a far more perfect Trilby than little Marian Marsh, who apparently lacks every qualification that an actress ought to have to play the part. Mlle. Lafayette was a blonde by nature, tall, beautiful and statuesque, with a foot that fulfilled most of the requirements to make "trilby" the accepted slang for a perfectly molded pedal extremity. Miss Marsh is not tall, not too blonde and has a short, thick foot. In any other role I imagine she would be charming. So I am eagerly awaiting her second appearance opposite John Barrymore in "The Mad Genius."

My bachelor instinct received a severe jolt yesterday by receipt of one of those intelligence quotients tests relating to parenthood, from the new Parents' Magazine. You know—"you don't need to divulge your score to anyone else, but we would like to include your rating among the Vital Statistics of Famous Fathers, which we are collecting."

Yeah, me and George Washington!

Bank at New Orleans Robbed Second Time

New Orleans, La., May 22 (A.P.).—Two bandits held up the midcity branch of the Hibernia Bank & Trust Co. shortly after 2:30 o'clock today. The same branch was held up two weeks ago at about the same time of day.

Today's robbery was effected in almost identical manner as the other. Two mean, wearing pillow cases as hoods over their heads, entered the branch at Canal street and Carrollton avenue, flourished weapons and took all cash in sight after making employes and customers lie face downward on the floor.

All Exonerated in Racing Inquiry.

Tallahassee, Fla., May 22 (A.P.).—The House of Representatives today exonerated John T. G. Crawford, Democratic executive committeeman from Florida, and all members of the General Assembly from connection with charges that $50,000 was spent in lobbying for a bill passed this week to permit racing with pari mutuel betting in Florida.

Censor Veils Arena Of Chinese Revolt

Bandits and Red Armies Ravage Country While Rebel Battle Looms.

Shanghai, May 22 (A.P.).—While bandit and red armies ravaged central China provinces today, the government clamped on a censorship of press dispatches that veiled movements of rebellious troops about Kwangtung and Kwangsi and of loyal forces mobilized to combat them.

Prior to the censorship it had been reported that 100,000 soldiers were concentrating in Kwangtung and Kwangsi for a northward march against the Nationalist government at Nanking. A government force of 250,000 men had been reported mobilizing to check the rebellion.

Whether Kwangtung and Kwangsi Provinces would throw their forces into the rebellion or remain loyal to the central government appeared to await the action of Sun Fo, 30-year-old minister of railways. Sun Fo, educated in the United States, was en route to Canton from Shanghai. He is the son of Sun Yat-sen, founder of the Chinese republic, and some reports said he would disassociate himself with the rebellion against Chiang Kai-shek.

The four most seriously hurt were brought to a hospital here. The others suffered only minor injuries.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Envoy Philips Will Locate in Washington

Minister to Norway Is Completing Residence in Capital.

MORE and more, Washington is proving itself a city of homes. Members of the Diplomatic Corps, although they travel far and wide, often return to the Capital to establish permanent residences, as have the Minister to Norway and Mrs. Hoffman Philip.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip have been in this country about a month, having come to personally oversee the details of the completion of their home at 2228 Massachusetts avenue, just below Sheridan Circle. Mrs. Philip left yesterday for New York and Mr. Philip will join her there tomorrow. Next week they will sail for Europe and their post at Oslo. Mrs. Philip happy in thought that her trip brought fruit in the form of new draperies for the American Legation, which was her chief purpose in making the trip!

The future home of the Philips was already built when they purchased it, but with interesting ideas of their own, Mr. and Mrs. Philip have themselves directed much of the interior decoration. The house is between that of the Democratic national committee and Mrs. Jouett Shouse and the attractive studio home of Mr. and Mrs. Emmons Smith.

It is quite natural that the minister should want to make his headquarters ultimately in Washington, as he was born and educated here.

His post previous to Norway was at Teheran, where he served as our envoy for four years. While serving there he acted as personal representative of President Coolidge at the coronation of the Shah of Persia in April, 1926.

During their stay in Washington this spring Mr. and Mrs. Philip have made their home at the Anchorage, but on their next visit they hope to be able to open their new house.

Ambassador Dawes Sails for America.

The United States Ambassador to the Court of St. James, Mr. Charles G. Dawes, has sailed from England on the Bremen for this country. He will go to Chicago immediately after his arrival in New York. Mrs. Dawes is remaining in England because of the illness of their daughter, Miss Virginia Dawes, who is recuperating from a recent operation.

The Secretary of War and Mrs. Hurley will be the guests of honor of Brig. Gen. James F. McKinley and Mrs. McKinley at a small party at the dinner dance at the Army and Navy Country Club this evening.

Col. and Mrs. James Brady Mitchell have returned to Washington from Europe and will be at the Mayflower for an indefinite period.

Commander F. A. Hunnewell, of the United States Coast Guard, and Mrs. Hunnewell have arrived at Old Point Comfort from Washington and will remain at the New Chamberlin for a short time.

Representative and Mrs. C. William Ramseyer will entertain over the week-end Mrs. Horace M. Towner, wife of the former Governor of Porto Rico, who is in town at this time for the annual congress of the Mount Vernon Ladies Association, of which she is regent for Iowa. Also guests in the Ramseyer home will be Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Walker and their son and daughter, who are visiting here from their home in Ponce, Porto Rico.

Miss Jane Ramseyer, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ramseyer, will take her turn as hostess during the week-end of Memorial Day, when two school friends from Bloomfield, Iowa, Miss Florence McNabb and Miss Jane Young, will arrive for a brief visit following their graduation.

Huguenot Cross Conferred on Envoy.

The Huguenot Society, of Pennsylvania, yesterday conferred the Huguenot Cross upon Mr. Eric Hendrik Louw, minister plenipotentiary from the Union of South Africa, and upon Mr. Samuel Herrick, of Washington, president of the National Federation of Huguenot Societies.

Mr. Louw, in an address, tracing the development of the self-government movement in South Africa, said the last vestiges of British government control of the Union of South Africa will be removed soon. The Union will then assume the status of a sovereign independent State, although voluntarily associating with the dominions of the British Empire.

Mr. Ralph Beaver Strassburger, of Norristown, Pa., was reelected president of the society.

White House To See Tennis Team Play

Argentinians Invited by Mrs. Hoover to Grounds Wednesday.

Into the spotlight of the White House will march next week the crack tennis players of two continents, for on Wednesday morning the members of the Argentine and American Teams, who later in the week will test their skill in the Davis Cup matches at Chevy Chase Club, will stage a trial game before Mrs. Hoover and her friends on the White House courts. The First Lady yesterday extended an invitation to the team members, who also will be received by the President at 4 o'clock. The President and Mrs. Hoover will extend the use of their box at the matches to members of the Cabinet, Mrs. Hoover having explained in a note to the committee that official engagements in town and out of town made attendance impossible.

After the game on the White House courts and the welcome extended by the President the sportsmen will be guests at a large buffet luncheon to be given by the Director General of the Pan-American Union, Dr. Leo S. Rowe, at the Pan-American annex.

The Argentine Ambassador, Senor Dr. Don Manuel E. Malbran, is expected to attend, as also members of the embassy staff. State Department officials, members of the tennis committee at Chevy Chase Club and other devotees of the sport from residential circles.

While the American team is in Montreal, where the final matches with the Canadians will be played off today, the youthful Argentines are enjoying days of relaxation in Washington, where they arrived early in the week. As guests at the Chevy Chase Club, they have been entertained there informally by members of the tennis committee, which has as its chairman Mr. Lawrence Baker.

After dining there on Thursday night the South Americans remained for dancing later. All young, and attractive, they were enthusiastically received by members of the younger set who gather at the club for the semiweekly dances. And tangos were the order of the evening!

The team includes Mr. Edwin French, captain; Mr. William Robson, Mr. Richard Sissener, a dashing blond; Mr. Ronald Boyd, Mr. Lucilo del Castillo and Mr. Andriano Zappa.

Representative Lewis Speaks To Democratic Club.

Representative David J. Lewis was the guest of honor and speaker at the dinner which the Woman's National Democratic Club gave last evening. He discussed "New Angles on the Unemployment Situation."

Among those at the dinner, most of them entertaining guests, were Mrs. Lewis, former Gov. Nellie T. Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Herrick, Mrs. John Allan Dougherty, Mr. and Mrs. Basil Manly, Mrs. Robert Lansing, Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Bright, Judge and Mrs. Samuel Jordan Graham, Mrs. Frank Hiram Snell, Mrs. W. S. Conant, Senator and Mrs. Burton K. Wheeler, Miss Agnes Winn, Mrs. George M. Eckels, Mrs. Ben Smith, Mrs. Gladys Moon Jones and Miss Mary E. Bakewell.

Mr. Henry Christian will entertain a company of fourteen at dinner at the Shoreham Hotel this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Neil E. Bowman, of Princeton, N. J., are at the Shoreham Hotel.

Mrs. Cecil Beasley will entertain at a luncheon Tuesday at the Woman's National Democratic Club, taking her guests later to the garden card party which the club gives that afternoon at the estate of Admiral and Mrs. Cary Grayson.

M. Emanuel Menick, financial attache to the French Embassy, who is in New York at the Sherry-Netherland, will give a tea there this afternoon for 35 guests.

Dr. and Mrs. Wilbur Carter, of Sherman, Tex., are spending a week in Washington at the Mayflower. Mr. Carter is here to attend the alumnae meetings at National Park Seminary. They will go from the Capital to Pittsburgh for the Presbyterian General Assembly, of which Dr. Carter is a commissioner.

The marriage of Mrs. Catherine Waterbury, of Washington, to M. Charles Emmanuel Brousse, former chief of the cabinet at the ministry of finance and son of the late minister of finance, took place recently in Paris. The ceremony took place in the presence of a few intimate friends.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. C. N. Bennett, of Washington, a great-granddaughter of John C. Calhoun.

Mrs. J. Upshur Moorhead has as her guests her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Gifford.

Mr. James Gray Geagan has announced the marriage of his daughter, Miss Margaret Gray Geagan, to Mr. Edward Joseph Zwolak, on Wednesday, May 20.

Mrs. James Irvin Steel will entertain at luncheon on Monday at the Shoreham for Miss Jean Stephanson, newly elected president of the League of American Pen Women, and for Mrs. William B. Moses, the retiring president.

Miss Frances Gutelius will give a tea today at her studio, 2 Dupont Circle following a recital by a group of piano students.

Edsel Fords Rapidan Guests Of President

Roosevelts, Lejeunes and Postoffice Officials at Camp.

President Hoover will leave this morning for the Rapidan camp, accompanied by the Postmaster General, Mr. Walter F. Brown, and other officials of the Postoffice Department, who will confer with the Chief Executive.

Mrs. Hoover, Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hoover, jr., left the capital yesterday afternoon for the mountain retreat.

They will be joined there today by Col. Roosevelt, Governor of Porto Rico; Mr. and Mrs. Edsel B. Ford, Mrs. Walter F. Brown, the First Assistant Postmaster General and Mrs. Arch Coleman, Mr. W. Irving Glover, second assistant; the Third Assistant Mr. Frederic A. Tilton and Mrs. Tilton, Mr. John W. Philip, fourth assistant; Maj. Gen. John A. Lejeune, Mrs. Lejeune and Miss Eugenia Lejeune, and Dr. William Starr Myers, professor of political philosophy at Princeton University, and Mrs. Myers.

Frances McKee Montgomery, daughter of Mrs. George M. Dunn, of Washington, D. C., and Lieut. Alfred E. Kastner, U. S. A., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Kastner, of Flushing, Long Island, will be married at noon today in the Cadet Chapel at West Point by the Rev. E. M. Van Note, of Highland Falls. A reception and wedding breakfast in the Vice President suite of the West Point Hotel will follow. The bride's father was the late Col. George M. Dunn, of the judge advocate department, and her grandfather was Gen. William McKee Dunn, judge advocate of the Army. She is also the granddaughter of former Representative John Dalzell, of Pennsylvania.

The bride was given away by her uncle, Mr. Robert D. Dalzell, of Pittsburgh. Lieut. Albert Kastner, U. S. N., twin brother of the bridegroom, will be best man. Lieut. and Mrs. Kastner, after a short wedding trip, will be at home in Princeton, N. J., where the bridegroom is stationed in the R. O. T. C. unit of Princeton University.

Havre Welcomes American Mayors

Executives Visit France as Guests to Attend Exposition.

Havre, France, May 22 (A.P.).—Mayors of 21 American cities, who have come to France to attend the Colonial Exposition, were given a hearty welcome by the City of Havre today and were entertained at a banquet which lasted four hours. Mayor Leon Meyer of Havre presided.

Walter E. Batterson, Mayor of Hartford, Conn., expressed particular interest in the site of the old rest camp of the American expeditionary force on top of a hill. Baltimore's chief executive, William F. Broening, responded to a toast and praised the traditional Franco-American friendship.

Tomorrow morning the mayors will motor to Rouen to visit the famous Gothic Cathedral. They will have luncheon in this famous Normandy city. The party will move to Deauville before nightfall. Another banquet awaits there.

Pope Will Issue Encyclical Today

Church's Attitude Toward Labor Problems Will Be Made Public.

Vatican City, May 22 (A.P.).—Pope Pius has promised his encyclical on workers' rights and the relations between capital and labor will be given to the world tomorrow.

The Latin text which the Pontiff has written is being translated into many languages for ultimate broadcasting. The official Latin and the Italian translation will be published in the Osservatore Romano tomorrow and at the same time, according to the present plans, it will be broadcast in Latin, then in English from the Papal Radio Station.

The encyclical, which gives the attitude of the church toward economic problems, is part of the commemoration of the fortieth anniversary of Pope Leo XIII's encyclical Rerum Novarum on labor.

Capital Girl Bride, June 4, At Annapolis

Karl E. Jung to Claim Frances R. Vaughan on Graduation Day.

As the hands of the clock reach the hour of 5 on June 4, Miss Frances Robin Vaughan, of Washington, will be married in the chapel of the Naval Academy to Mr. Karl E. Jung, of Buffalo, N. Y. That day will be graduation day, and, true to traditions, many midshipmen will seize the first opportunity after they become members of Uncle Sam's Navy, to walk down the aisle with their diplomas and their brides. So many are the weddings that take place on graduation day that a ceremony is scheduled to be performed every half hour by the busy chaplain of the academy.

For each wedding the chapel is theoretically reserved for the guests of the couple of the moment, but anybody wandering through the lovely old grounds is free to step in if interested.

Miss Vaughan is the only Washington girl listed among those to be married there on June 4. She is the daughter of Mrs. Robin Vaughan, of Palo Alto, Calif., and the late Mr. Vaughan, and has made her home in Washington for some time, where she has had a "job" (like all modern girls) in the Department of State. Mrs. Vaughan will arrive here next Friday to attend the wedding.

The bride has chosen for her maid of honor Miss Doris Swayze, of Washington. One of the bridesmaids will be Mrs. Vaughan Michaux, wife of Lieut. Michaux, U. S. N., a cousin of Miss Vaughan, who will give her in marriage. Lieut. Michaux is now stationed at Annapolis, and was married early in May. The other bridesmaids will be Miss Marian Leachman, of Valero, Calif., and Miss Travis Mason, of Madison, Wis., sorority sisters of Miss Vaughan at Stanford University, and Miss Katherine Jung, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Jung, of Buffalo, and a sister of the bridegroom.

For his best man Midshipman Jung has selected his "wife," as the academy vernacular dubs a roommate, Midshipman N. Adari. There will be six ushers, all classmates of Mr. Jung.

Mr. Jung has been detailed to the U. S. S. New York, and will be on the West Coast for duty. He and his bride will drive to California on their wedding trip.

Dr. and Mrs. Matthew White Perry will be at home tomorrow from 4:30 until 6:30 o'clock in their apartment at Woodley Park Towers. Mrs. Perry was formerly Miss Fannie Dial, daughter of former Senator and Mrs. Nathaniel B. Dial.

At the tea table will be Mrs. Loren Johnson, Mrs. Macpherson Crichton, Mrs. Charles B. Drake, and Mrs. Robert A. Cooper. No cards have been issued.

Ensign R. C. Drum Hunt came home yesterday to spend two weeks before rejoining his ship, the U. S. S. Arizona, which will leave shortly for the West Coast.

Viscountess Harcourt Returns to London.

Viscountess Harcourt, who was recently a visitor here at the British Embassy, has returned to London after passing several weeks visiting relative in this country.

Her son, Lord Harcourt, will be married on June 1 to Miss Elizabeth Grosvenor at St. Margaret's, Westminster.

Lady Harcourt was formerly Miss Burns, daughter of the late Mr. Walter Hayes Burns, of New York, and is a lifelong friend of Lady Lindsay. She is the widow of Viscount Lewis Vernon Harcourt.

The wedding will be attended by 1,000 people, and a reception for the guests will follow the ceremony at Wimborne House.

The bride will wear a gown of ivory satin, with a train of lace and tulle 6 yards long. She will be attended by children.

Dr. and Mrs. William Jeffries Chewning, sr., of Fredericksburg, Va., are spending a few days with their son, Mr. William Jeffries Chewning, jr., in Wesley Heights. Mr. Harrison Bates, of New York, is also his guest for a few days.

Mr. Carmi A. Thompson, of Cleveland, is at the Willard.

WHEN President Hoover dedicates the Cornell University War Memorial in Ithaca, N. Y., today he will speak from his Rapidan Camp, near Orange, Va. (WRC, WMAL, 12 noon). Other speakers heard from Ithaca will include Judge Frank Hiscock and Dr. Livingston Farrand. The Cornell R. O. T. C. Band and Cornell Glee Club will provide the musical portion of the program.

The largest fleet of airplanes ever assembled will occasion the most complicated and pretentious special event broadcast in the history of radio this afternoon (WRC, WMAL, 1 o'clock).

The broadcast will be a complete account—from land and sky—of the aerial attack on New York City during the Army air maneuvers. It will be the first time in the history of aviation broadcasting that announcers, flying in planes and stationed at vantage points along the line of attack, will have given listeners a complete, running account of each step in a mimic aerial attack.

From the moment the 672 Army planes leave the four fields at which they are stationed until they have accomplished a theoretical conquest of New York City, listeners will be in constant touch with every movement, both in the sky and on the ground.

A SALUTE by the Army Air Corps to the memory of Floyd Bennett during the dedication of New York's municipal airport named in his honor will follow the air attack. Addresses by F. Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War; Brig. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois, of the Air Corps; Mayor James J. Walker, and others will be heard during this portion of the program.

Sir John Reith, director-general of the British Broadcasting Corporation, will speak on "The Organization of British Educational Broadcasting" tonight (WRC, 8:30 o'clock). Sir John is in this country for the national advisory council on radio and educational meeting. As head of the government controlled B. B. C. he has directed the development of a far-reaching radio educational program in this country.

Empire day will be observed in Great Britain today with an address by Sir Ramsay MacDonald in connection with this event scheduled for transmission by WMAL. Owing to changes that have taken place in the relative status of the different portions of the empire, notably India, Canada and the Irish Free State, it is expected the premier will use the occasion for a statement of his administration's future policy.

THE story that President Hoover would plug in the microphone for himself, thus eliminating announcers, when he speaks from the White House, has been denied. Herluf Provensen of the NBC, and Stanley Bell, of the CBS, will go to the Rapidan camp today to announce the President. They will also accompany the presidential party to Valley Forge on Memorial Day.

When the President goes to Indianapolis, Marion, Ohio, and Springfield, Ill., for a series of three speeches on June 15, 16 and 17, the NBC will send Heriuf Provensen, announcer, and A. E. Johnson, division engineer, in charge of the territory south of Philadelphia, both of whom have done their respective jobs in presidential programs many times.

This will be an encroachment of the Washington announcer and chief engineer in the Chicago division, but the NBC will send them everywhere the President goes for a broadcast as an added precaution against a mixup or misunderstanding which might result in failure to put the President on the air on time or cause him to be cut off.

The Glee Club of Columbia Junior High School will be heard tonight (WOL, 6:45 o'clock) in a 35-minute recital.

THE United States Marine Band swung into its first selection of the afternoon. Music flowed from the instruments. Stanley Bell, WMAL announcer, stood by, without a worry.

Crash!

Stanley jumped. Flashed a worried look at the bandsmen. Not one changed his expression. Not a note was lost.

A look out the window explained things. A group of Marines were indulging in a ball game. Somebody hit a home run—through the window of the broadcasting room at the barracks.

There is a possibility that Ted Lewis' contract for the Saturday night broadcasts will not be renewed when it expires shortly. He is reported to be asking $5,000 per appearance, nearly twice as much as he is receiving.

An effort to rebroadcast the English Derby from Epsom Downs will be made by the NBC when the race is run on June 3.

Dan Interprets the Mode

A lovely lady can't have too many bags (says Dah-ray).

New York, May 22.

WHAT woman doesn't love a new bag! No matter how many she may have and what variety there may be, there is always room for another, now isn't there? and a new bag makes the day brighter no matter how one comes about it!

For a lovely lady realizes that to be well dressed she has to have the right type and color of a bag to go with her outfit—and bags do have a way of soiling and being quite unCleanable, haven't they, now? So one has to have a whole family of them, and it's just one of those things that one can't be without, either.

Nor need the lovely lady despair, now, really—with all of the bargains and sales of merchandise available! She just has to save her pennies, watch for a sale, and then buy two or three. But the wise woman buys two or three wearable ones, with an eye out to their cleaning and sunfast possibilities, as well as their chic. Yes?

In this respect the kid bags, particularly in pastel shades, are the best buy, as they can be cleaned with the same cleaning fluid with which we clean our shoes of the same colors. Lizard and alligator—in fact, all reptile skins—are excellent materials for bags, if and when they particularly suit the ensemble for which you are buying the bag. Antelope and suede bags, though lovely and stylish, are fragile, there's no denying it, and one must buy them with that knowledge.

For summer wear all sorts of straws—flat raffias, paper panamas—are stylish and quite a good buy since they are so very cleanable. And all of the pastel shades are smart and attractive!

* * * *

Speaking of all the bags that a lovely lady has to have to be well dressed, don't despair—just sit down and address an envelope to your very own self and other to The Washington Post and mail 'em to Dah-ray, who will send you a new leaflet telling you how to make the darlingest little bags you can imagine! And one of them has several different trimmings which make it several bags, you know—nor need you be an expert seamstress to make these bags from our detailed and careful directions. Just send for the leaflet and see and have all the bags your little heart desires for this summer—made by your own ten pretty little fingers and out of remnants and odds and ends you have around the house. Better address that envelope this "minnit," before it slips your mind!

* * * *

And tomorrow we have again Dare's weekly fashion letter. Don't forget to look for it in the big Sunday Post.

Au Revoir.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

MY LAWN is always bad, but after last year's drought it is seemingly dead. What do you suggest? KARIN T. P.

Cut it; then rake it with a steel rake and then seed it. The teeth of the rake should be filed so they will cut and not pull. Rake it first in one direction, then go over it again and rake it at right angles. This will remove all the dead weeds and other debris. Remember that one of the objects of the raking is to open the ground to the air. Next fertilize with bonemeal or a commercial fertilizer. Your seedsman will recommend one. Never buy cheap seed; this is really an extravagance instead of an economy. Get a mixture recommended by a seed house of good standing. Lawn grass mixtures are a combination of a number of varieties, each of which have been selected for a definite reason. A mixture has a certain percentage of grass that is at its best during the fall and early summer and other strains of seed which are at their best in midsummer. Generally in the morning and just before sunset there is less wind blowing, so this is the time to sow grass seed.

Please tell me how to make liquid manure. Is this good for fertilizing roses? MABEL H. P.

To make liquid manure, place one-half bushel of manure in a barrel of water. Keep barrel covered and in the sun. Stir daily. In about ten days the fertilizer will be ready for use. Liquid manure is splendid food for roses. Use a ladleful to each plant. Apply this fertilizer every two weeks and water the plants before and after applying the manure.

Please tell me whether, when transplanting a fern, it is necessary to divide the root? I have a very healthy fern that I know is potbound, but it is so shapely that I hate to divide it. MRS. PAUL H. O.

It is not necessary, though florists propagate their ferns by dividing the roots. Be sure to keep the plant in a shady place for a few days after transplanting it.

Please tell me how to keep the leaves from falling from a Jerusalem cherry tree. In the open I do not have this trouble, but in the house they always fall off. ONE OF YOUR OLD READERS.

It is the warm, dry air of the house that causes the leaves to fall. If you keep the plant in a cool, sunny place instead of a warm, sunny one, I am sure you will have no annoyance of this kind.

Is the coxcomb an annual? If so, when do you sow the seed? MARGARET G. L.

The coxcomb, being an annual, is usually grown from seed sown in the open ground in early May.

Please give me a list of six easily grown plants suitable for rock gardening. LIDA A. P.

Alyssum saxatile, aubrietia, dianthus neglectus, gypsophilia cerastiodes, iberis sempervirens and campanulo carpatica.

Can you tell me if an ice plant would be suitable for planting in a rock garden? FLORENCE T. W.

The ice plant (mesembryan) is a dwarf, trailing annual, quite desirable as a rock garden plant.

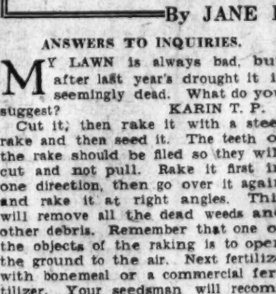
CONTRACT BRIDGE.



THE above hand was played recently in a game of Duplicate Contract. At all the tables South bid one Club, and West either doubled or bid No Trump; the final declaration was four Clubs except at one table where a bid of five Clubs was ventured. West doubling.

At practically every table West used up the trumps of his side at the start by leading the Ace and then a small Club. After that almost every Declarer, feeling quite sure from the bidding that the Queen of Hearts was in the West hand, won the second Club in the South hand and led a Heart which was finessed in dummy. Then dummy led the Ace and King, and gave South two Diamond discards. This limited the Diamond loss to one trick, but Declarer was unable to get away from West's three Aces and consequently took ten tricks at all the tables except the one at which game had been bid.

At that table game was made in the following way: After winning the second trump trick, South led a small Spade. West passed it, and dummy's Jack won. South then was put in again with a Club, led his singleton Heart and North finessed then South discarded his King and Queen of Spades on North's Ace and King of Hearts, thereby eliminating a Spade loss but the loss of two Diamonds was still possible. However, the lead of the Jack of Diamonds from the North hand and a Diamond finesse forced West's Ace, and at that one table five-odd was made.

Of course West could have cashed his three Aces either when he had the first lead or after two trump tricks when South led a Spade.

YOUR NAME — WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

"RUTH FISKE" MEANS "BEAUTY FISH" — "HERMAN HARLOW" means "WARRIOR ARMY-HILL"

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

THE family name "Carnegie" is of Scottish origin. It generally indicates that the persons who were first so called had their residences in Carnegie, Lanarkshire. This place-name is of Celtic origin, and means "the fort of the gap." The fourteenth century spelling of this name was "Carinnegi."

The family name "Fish" is one of the relatively few English names whose original meanings are indicated by their present forms. In most cases it was originally applied as a nickname to fishermen and fish-dealers. There is evidence that in a few cases it was first given to families which had pictures of fishes on their coat of arms. It has also been found that some families were given this name because they lived or carried on business at a place which displayed the picture or image of a fish as a means of identification. Instances of this name in English documents of the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries are John le Fysche, Robert le Fisch, Philip le Fissh, Radulphus Fysche and Ricardus Fisch. The German equivalent of "Fish" is "Fisch." It is also found in various diminutive forms such as "Fischli," "Fischlein" and "Fischl." All these German forms have the same origin and meaning as the English name.

The family name "Fisk" (also spelled "Fiske") is a Scandinavian and northern English form of "Fish," and has the same origin and significance. Concerning the frequency with which these names are found, one might say that at the time when English names were becoming hereditary a great number of peasants lived on the products of the inland streams since the supply was much more plentiful than it is now.

Watch this Column every day. Your name will appear here.

What Today Means to You

"GEMINI."

IF May 23 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from noon to 3 p. m., and from 5:40 p. m. to 8 p. m. The danger periods are from 9 a. m. to 11:10 a. m. and from 9 p. m. to 11:10 p. m.

The astrological signs of May 23 indicate intellectual progress and some happening that will safeguard the interests of the plan or undertaking which you have most at heart. In the home, there may be misunderstanding, which will yield to the beneficent influences of the evening.

A child born on this May 23 will be long-lived and blessed with material success and felicitous relationships. It will be far-sighted, well balanced, endowed with a keen sense of justice and have a great and an abiding love for its home and kith and kin.

Born on May 23, you are active, both mentally and physically and have a great capacity for work. No matter what field of endeavor you enter—always provided it is one of your own choice and selection—success will, undoubtedly, be yours; as you will bring to bear on your efforts clear mindedness, singleness of purpose and an unconquerable determination. Nothing in this world will come to you by chance. Everything you earn will be the result of hard, indefatigable labor.

In spite of a practical mind, your artistic tastes are highly developed, and, as a hobby, you may find great pleasure in gratifying these inclinations. Both men and women born on May 23 possess the rare faculty of keeping a secret—a virtue rare in either sex—and they are not inquisitively curious, a weakness common to men and women alike.

You, at times, suffer from moods, but are usually careful not to inflict them on others. Unually quiet and retiring, you are self-assertive when any attempt is made to filch from you honors or rewards to which you consider yourself entitled. You have a very loving nature, and will make an ideal mate and companion for one who wants a constant, loyal and true life-partner.

Successful People Born May 23:

1. Charles Backus Storrs—reformer.
2. James Buchanan Eads—civil engineer.
3. Richard Grant White—author and critic.
4. Alfred Pritchard Sloan, jr.—president General Motors Corporation.
5. Douglas Fairbanks—actor.

Fudge Cakes
Coffee

Lemon Jelly Salad.

2 tablespoons granulated gelatin
5 tablespoons cold water
1-3 cup lemon juice
2 tablespoons grated lemon rind
½ cup orange juice
2-3 cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 cups boiling water

Soak gelatin in cold water five minutes. Add boiling water and sugar. Stir until gelatin has dissolved. Cool and add rest of ingredients. Pour into small molds which have been rinsed out with cold water. Set in cold place to stiffen. Unmold on lettuce and top with salad dressing.

Chilled Fresh Pineapple.

1 large fresh pineapple.
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¾ cup sugar.

Cut pineapple into slices 2-3 inch thick. Cut crossways. Use sharp knife and cut off outside skin. Cut out cores. Cut each slice into dice. Add rest of ingredients. Mix well. Cover and chill three hours or longer. Serve in glass dishes.

This pineapple will keep for several days if stored in cold place.

Fudge Cakes.

(The kind that melt in your mouth)

2-3 cup butter
1½ cups sugar
2 squares chocolate, melted
1 teaspoon vanilla
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 cup cold water
2½ cups pastry flour
½ teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder

Cream butter and sugar. Add rest of ingredients and beat three minutes. Half fill paper baking cups. Arrange on baking pan and bake 20 minutes in slow oven. Do not remove from paper cases, but cover tops with frosting.

Frosting.

1½ squares chocolate, melted
3 tablespoons hot cream
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1½ cups sifted confectioner's sugar

Mix ingredients. Beat three minutes. Let stand several minutes and then mix until very creamy. Carefully frost tops of cakes.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

Youth Ponders Marriage.

DEAR MISS M'DONALD: Your column in the paper is for women, but I believe you are just as much interested and willing to help their running mates, so here is my request for some advice.

I am nearly 21, and have been going with one girl for five months, and in that time we have come to love each other very much. She has done an awful lot for me, taken care of me while I was sick and on Christmas sent me a present that I might have expected from my mother, but nevertheless very appropriate at the same time. I have tried in my small way to show her how much I care for her. But during the past two weeks, though no fault of hers, or advice from would-be friends, I have wanted to get out and have dates with other girls. I still enjoy having dates with this girl so I don't believe it is because I am getting tired of her.

Even though she has told me to go out and have dates I didn't feel like I wanted to because every unattached girl today makes herself just as attractive as she knows how and I would probably want to kiss her during the evening, most of them are insulted more or less if you don't try anyway. Then it got back to my girl, as I knew it would. I'd catch it right. So you see there is no fun going out on a date of that kind and holding on to the reins all the time. I like to act more spontaneously, more as I feel at the moment.

And now after five months I am beginning to feel as though if I go on the way things are I will always regret that I didn't at least go out with more girls.

Now, what I would like to know is just what I should do? The girl is between 17 and 18 and has been engaged once or twice before. When she says she cares for me more than she has ever cared for anybody, I believe her and that makes it just that much harder for me.

With any other girl it would be easy to break off, but this one means enough to me to make me want to look out for her before myself. I have thought two or three times that I would ask her to just try and forget everything for the time being and both go along as we were before. Then if everything goes all right we can get together again; because deep down I have a feeling that she will treat me better than any one else ever will. But I don't know whether it would be right to ask that of her now. At the same time I don't think it very good for me to feel the way I do and continue on as before. There has got to be some understanding or adjustment made. What do you advise me to do? I still have the last two years of a college engineering course to finish up before I can be on my own. D. W.

You are both far too young to settle down to one person out of all the world. Just start in to see other people and forget there is such a thing as marriage. When the right person ambles along neither one of you will be able to forget that there is such a thing—believe it or not.

I must commend you for your manly feeling of consideration for the girl and appreciation of her affection. You are going to make a fine and worthwhile husband for the girl you do marry.

TIME GROWS SHORT IN AD COMPETITION

Contestants Must Feature All 35 Firms to Win $1,000 Prize.

Winners to Be Named On Broadcast Today

Because of the unprecedented number of advertisements which flooded in to The Post in the last week, the announcement of the weekly prize winner will be delayed until this evening. It will be announced at 10 o'clock over Radio Station WRC in the Washington Gas Light Co. program.

A full list of winners will be announced in tomorrow's edition of this paper.

Have you written about each of the 35 participating concerns in The Post-Zain Ad Writing Contest? This contest closes Saturday midnight, May 30, and unless you have written about each of the 35 concerns you are not eligible for the grand award of $1,000 which will be given at the close of this final week.

Following are some tips that may help you write that grand award prize winning ad. Don't overlook that box of special prizes which appears on this page. They will be given winners at the end of this final week.

If you haven't already seen the beautiful $158 Brunswick Radio the Arthur Jordan Piano Co. is giving the writer of the best ad about their concern during the entire contest be sure and see it. It is on display at their store, 1239 G street. It will certainly inspire that ad, which may win that coveted radio for you, and, possibly that $1,000 grand prize. This old reliable dealer has enjoyed the reputation of selling only the finest in musical instruments for over 20 years. Incorporate in your ads Jordan's easy budget plan of payments, their Brunswick radio department and the other fine musical instruments.

Over 50 years of service is one important fact to stress in your ads about Goldsmith & Co. Let your ads tell about their high grade watches, jewelry, precious stones and silverware. Remember they can take old jewelry and rebuild it into the latest vogue. Feature their repairing department. That exquisite $100 strand of Triple X. Richelieu pearls which can be yours is on display at Goldsmith & Co.

The 60 up-to-date United Food Stores gives them a tremendous buying power. This, of course, makes it possible for them to sell highest quality meats, groceries and vegetables at low prices and enables them to have an efficient delivery service. Dealing at the United Food Stores has turned that tiresome duty of marketing into pleasure. When you call the United Food Store in your neighborhood you are assured of prompt delivery and the finest of foods. Let them solve your marketing problem. Former Official Of Legion Is Thief

Michigan Man Found Guilty of Embezzling $2,500 Meant for Orphans.

Pontiac, Mich., May 22 (A.P.).—Willis M. Brewer, a former national vice commander of the American Legion, was convicted today of embezzling $2,500 from the legion orphans' billet at Otter Lake, Mich.

Testimony at his trial in circuit court was to the effect that Brewer obtained that sum in 1929 from the Oakland County board of supervisors as an appropriation for the billet, of which he was a trustee, and converted it to his own use. At the time he was chairman of the county board of auditors. Formerly he had been Michigan State commander of the legion.

Sentence will be imposed June 18. Brewer was dropped from rolls of the American Legion last January 1 when it was found that he had been called in the draft but had not served in the Army because of physical disability. He spent a few days in Camp Custer waiting for his medical certificate of disability.

BABIES INSPIRE ZAIN AD

The following ad by Mrs. Henry L. Poole, 3615 Nichols avenue was inspired by this picture of two healthy babies:

"That precious bit of life entrusted to your care—for your love and protection. What better way to show love than to give him the proper feeding, that he may enjoy life in its fullest meaning by having a healthy body. Milk from thoroughbred cows, inspected and tested, has been found long since to be the best substitute for mother's milk. Sanitary handling, and thorough testing is a specialty in the Fairfax Dairy. Give your baby Fairfax Dairy milk with the assurance that it is getting the best obtainable—and watch him improve.

"Give your baby, whose skin is as silk,
Generous feedings of 'Hi-Test Milk;'
Give him the start of radiant health,
And he will possess life's greatest wealth."

Last Week of Zain Contest To Tell Grand Prize Story

Check Over Rules Again to See That You Have Strictly Complied So You May Qualify for $1,000 Award in Case Your Ad Wins.

This week is the most important of the $10,000 Post-Zain Amateur Ad Contest. It is the final week and Saturday midnight, May 30, will be the deadline for you ad writers to submit your ads to compete for the $1,000 grand prize and the special prizes some of the participating concerns are giving.

The $1,000 grand prize is a lot of money and you should put forth your best effort to win. One type of ads may appeal to some of the judges and another type to others. Therefore express your ideas in as many different ways as you can, thus increasing your chances to win.

Put as many ads in one envelope as you can and mail them to the Editor of The Post-Zain Contest, Washington Post. Start right now and write lots of ads. Don't wait until the last few days. If you have not before participated in this contest you can enter right now by submitting ads and be eligible for the $1,000 grand prize.

If you have already written about the 35 participating concerns write 35 more ads, then, in the event you left your name off one of the other set of 35 or more you won't lose the opportunity of winning the $1,000 prize because you only wrote about 34 of the concerns.

Remember, write only on one side of the paper and put your name and address on the back—also your telephone number. Be sure your name and address appear on the envelope. Write only one ad on each sheet of paper, and the name of the concern about which you are writing must appear at the left-hand top of the page. If you wish to be eligible for the $1,000 grand award you must follow these rules.

The $100 prize winner, the complete list of the other big award winners, the 280 merchandise prize winners and the ad writers who are receiving the additional prizes The Post is giving for their excellent ads in the sixth period of the contest will be published tomorrow. Your ad may have been a big winner the sixth week. If you were a winner, don't stop writing ads; try in earnest for that grand prize, and if you did not win a prize the sixth week this seventh week provides the greatest of opportunities for you.

Now it is up to you. The $1,000 check is waiting for you. If you really want it put some honest-to-goodness effort in your ad writing. We urge you to write lots and lots of ads. Each one gives you one more chance to be the big winner.

Preliminary Designs Of Bridge Are Pushed

The District Commissioners yesterday accepted a proposal of Modjeski, Masters & Chase, consulting engineers, of Philadelphia, to prepare preliminary designs of both a masonry and steel structure to replace the present Calvert Street Bridge, together with cost estimates, traffic arrangements, and the like.

The District agreed to pay $30,000 for the work in monthly installments of $3,000. The plans are to be ready by November 1.

Lack of Legal Aid Bureau Here Hit

Council of Social Agencies Workers Hear Speaker Outline Need.

The need for legal aid for dependent people in all large communities was emphasized at an institute on legal aid held under auspices of the Council of Social Agencies yesterday.

Two sessions in the morning and afternoon were conducted by Hamilton H. Hackney, director of the legal aid bureau of Baltimore, for the members of the family welfare committee of the council.

Seventy-five workers from social agencies heard Mr. Hackney describe the organization and function of a legal aid bureau for those persons who require legal assistance but who are unable to pay lawyer's fees. Washington has no such bureau, and the lack of this was strongly deplored by the group.

Indignities Are Basis Of Suit for Divorce

Sheridan, Wyo., May 22 (A.P.).—Dorothea F. Collier, daughter of William H. Wilson, wealthy Philadelphia attorney, filed suit for divorce today against J. Franklin Collier, charging indignities and extreme cruelty.

They were married at Arlington, Mass., October 18, 1930, and have been separated several weeks. Mrs. Collier now is operating a cafe here.

YEARS OF GRACE - - - By Margaret Ayer Barnes

SYNOPIS.

Andre telephones Jane next day that he is coming to speak to her father about their marriage. Jane awaits the outcome with anxiety. Her father receives Andre alone, then Jane's mother enters the room. Jane too bursts in and finds an excited group. Andre promises to go to France and wait until Jane is 21 before seeing or writing to her. The two young people exchange a tragic farewell. Andre goes to Europe and Jane goes to Bryn Mawr for two years with Agnes, where she studies and enjoys herself until her sister Isabel marries and Jane returns home to make her debut.

PART II.

STEPHEN—CHAPTER I.

"YOU'LL need," said Jane's mother reflectively, "at least four new evening dresses. The blue can be made over in the house." She was standing in the doorway of Jane's closet, regarding Jane's depleted wardrobe with an appraising eye.

Jane, darning a stocking by the window overlooking the willow tree, was conscious of a certain sense of unwonted importance. Four new evening dresses. Nothing like that, of course, had ever occurred to her before.

"The pink," continued her mother, turning to look at her earnestly, "will be home in time for Flora's dance. You will need three others." She gave a little sigh as she spoke. "Things aren't as simple as they were when Isable came out."

"Here's Isabel now," said Jane.

Her mother hurried to the window. There was Isabel, indeed pushing the baby carriage up the side path.

"She's getting nice and thin again," said Jane's mother, "now she's stopped nursing the baby."

Isabel saw them and waved cheerfully over the hood of the carriage. Jane thought she had never looked so pretty.

"I like her fat," she said.

Isabel stooped to lift up the soft armful of afghans that was her son. His head wobbled alarmingly in his big blue bonnet and came safely to rest on Isabel's shoulder. She picked up a bottle and a bundle of blankets with her free hand and turned toward the side door.

"It's a great deal for Isabel to do," said Jane's mother, "to take care of that great child all by herself."

"I think she likes it," said Jane. "I'd like it if he were mine." Her nephew always appealed to her as an animated doll. She loved to go over to Isabel's little apartment in the Kinzie flats and watch her bathe and dress him.

Isabel's voice floated up the stairs. "Aren't you ready?" she asked.

"You're early," said Jane's mother.

"I know. I brought the baby over so he could have his nap." Isabel appeared in the doorway. "Jane ought to be there before it begins."

They were all going over to Muriel's reception. Jane and Flora were going to pour tea.

"What do you know about Muriel?" Isabel asked.

"Muriel?" said Jane, surprised. She wasn't conscious of anything.

"Muriel and Bert," said Isabel. "Bert Lancaster."

"Bert Lancaster?" echoed Jane. "What about them?"

"Rosalie says he's crazy about her."

"Isabel!" cried Jane. "That old man!"

"He's not 40," said Isabel. "I don't believe he's more than 38."

Jane slipped out of her skirt and turned toward her closet door.

"He sends her flowers," said Isabel, "three times a week."

"Every one," said Jane, "sends Muriel flowers."

"He's over there," said Isabel, "all the time."

"Great for Muriel," said Jane laconically. Then, emerging from the closet, "Here's my new dress."

"It's lovely," said Isabel. Jane thought it was, too. Pink taffeta with ecru lace revers over the enormous sleeves. "You'll look sweet."

Jane walked over to the walnut bureau and began to take down her hair.

"Do you think I ought to curl my hair?" asked Jane anxiously. "I suppose I could learn——"

Isabel regarded her very seriously, her head on one side.

"N-no," she said slowly. "I like it straight. You've got a certain style, Jane, all your own."

That was the first time that Jane had ever heard that. She flushed with pleasure.

"Ready, Jane?" It was her mother's voice. Mrs. Ward stood in the doorway. She looked very pretty in her violet gown with her little black lace shoulder cape and violet bonnet.

Jane was putting on her hat before the mirror. It was a very pretty hat with a big pink taffeta bow standing high in the back. Jane adjusted her white face veil, making little mouths at herself in the glass as she drew it down tightly over her chin.

She caught up her wrap from the bed and stooped to kiss the baby. "Isabel, he is cute. I'm ready, now."

"You look very well," said her mother. "Come on, girls! The cab's at the door."

The November air felt very cool and bracing as they stood on the front steps. It was very luxurious Jane thought, to be driving over to Muriel's in a cab when it was only four blocks away. Everything at home seemed luxurious, after Bryn Mawr. It really wasn't nearly as bad as she had thought it was going to be. It was fun to be with her father again. He had given her a new desk and a bookcase to hold all her Bryn Mawr books. Her mother had had her room repapered. It was very exciting to buy all the new clothes and to feel herself, for once, the central figure on the little family stage. Even Isabel seemed to think that nothing was too good for her. Hats and frocks and shoes and stockings were arriving every day, regardless of expense.

Jane was a little appalled at the outlay, but every one else seemed to take it completely for granted. Jane was a debutante. She had to have things. Her mother had even ordered her some new calling cards, though the old ones were not half used up. "Miss Ward," they said, with the "Jane" left off. Jane couldn't quite think of herself as "Miss Ward." She was, of course, now Isabel was married.

The cab turned the corner that always made her remember Andre's last smile. She could still see his tall, slender figure, walking furiously fast up Pine street. But she had grown accustomed, now, to missing Andre. The first fall days that always made her feel that school should be beginning, had brought him to mind at every turn. She had planned to go to see his mother just as soon as she was sure that she was back from her summer in France. Mrs. Duroy would tell her all about him.

She had mentioned that projected visit a little diffidently to her father.

Jane flung off her wrap in the lacy splendor of the Lester's guest room. A waiting maid seized it as it fell.

She had not seen Mrs. Duroy since the night of the bicycle picnic. Two years ago and more. Her father had looked at her very kindly.

"They've gone, Jane," he said, gently.

"Gone?" she had echoed faintly.

"He was called back to Europe. Stationed in Prague now, I think. They left last winter, soon after Christmas."

So that was that.

"Papa," Jane had said, rather hesitantly, "do—do you know anything about Andre?"

"Not a thing, Kid. Haven't heard of him since he left."

"——I wish I could have seen his mother," Jane had said miserably, "before she went away." Her father patted her hand. There was nothing to say. Prague. Jane wasn't even sure what country it was in. She kept thinking of Andre in Prague. Or Paris.

She kept thinking, too, of Agnes and Marion, and of what they were doing, each hour of the day, on the green October campus. It was very easy to imagine that, for the Bryn Mawr days were marked off meticulously hour by hour, with a fixed, unchanging program.

It was nearly 4 now. Nearly 5 in Bryn Mawr. Agnes and Marion were washing up the tea things that very minute. They were laughing about something, of course. Something funny that Agnes would have said. Jane forgot them, however, at the sight of Muriel's awning. It was her first big party. Next week she would have an awning of her own.

The doorman, resplendent in maroon broadcloth and brass buttons, flung open the cab door with a flourish. Jane followed her mother and Isabel up the red velvet carpet. She remembered, just in time, to pick up her pink taffeta train.

The Lesters' big house was in very festive array. There were palms from the florist's and flowers everywhere. Great gold and russet bunches of chrysanthemums and roses of every kind and color. The front hall smelled faintly like a greenhouse. A line of caterer's men bowed them up the stairs. They were very early, which was quite as it should be. Jane's place was waiting her behind the great silver tea kettle in the dining room.

Jane flung off her wrap in the lacy splendor of the Lesters' guest room. A waiting maid seized it as it fell. She folded it meticulously and laid it on the bed. Jane looked in the long glass. So, she had a style of her own, she thought. Isabel had said so, and Isabel knew. Jane couldn't see it, however. But her gown was very pretty and her waist was very small and her cheeks were pink with excitement behind her sheer white face veil. She ran down the stairs ahead of her mother.

The four Lesters were standing ceremoniously at the parlor door. The room seemed very bare and strangely neat, with all the furniture pushed back against the walls and all the ornaments removed to make way for the magnificent flowers. Mrs. Lester looked perfectly enormous in purple satin. Murial, at her side, incredibly angelic, in white lace. Her hair was a black cloud. Her eyes were very bright and blue, dancing with pleasure. She carried a great bunch of white sweet peas. She flung her arms around Jane excitedly.

Jane passed down the line and stood a moment, uncertainly, in the empty room. She wandered a bit uneasily toward the dining room door. There was Flora behind the chocolate pot. Flora, very fair and frail, looking like a little Dresden shepherdess in pale blue silk. Jane took her place at the other end of the table. An obsequious caterer's man hovered behind her chair. Or perhaps he was the new butler. Jane couldn't remember.

Somebody asked for some tea. Jane poured it out in silence. More people were coming into the room. Jane didn't know any of them. Lots of them wanted tea. Jane was kept quite busy. She could hear Flora chattering away at her end of the table. Flora knew ever so many people. Some men came in. Quite old ones. They gravitated around Flora. She seemed to have lots to talk about. One gray-bearded gentleman was a trifle deaf. He was asking Flora a question.

"Jane Ward," she heard Flora say. "Jane Ward. Mrs. John Ward's daughter."

"John Ward's daughter?" Jane heard him reply. "Didn't know there was another." He was staring at her over the orchids. "Pretty little filly."

Jane felt unaccountably exhilarated. She looked up at an old lady who was asking for tea, with a ravishing smile.

"Doesn't Muriel look lovely?" she said politely. The old lady must at least know Muriel.

"Muriel who?" said the old lady. But Jane was not discouraged. She went on smiling and trying to talk. Pretty little filly, he had said.

Freddy Waters came in with three young men. He brought them up to Jane.

"They want tea," he said, and introduced them.

Jane realized at once that she had been so excited that she hadn't heard their names. But she smiled very steadfastly. Pretty little filly. Very soon the young men were laughing. One of them pretended that the massive hot-water kettle was too heavy for her to lift. He filled the empty teapot himself. Jane thought he was awfully attractive. She felt her cheeks growing hot in the crowded room. She hoped they were growing pinker. More young men came in. Her unknown swains introduced them. Jane didn't hear their names, either. One of them brought her some pink punch.

"There's a stick in it," he said, smiling.

Jane felt quite daring, drinking it. She glanced across at Flora. Flora was drinking it too. She was surrounded by young men. The old ones had all gone. Two elderly ladies were waiting for their chocolate, a bit impatiently. They got it finally from the caterer's man.

The room was very hot and very, very noisy. Jane had to scream to be heard. It was easier to talk when you screamed, she discovered, much easier than in a silent room. When you screamed, things seemed funny.

Presently there was a little disturbance at the dining-room door. Lots of young men came in, and then Muriel. Muriel looked flushed and terribly excited. Her cheeks were rose pink. She was waving her sweet peas and laughing at every one. Close behind her was Mr. Bert Lancaster. He looked old, Jane thought, among all those gay young people, but awfully handsome. His mustache was just right. It was waxed, the least little bit, at the ends. There was a white sweet pea in his buttonhole.

He cleared the way for Muriel to the tea-table. The crowd was thinning out. Muriel patted Jane's shoulder.

"Tired, darling?" she asked. Mr. Lancaster offered her a cup of tea. She shook her head. "I want something cold."

One of the young men sprang to get some punch. When he came back with it, Mr. Lancaster took the glass cup out of his hand and gave it to Muriel himself. The young man glared resentfully. Muriel smiled up into the eyes of Mr. Lancaster and drank the punch with little gasps of delight.

"I was so thirsty," she said. "I'm awfully hot."

Mr. Lancaster took her arm very gently, just above the elbow. He steered her through what was left of the crowd to the bay window at the end of the room. He opened the sash a little. Muriel stood leaning against the red velvet window curtains, fanning herself with her sweet peas. Mr. Lancaster was bending over her, his eyes upon her face.

"May I have a cup of tea, Jane?" said somebody softly. Jane started and looked up. It was Flora's mother. She had on a tiny black bonnet with one pink rose and a perky little black velvet bow that stood up behind. Her face was framed in the black lace ruff of her little cape. It looked very pale against that background and when she raised her veil, Jane thought her lips were white. In a moment, though, she was laughing with one of the young men. Her laugh was very low and silvery and her eyes were very bright. Her black dotted veil was tucked coquettishly up over her little nose. The young man seemed enslaved at once. Flora's mother looked up into his eyes and laughed again. The young man was immensely flattered. Jane was staring up at them, just as she had stared, a moment before, at Mr. Bert Lancaster and Muriel.

"Do you know this dear child?" said Flora's mother. She introduced the young man. Jane smiled very dutifully, but she couldn't compete with Mrs. Furness. The young man returned to his devotion. Flora's mother put her teacup down. The tea was untasted. Two more young men were talking to her now. She turned to leave the room and all three went with her.

Jane's eyes returned to Muriel. She was still standing with Mr. Lancaster by the window. He was talking to her, very earnestly, but Muriel's eyes were wandering brightly over the crowd. She was not bothering much to listen to him. Jane returned to her tea-pouring.

Suddenly she saw Rosalie enter the room. She walked straight over to Muriel and she looked very much provoked. She said something sharply and Muriel turned away with her toward the door. Mr. Lancaster followed.

"You've got to stay in line with Mamma," said Rosalie angrily, as they passed Jane's elbow. "I've been looking all over for you."

They walked toward the door together. Mr. Lancaster was strolling behind them pulling his mustache and smiling. On the threshold they almost ran into Flora's mother. She spoke at once to Mr. Lancaster and smiled, very prettily, up into his face. He answered rather briefly, and, after a moment, Flora's mother turned away with her three young men. Mr. Lancaster followed Muriel into the parlor.

Jane heard an excited whisper in her ear.

"Did you see that?" It was Isabel. Jane thoroughly despised her. She felt terribly sorry for Flora's mother and she hated Mr. Bert Lancaster. But, most of all, she despised herself for having seen it. She had seen it all, she had started at it, just like Isabel. It quite spoiled the end of the reception.

NATION WILL UNVEIL MEMORIAL TO MEN VICTIMS OF TITANIC

Ceremonies Here Tuesday to Honor Heroes Who Died for Others.

HOOVERS AND STIMSON TO ATTEND EXERCISES

Mrs. Taft to Drop Covering of Mrs. Whitney's Sculpture Erected by Women.

A memorial, typifying in granite the courage and the unselfishness of the men who went down with the Titanic so that women and children might live, is to be unveiled on the banks of the Potomac, in Potomac Park, Tuesday, at 4:30 o'clock. The President, Mrs. Hoover and a notable gathering will attend the ceremonies. The statue, sculptored by Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, is the contribution of more than 20,000 women.

Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of State, will preside at the ceremonies. The principal address will be made by Representative Robert Luce, of Waltham, Mass. Mrs. John Hays Hammond, chairman of the Woman's Titanic Memorial Association, will tender the statue to the people of the United States.

Mrs. William Howard Taft, who was the first contributor to the fund, will unveil the memorial. Wreaths will be laid at the base of the statue by Mrs. James W. Wadsworth, jr., whose mother, Mrs. John Hay, was first chairman of the association, and by Mrs. Robert S. Chew, the present secretary of the organization.

Sculptress to Attend.

The invocation will be by the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, D. D., Bishop of Washington. Rabbi Abram Simon will pronounce the benediction. Mrs. Whitney, the sculptress, will be introduced. Music will be by the Marine Band.

Authority to erect the statue was granted by act of Congress, March 3, 1917. So as to be able to erect the monument on the most desirable site it was necessary to await the demolition of old buildings and the construction of a seawall.

The site is in Potomac Parkway at the foot of New Hampshire avenue near the intersection of Twenty-seventh and E streets.

The memorial was selected by the Commission of Fine Arts from designs submitted in a Nation-wide competition among women. Mrs. Whitney, the winner, is widely known.

Plan Formed Here.

The plan for raising the fund for the Titantic Memorial was formulated shortly after the disaster, at a meeting held in Mrs. Hammond's Washington home. Mrs. Hay and Mrs. Hammond were chosen as the president and the secretary, respectively, of the organization.

The base of the memorial bears two inscriptions. One reads: "To the brave men who perished in the wreck of the Titanic, April 15, 1912. They gave their lives that women and children might be saved." Beneath that inscription is this line: "Erected by the women of America."

The other inscription is as follows: "Placed here by the women of America in honor of brave and unselfish manhood. This memorial is to the rich and the poor; ignorant and learned; old and young—who possessed in common God's great gift of brave and unselfish manhood."

Whelan Gets Lease In DeMoll Building

Ground Floor Will Be Used by Drug Company for 15-Year Period.

The most important business lease in months was announced yesterday by Weaver Bros., Inc., whose office stated that the entire ground floor of the De Moll Building, six-story brick and stone structure at the northwest corner of Twelfth and G streets northwest, has been leased to the Whelan Drug Co. for a period of fifteen years.

The lease was made for Emmons S. Smith, jr., and Isabelle Q. Smith, owners of the building, at a consideration that was not divulged. The transaction was handled by Weaver Bros., Inc., in cooperation with Theodore M. Judd. The lease gives the Whelan Drug Co. store space with a frontage of 28 feet on G street and a depth of 54 feet.

DeMoll Piano Co. will retain the remaining portion of the Twelfth street frontage as an entrance to its store space on the five upper floors. The Whelan Drug Co. will effect extensive alterations and improvements on the ground floor.

AUTO PARKING SPACE IS CUT STILL MORE

Street Restrictions Ordered to Provide Room for Moving Vehicles.

More parking space was eliminated yesterday by the District Commissioners upon recommendation of Traffic Director W. H. Harland, to provide wider thoroughfares for moving vehicles. These regulations will not be effective until ten days after they are properly advertised.

The streets affected and the reasons for the regulations as stated to the Commissioners by the traffic director are:

Grace street, from Wisconsin avenue to Potomac street, no parking on either side at any time. With parking on south side, as at present, only 13 feet of roadway is available for the movement of traffic in both directions.

Sixteenth Street Restricted.

Sixteenth street northeast from Benning road to Rosedale street, no parking on east side at any time. Street is only 24 feet wide and parking on both sides makes traffic lane too narrow.

Grant Circle, no parking at inside curb at any time. With traffic constantly increasing, the parked cars create a hazard, particularly for pedestrians who walk between them into the moving traffic.

Twenty-fourth street, between Calvert street and Connecticut avenue, no parking on west side between 8 a. m. and 6 p. m.; street is only 30 feet wide and pedestrians have to walk on the street as there is no sidewalk.

D street, for 150 feet west of Thirteenth street, no parking on either side at any time because of street car terminal.

Newark Street Regulated.

Newark street, between Connecticut avenue and Thirty-third street, no parking on north side at any time; street is too narrow for parking on both sides.

Fourteenth street, from Girard to Newton streets, no parking on west side from 8 to 9:30 a. m. and on east side from 4 to 6 p. m.; because of traffic congestion during morning and afternoon rush hours; recommended by Columbia Heights Business Men's Association and Citizens Forum of Columbia Heights.

The parking restriction on H street, between Fourth street and Madison place, was removed because the street is now being widened.

H. WALKER TUCKER FUNERAL

Services to Be Today for Lifelong Resident of Capital.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock for H. Walker Tucker, 83 years old, retired business man and lifelong resident of this city, who died Thursday at his home, 3301 P street northwest, following a lengthy illness. The services will be conducted at the Gawler funeral home, 1754 Pennsylvania avenue northwest. Dr. Harry Goodman, Episcopal clergyman, will officiate. Interment, with Masonic rites at the grave, will be in Oak Hill Cemetery.

Mr. Tucker was well known in business and fraternal circles here, and was a member of the Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia and of Hiram Lodge, No. 10, F. A. A. M. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Bessie C. Tucker; a son, Lloyd Lee Tucker, and seven grandchildren.

HERMAN HUNT SUCCUMBS.

Year's Illness Fatal to Former Employ of Treasury Department.

Herman Hunt, for many years a resident of this city, died yesterday at his home, 1438 Taylor street northwest, following a year's illness. He was 70 years old.

A native of Indiana, Mr. Hunt came to Washington about 26 years ago. He had been employed for several years in the Comptroller General's Office of the United States Treasury Department. He was a member of the National Baptist Memorial Church.

Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Mannie G. Hunt; a son, Maurice L. Hunt, and two daughters, Mrs. Beatrice H. Nizno and Mrs. Ada H. Eiseman.

Funeral services will be held Monday morning at 11 o'clock at the residence. Interment will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

MRS. KENNETH S. COE BURIAL

Services for Former Resident of Capital to Be Today.

Funeral services for Mrs. Kenneth S. Coe, formerly Miss Ruth McCabe, of this city, who died Thursday in Charlotte, N. C., where for six years she made her home, will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the S. H. Hines undertaking parlors. Interment will be in Glenwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Coe, the daughter of John McCabe, of the White House clerical staff, is survived by her husband and three children, Catherine, Mary Jane and Kenneth, jr., and her parents and two sisters. Both Mr. and Mrs. Coe are natives of Washington.

FIVE BOOK PRIZES DRAWN BY RECIPES

Many Women Are Aided by General Excellence of Contributions.

Recipes based on advertisements on the Saturday Food and Home Economics Page of The Washington Post are being sent in by homemakers in the territory covered by The Post not only in the hopes of winning some of the prizes offered for the best recipes but in order to give other women a chance to benefit by these cooking discoveries of their own.

The Home Economics Editor of The Washington Post wishes to compliment the contestants in the recipe race for the general excellence of the recipes submitted. The best thing about these recipes is that the women sending them in have tried them out themselves and know their virtue.

The winners of book prizes and honorable mentions this week are as follows:

COFFEE ICE CREAM.
(Awarded Book Prize.)

1 cup strong coffee (Asco coffee, American Stores)
1 teaspoon gelatin
1 can evaporated milk (large size)
Honey (L. A. Zirkle, Arcade Market)
Pinch of salt

Soak gelatin in ¼ cup of cold coffee for five minutes, after which dissolve in ¾ cup hot coffee. Put aside to cool, then chill in electric refrigerator.

Chill evaporated milk, then whip until fairly stiff. Gradually add the coffee jelly and enough honey to sweeten sufficiently. A pinch of salt brings out the flavor.

When well blended, pour into ice trays and freeze.

This makes six to eight servings at very moderate cost.

MRS. MARGARET P. FORBES.
19 Metropolitan avenue, Kensington, Md.

ICE BOX ROLLS.
(Awarded Book Prize.)

This recipe makes about fifteen Clover Leaf rolls and they may be kept in the General Electric refrigerator for a week if desired:

1-3 cup shortening
½ cup boiling water
1-3 cup cold water
1 beaten egg
¼ cup sugar.
½ teaspoon salt
1 yeast cake
3 teaspoons warm water, pinch of sugar
3 or 3½ cups plain Washington flour.

Put shortening in bowl with the boiling water. When melted add cold water, egg, sugar and salt and stir well.

In meantime soak the yeast in the warm water to which has been added a pinch of sugar.

Mix the two mixtures and add flour to make a slightly stiff dough.

Place in bowl, rub top with a bit of shortening, place wax paper and plate or lid over this and place in electric ice box until ready to use. Three hours before serving make into small clover leaf rolls in greased muffin pans; let raise three hours, bake about eight minutes in moderately hot oven.

A. PEARL McPHERSON.
104 W. Thornapple street, Chevy Chase, Md.

PEANUT BUTTER RAREBIT.
(Awarded Book Prize.)

1 cup strained tomato.
4 tablespoons peanut butter
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon onion juice
2 tablespoons grated cheese
4 drops tabasco sauce
Salt to taste
Dash of paprika

CRACKERS OR TOASTED BREAD.

Heat the tomato. Melt the butter, cream it with 4 tablespoons Schindler's peanut butter, and add to the hot tomato. Stir until smooth. Add cheese has melted, and just before the cheese and seasonings. When the serving, beat well with a Dover egg beater. Serve hot on slices of toasted bread or crackers.

MRS. C. W. CLEVER.
125 North Oak street, Lyon Village, Clarendon, Va.

DEVIL'S FOOD POTATO CAKE.
(Awarded Book Prize.)

Two-thirds cup butter
Two cups sugar
Two cups Washington Self-Rising Flour
One cup hot mashed potatoes
One-half cup sweet milk
Four eggs
One-half cup chocolate
One cup chopped walnut meats
One teaspoon each of cloves, cinnamon, nutmeg and vanilla extract

Cream butter and sugar, add milk and mashed potatoes, sift together flour and spices, add to mixture, then stir in eggs, well beaten, chopped walnut meats, melted chocolate, add extract. Bake in moderate oven.

MRS. J. L. O'CONNELL.
934 I street northwest.

PEANUT SCRAPPLE.
(Awarded Book Prize.)

One pint of boiling water
One-half cupful of Schindler's peanut butter
One-half cupful corn meal
One teaspoonful poultry seasoning
One-half teaspoonful salt
One-fourth teaspoonful paprika

Put in double boiler all the ingredients and cook half an hour, adding a little more water if necessary. Pack in a greased pan and, when cold, cut in slices, dip in flour and fry in hot sausage fat.

MRS. W. N. CRAWFORD.
4117 Thirty-seventh street northwest.

S-Z-S Sandwiches.
(Honorable Mention.)

2 tablespoons Schindler's peanut butter
2 teaspoons Zirkle white clover honey
6 Slices Schneider's whole-wheat bread

Cream peanut butter and honey and spread between each two slices of whole-wheat bread. Cutting these double slices diagonally makes six delicious triangular sandwiches.

MAUDE SAWYER TAYLOR.
5412 Thirteenth street northwest.

HONEY PECAN BREAD ROLL.
(Honorable Mention.)

Thoroughly blend one cup finely cut salted pecans with one-half cup slightly warmed Zirkle honey to form spreading paste. Cut bread in slices full length of loaf. Spread with butter, then with honey-pecan paste, and roll as for jelly roll. Wrap each in waxed paper and tie to keep intact. Let stand an hour or longer; remove paper and cut each roll in three slices. One loaf makes fifteen rolled slices.

'Cold Air Cookies' Recipe Wins Post's Weekly Prize

This week's $5 prize awarded for the best Saturday Food Page recipe was won by Ruth Kinney, 2310 Ashmead place. It was announced yesterday. Her prize-winning formula deals with the manner of making "Cold Air Cookies."

"Cold Air Cookies" are highly recommended by the author of the recipe because the batter may be placed in a refrigerator for 10 days or more, and fresh cookies baked as needed.

The recipe follows:

COLD AIR COOKIES.
(Awarded $5 Special Prize.)

1 cup white sugar
1 cup brown sugar
1½ cups Crisco of Mazola
3 eggs, well beaten
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons soda
1 tablespoon cinnamon
1 cup nut meats—pecan or black walnut.
4½ cups Washington Flour.

Cream shortening well, add beaten eggs. Sift flour, salt, soda and cinnamon. Combine the two mixtures, add nuts and mix well.

Shape into two rolls and place in General Electric Refrigerator overnight. Slice in thin wafers and bake carefully. The beauty about these cookies is that you may keep them in the refrigerator as long as ten days and make a few cookies at a time, thereby having fresh ones often. This recipe makes 130 cookies.

FLAVOR TO MEATS IS GIVEN BY CHEESE

American Product Especially Provides Innumerable Inexpensive Uses.

The principle behind the old line, "bread and cheese and kisses" as a diet for newlyweds is a good one, according to the Bureau of Home Economics, United States Department of Agriculture. In a recent statement the bureau declared that "cheese is one of the outstanding protein foods, which, in addition to being economical, brings variety and flavor to meals that otherwise might be savorless and uninteresting.

The allowance for a family of five is from five to seven pounds of lean meat, liver, fish, cheese and eggs each week in the low-cost food guide developed by the bureau. This is not a large quantity and it must be divided among the five groups and must be spread over seven days. It requires ingenuity to decide which ones to buy and how to use them in order to avoid undesirable monotony in serving inexpensive meals.

Comparatively speaking, the foods in this group are the highest in price. Consequently, the quantity of these foods in a dietary so inexpensive is less than is normally found in the average diet. Some proteins may be supplied in cheaper forms, but meat, cheese, fish and eggs can not be ignored. They add flavor, interest and efficient protein to a diet, likely to become monotonous if made up largely of cereals and legumes.

Least Expensive Forms.

The bureau calls attention to the fact that American cheese and cottage cheese are the two least expensive forms of cheese available in this country. The former is a commercial product made from milk and ripened, while the latter is usually homemade and unripened. It has been estimated that an inch cube of American cheese has a fuel value greater than an egg and equal to an ounce of porterhouse or sirloin steak, and that it supplies as much protein as the latter. The food value of cottage cheese is similar.

The theory that cheese causes intestinal disturbances has been entirely disproved in tests by the Department of Agriculture. The experiment showed that cheese, like meat, is well digested when properly prepared and is thoroughly assimilated.

Flavor Is Pleasing.

Cheese is a concentrated food, consequently the best way to insure good digestion is to serve bread or other cereals with it, taking care to cook the cheese in such a way that it is soft and not leathery. High temperature makes cheese tough, so the bureau suggests that the cheese be grated and mixed through the food rather than spread across the top as is so often done in scalloped and baked dishes.

The popularity of macaroni and cheese is well founded, the bureau says; the flavor is pleasing and the macaroni, which is a cereal product, supplies starch and carbohydrates which cheese lacks. But the nutrition experts of the bureau say that, to balance the meal, some food such as tomatoes, lettuce, spinach or fruit should be served with this dish and, in fact, with all cheese dishes.

Mild-flavored cheeses may be eaten in quantity while the "sharper" varieties are more suitable for flavoring foods which lack savor. Cottage cheese, and, in fact, most American varieties of cheese are mild. Cottage cheese can be served in many pleasing ways other than as a salad, and the bureau has developed some interesting recipes for utilizing this inexpensive food. It may be used as a filler for sandwiches, combined with nuts, vegetables, relishes and meats. Cottage cheese pie and old Dutch cheese cake are two old favorites. It may also be made into a loaf and baked in the oven, made into patties and into balls that are fried in deep fat.

American cheese has innumerable uses, for it can be served with eggs, omelets, in rarebits or baked with many vegetables. Today's menu introduces cheese in a bean loaf that is served with tomato sauce. This dish serving five persons can be made for 24 cents or thereabouts, depending on local food costs.

Yeast Bread—Sponge Dough.

1½ cups warm water
1½ tablespoons sugar
2 cakes compressed yeast
1½ cups Washington flour
1½ teaspoons salt

Make a sponge by mixing the above ingredients in the order given. Allow to rise about one hour, or until light; then add:

2 cups scalded milk (cooled to lukewarm)
3 tablespoons shortening
1½ tablespoons sugar
1½ teaspoons salt
9 to 10 cups Washington flour

Add the ingredients in order given to the sponge. Knead quickly and lightly until dough is smooth and elastic. Grease lightly. Allow to rise in a warm place (about 80 degrees F.) about two hours, or until double in bulk. Punch down. Allow to rise 45 minutes. Punch down. Mold into loaves and allow to rise until very light. Bake in a hot oven (400 to 425 degrees F.). (Some people prefer baking with a small pan of water in the oven.) Turn loaves occasionally while baking. Reduce the heat of oven after first 15 minutes to 380 degrees F. Bake 50 to 60 minutes. This yields (approximately) two 2-pound loaves or four 1-pound loaves.

High Food Value Is Found in Honey

Is Easily Assimilated and Benefits Both Old and Young.

Honey is one of the best of the high energy-producing foods, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Because it is composed almost entirely of simple sugars, it can be assimilated with ease. Most sugars require action by the gastric and intestinal secretions to break them down into simple sugars similar to those occurring naturally in honey.

Because it is easily assimilated, honey is of importance where normal digestive activities have been impaired by disease or old age. Honey can be utilized by the body without placing much of a burden on an enfeebled digestive tract, and is also recognized as a valuable food for babies and young children.

Honey is especially good in the diet of athletes. The rapid absorption of the simple sugars of honey replaces the sugars in the blood and muscles that have been burned by strenuous exercise.

Yeast Bread—Straight Dough.

1½ cups milk
1 cake compressed yeast
2 tablespoons sugar
1½ teaspoons salt
4 to 5 cups Washington flour
1½ tablespoons shortening

Scald and measure the milk; add the yeastcake, sugar and salt; mix thoroughly; add about one-half the Washington flour; mix well; add the shortening and remaining flour, or enough to make a dough as soft as can be handled. Knead the dough quickly and lightly until it is smooth and elastic. Grease lightly.

Allow to rise in a warm place (about 80 degrees F.), until double in bulk, or when pressed with finger the impression remains in the dough. This will require about 2 hours. Punch down; let rise about 45 minutes. Punch down a third time and allow to rise 15 minutes. Mold into loaves and let rise about one hour. Bake in a hot oven (400 to 425 degrees F.). Some people prefer baking bread with a small pan of water in the oven. Reduce heat of oven after first 15 minutes to 380 degrees F. Bake the bread 50 to 60 minutes. This yields (approximately) one 2-pound loaf or two 1-pound loaves.

Play to Be Presented at Picnic.

Dr. Anna M. Ketcham has written a play entitled "Sylvia's Dream," to be presented at the annual picnic of the American Association of University Women at the country home of Dr. Louise Taylar Jones this afternoon at 5 o'clock. The performance is to be given out of doors.

IF there is any doubt in your mind about the advantages of an electric refrigerator, just corner any of your numerous friends who now own one. The best person to ask about it is the man of the house, because he actually sees less of the advantages than does the average housewife. He only knows that summer drinks can be delightfully cold and refreshing and that the salads he has at dinner time are always crisp and appetizing.

If he tells you that he would go back to the old-fashioned ice box, it will be one of the marvels of this age. Instead, it would be our guess that he will tell you all about the wonders of electric refrigeration . . . its greater economies and its absolute below-fifty degrees temperature at all times. After you have heard his story, you'll want to go to your neighborhood electric shop and arrange to have an electric refrigerator placed in your own home immediately.

HOW IT BEGAN

By Russ Murphy and Ray Sennsby

"To Eat Dog"

CERTAIN INDIAN TRIBES SERVED DOG MEAT. IN PIONEER DAYS, TO REFUSE TO PARTICIPATE IN A DOG FEAST MIGHT ANGER THE INDIANS. BUT IF, WHEN THE REPAST OF DOG WAS OFFERED, ONE PUT A COIN IN THE BOWL AND PASSED IT TO ONE'S NEIGHBOR THE LATTER TOOK THE COIN AND ATE THE DOG. FROM THIS CUSTOM THE EXPRESSION TO EAT DOG WAS USED TO INDICATE SUBSERVIENCE.

J. Tozzy Graham

HUSSY

IN EARLY ENGLISH DAYS THE WIFE OF AN EXALTED PERSON WAS KNOWN AS "LADY". WIVES OF ORDINARY FOLK WERE MERELY HOUSEWIVES. IN SLURRING OVER THE WORD HOUSEWIFE IT BECAME "HUSSIF" AND LATER IT TURNED UP AS HUSSY TO DESIGNATE A WORTHLESS WOMAN OR GIRL.

SHOOT THE BUTTS

WHEN TARGET SHOOTING WAS POPULAR A MOUND OF EARTH WAS PLACED BACK OF THE TARGET TO STOP PROJECTILES. THIS WAS CALLED THE BUTT AND TARGET SHOOTING WAS CALLED SHOOTING THE BUTTS. BECAUSE A CIGAR OR CIGARETTE STUB IS ALSO CALLED A BUTT, THE ACT OF THROWING THEM AWAY BECAME KNOWN HUMOROUSLY AS "SHOOTING BUTTS."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

GOOD-BY, MENINGITIS, FOR A WHILE.

THE danger of badly epidemic meningitis conditions has passed, so far as 1931 is concerned. There may be local outbreaks of small proportions and there is certain to be a greater general prevalence than there was two years ago in the same months, but conditions will not be bad and no one needs to be anxious. Certainly there will not be any such epidemic waves of meningitis as periodically swept across the country in the years prior to 50 years ago. In fact, there will be so little epidemic meningitis in the remainder of 1931 that the average citizen would never know it is around were there no health department reports and no health columns.

The next menace, so far as epidemics of disease of the central nervous system are concerned, is from possible epidemics of infantile paralysis. Local epidemics are apt to bob up toward the end of May. If the local health authorities and the people of the places where these outbreaks occur are careless and indifferent the local condition may smolder until later in the summer and then become bad. The greater menace is not due until about August 1.

In the last 25 years the abdominal organs have been made safe so far as epidemic and near epidemic infections are concerned. This statement strains the word "safe" considerably, but as applied to comparative conditions, it can be successfully defended. In more recent years the lungs are becoming safe from infections. There is a long road to travel before they can be said to be safe, but we are on the way.

But the bad news that somewhat offset the good is that the central nervous system is in for trouble. There is an increasing tendency toward infections of those important organs. It seems probable that there are some new diseases in the making, and the old ones seem to be on the increase. Meanwhile, health people all over the world are at work trying to find cures for these diseases of the brain and cord, and, what is more important, vaccines and methods to prevent them.

If a person will avoid infection this year, there is hope that a method of prevention will be found before the wheel turns him another chance to catch it.

RINGWORM REMEDY.

Commercial acetic acid (known to the trade as No. 8), 1 part; spirits of camphor, 3 parts.

Mix and apply with a camel's hair brush two or three times daily. A half-ounce vial of above mixture is sufficient. I have recommended and used this remedy for almost 50 years and if it has ever failed to cure I never heard of it.

FOR CANKER SORES.

Dip the sharpened point of a crystal of copper sulphate (blue stone) in water and touch the sore spots several times daily. In my own case I have found that canker sores are caused by a diet too rich in sugar or pastry. The above treatment, with a change of diet, always effects a cure.

WASHINGTON: SATURDAY, MAY 23, 1931. 15

EASTERN WINS INTERHIGH TRACK TITLE BY 6 POINTS

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN'S branch store in Ohio which has been commissioned by the main office in New York to conduct the next fight for the much-maligned world heavyweight champ-Schmeling, the Ferocious Frankfurter, pionship on July 3 between Max and Willie (The Clutch) Stribling at Cleveland sends word East that $150,000 already reposes in the till as the intake for advance seat sales.

A hundred and fifty grand, as "the boys" would term it, is much gelt in these reconstruction days, but Tex Richard never dealt in such pin money only five weeks before one of his world championship extravaganzas. Tex's million dollar spectacles could always be depended upon to produce a round half million advance sale a couple of months before the fight, excepting his ill-conceived farewell production, the Tunney-Heeney thing that also heralded the exit of the great Shakespearian scholar from the prize ring.

Public Apathetic

The Garden in its noble effort to provide the paying public with another heavyweight championship despite the absence of any concerted demand by the paying public is meeting with great gobs of apathy generally. Except for purely local agitation in Frankfort, Macon, Ga., and Cleveland, the fight has not induced a ripple of hysteria.

In appealing to the public with Schmeling and Stribling as the stars of the cast, the Garden may realize itself in the strange and unprofitable occupation of trying to scratch a place that doesn't itch, which is always bad and often leaves a sore spot.

The great dearth of excitement may be laid to any one of several doors. Chief of which are the past performances of both Schmeling and Stribling, heaped upon the general apathy of the prize fight public which for the past two summers has been the repeated victim of fouls and flukes at tops as high as $25.

Foul Champion

The manner in which Schmeling came into the title stamps the Frankforter as one of our worst champions and the only heavyweight champion ever to succeed to the title by the medium of a foul. He was the recipient of both the title and the foul at the hands of Jack Sharkey last summer at Yankee Stadium in one of the poorest excuses for a championship fight which has ever mulcted the much-mulcted customers.

On that occasion Schmeling, hailed as another Dempsey by grace of his best stock in trade, a facial resemblance, was taking a beating that caused the assembled 79,222 to wonder what right he had in the same ring with Sharkey until the fourth round, when the title dropped into his lap in a strange turn of events.

All but five seconds of the fourth round had passed and Sharkey had battered Schmeling's face into bloody mask and ripened him for a finishing clout, when Schmeling sank to the floor on the wings of a punch that he claimed was foul. The referee and one of the two judges announced that they had seen no foul blow, but the other judge reported his vision excellent, and on his vote Sharkey was disqualified, Schmeling was given the title, and the Tunney trophy committee refused to engrave his name among the holders of the title as an unworthy champion.

And Stribling

Such a man is the one who will meet Stribling in Cleveland. As the party of the second part, the Georgia Clutch will carry no impressive record into the ring with him. He restored a bit of his prestige with two quick knockouts in Chicago last year, but he has been tossed out of many a ring for unsatisfactory performances. In New York, especially the perennial Georgia Schoolboy has been a complete flop and he was one of the principals in the slow-motion fiasco in Miami in 1929, when Jack Sharkey wrestled him out of a decision. But with the wrestling renaissance sweeping the land, Stribling still might save the show by reverting to character.

Maryland Net Team Beats Delaware, 7-2

Maryland's varsity tennis team easily triumphed over Delaware, 7 matches to 2, on the Columbia Country Club courts yesterday afternoon. It was the Old Liners' closing contest of the season.

Maryland won four of the six singles engagements and swept the three doubles matches. In the lone string to go three sets Bridell, of Maryland, conquered Hollis, 6—2, 1—6, 6—4.

Goubeau, playing at No. 1 for the Old Liners, displayed good form in disposing of Moran in straight sets, 6—2, 6—4.

The summaries:

SINGLES.

Goubeau (Maryland) defeated Moran 6—2, 6—4. J. W. Brown (Delaware) defeated Roberts, 6—4, 8—6. Busick (Maryland) defeated H. C. Brown, 6—3, 6—2. Heppe (Delaware) defeated Wilk, 6—2, 6—4. Bridell (Maryland) defeated Hollis, 6—2, 1—6, 6—4. Bischoff (Maryland) defeated Le Carpentier, 6—4, 6—2.

DOUBLES.

Goubeau and Roberts (Maryland) defeated Le Carpentier and Moran, 7—5, 6—2. Busick and Bischoff (Maryland) defeated J. W. Brown and Heppe, 6—4, 6—3. Wilk and Bridell (Maryland) defeated H. C. Brown and Hollis, 6—1, 6—3.

America Wins Over Canada In Doubles

Shields-Wood Score by 8-6, 6-4, 6-2, Give U. S. 2-1 Lead.

Youths Hard Pressed to Win; Singles to Be Decisive Today.

MONTREAL, Quebec, May 22 (A. P.).—The United States took a commanding lead in the Davis Cup series with Canada today as Frank X. Shields and Sidney B. Wood, jr., of New York, swept to a straight set victory over Dr. Jack Wright and Marcel Rainville in the doubles competition. The score was 8—6, 6—4, 6—2.

The victory gave the United States a lead of two matches to one with only a victory in one of the two singles matches tomorrow needed to clinch the contest and earn for the Americans the right to meet Argentina at Washington, D. C., June 28, 29 and 30. Shields will match strokes with Rainville in the opening match while Wood will clash with Wright.

U. S. Youths Never Threatened.

The youthful United States combination was never threatened as it put the Canadian veterans to route. Shields and Wood were pressed only in the first set, but breaks through the service first of Wright and finally Rainville gave the United States youngsters the decision in the fourteenth game.

Rainville and Wright carried the fight to the invaders again in the second set, taking a three-game lead, only to see Shields and Wood sweep irresistibly from behind and forge ahead once more. Playing with increasing speed, clever placements and more confidence, the New Yorkers ran out the set and then rushed onto a quick third set victory.

Point Score Fairly Close.

Although winning in straight sets, the first two were fairly close in point score. Shields and Wood outscored the Rainville-Wright combination by 6 points in the first set and counted only 4 points more than the Canadian pair in the second set. The United States players were at their best in the final set, however, winning three love games while only two were forced to deuce.

In an exhibition doubles match, after the main event, Cliff Sutter and Gregory Mangin of the United States team defeated Walter Martin and Gilbert Nunns of Canada, 6—3, 6—4.

Mrs. Brand Annexes High Commission Cup

Mrs. Harrison Brand, who last year won the women's championship of the Chevy Chase Club, yesterday won the French High Commission Cup for women in the final round of match play on the Chevy Chase course, defeating Miss Susan Hacker, 4 and 3. Mrs. Brand, who was one down at the turn, squared the match on the tenth and steadily increased her lead until the contest ended on the fifteenth green. The consolation prize was won by Mrs. Frank R. Keefer, 4 and 3, who defeated Mrs. Hume Wrong, the winner of the trophy last year.

Denmark Netmen Gain 4th Davis Cup Round

Copenhagen, Denmark, May 22 (A. P.).—Denmark today advanced to the fourth round of Davis Cup play in the European zone by defeating Poland in the doubles match to win the series, three matches to one.

Einar Ulrich defeated J. Nebda in the deciding singles match, 6—2, 6—4, 6—3.

The first two singles matches were divided but Denmark took the doubles yesterday. One more singles match remains to be played but it will have no bearing on the result.

Disqualification Marks Churchill Downs Card

Churchill Downs, Louisville, Ky., May 22 (A.P.).—The running of the second race today, for 2-year-old maidens, witnessed the first disqualification of the Kentucky season. Harned Brothers' Fair Billows led the field, but was set back by the stewards, which gave the purse to Lair & Parrish's Bourbonite. Second money was awarded W. I. Kohn's Prince Megan, and third went to F. Rucker's Fluent.

Bourbonite, heavily supported favorite, took a short lead immediately after the break, with Fair Billows right at his flanks. Turning into the stretch Fair Billows easily drew clear, but 70 yards from home began swerving badly. Bourbonite, meanwhile, was coming again off the rail, but Fair Billows caromed into him and Tommy Murray, astride the former, had to ease his mount to prevent a serious accident.

The fouling was so obvious that it was not necessary for Murray to file a complaint. Fair Billows' number was never posted.

Syracuse Jayvee Crew Hope in Today's Race

Ithaca, N. Y., May 22 (A.P.).—The well-laid plans of Syracuse University's naval forces to make a sweeping bid for honors tomorrow in the quadrangular spring day regatta with Cornell, Harvard and Massachusetts Tech were upset today by the loss of Milton Weller, of Buffalo, varsity stroke oar.

Weller, ill with lumbago, collapsed after rowing 3 miles up Lake Cayuga in practice. He was taken to the Cornell Infirmary.

This development forced Jim Ten Eyck, veteran Syracuse coach, to switch to his erstwhile "jayvee" eight, stroked by Tom Lombardi, for the 2-mile climax feature of the regatta tomorrow evening. This combination is composed mainly of sophomores who rowed to victory last June at Poughkeepsie in freshman company. It is rated on close to a par with the Weller crew, which beat the Navy two weeks ago.

ROBINS WIN 2; ASCEND TO 5TH PLACE

Beat Phillies, 3-2, 5-2; Vance Hurt by Hit in 9th of Opener.

PHILADELPHIA, May 22 (A.P.).—Brooklyn's Robins struck their winning stride today, winning both games of a double-header from the Phillies and rising from seventh place to the top of the National League's second division. The scores were 3 to 2 and 5 to 2. The double victory enabled Brooklyn to pass the Phils and the idle Pittsburgh Pirates.

Dazzy Vance turned in some fine pitching to win the first game, but was forced out in the ninth inning, when he was struck on the cheek by a batted ball. He received a cut about 2 inches long and some bruises, but it is not believed he will be kept out of action. Jack Quinn came in after Pinky Whitney's drive stopped Vance and checked a threatened rally.

In the second clash Joe Shaute did even better, holding the Phils to six hits while Babe Herman gave him a good start by clouting his sixth home run of the season, with two mates on base, in the third inning. Johnny Frederick and Whitney also hit homers. It was Shaute's fourth victory of the season over the Phillies.

Four Britons to Play In Metropolitan Golf

New York, May 22 (A.P.).—Four Britons plan to play in the metropolitan golf championship over the Crestmont course in West Orange, N. J., in July, it was announced today by the Metropolitan Golf Association.

The association announced receipt of a cable from Henry Cotton, English pro, that he and three others, Aubrey Boomer, Percy Alliss and Leslie Cotton, planned to compete in the championship, which will start July 6.

Noses, Arms and Teeth Are Lacrosse Victims

Annapolis, Md., May 22 (A.P.).—The St. John's College Freshman Lacrosse Team, following a game with the University of Maryland yearlings at College Park Wednesday, counted noses today and found two of them were broken.

Other injuries included two broken arms, a gash requiring five stitches, and seven lost teeth, once the property of three players.

But St. John's won, 7 to 2.

Pineapple Diet Makes Winner Of 28-1 Shot After 18 Defeats

AURORA, Ill., May 22 (A.P.).—Pineapples yielded a big crop of cocoanuts to the long-shot players at the Aurora race track today.

This is how it all came about:

When A. G. Tarn purchased Blixtra, 3-year-old son of Thunderer—Sibola, from a Havana, Cuba, stable, the Cubans advised him that the horse was fond of a pineapple diet. Tarn thought they were spoofing him, so he forgot all about pineapples.

But after his horse had lost eighteen races, Tarn decided that pineapples or corn cobs would not make him any worse, so he fed Blixtra a good diet of pineapples and sent him out for the third race at Aurora today, a 6-furlong, claiming event.

And just to show his appreciation, Blixtra galloped home in front by four lengths. Two-dollar mutuel ticket holders were rewarded with $58.70 for each ducat.

"It's pineapples for him from now on," shouted the happy Tarn.

Pitt Triumphs 5 and 3, Over Sasscer

Manor Star 3 Up at Turn in Final at Indian Spring.

Herrman Bows to Host Club Champion by 1 Up Margin.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

HARRY G. PITT, of the Manor Club, who won the last Indian Spring invitation golf tournament two years ago, when he defeated Page Hufty, Congressional, in the final round, yesterday repeated his victory when he won the club's invitation tournament by a score of 5 up and 3 to play against Leroy D. Sasscer, the club champion.

This is Pitt's first substantial win for this golfing season, although he captured the consolation prize in the recent Chevy Chase event. His last championship flight victory was last year at Chevy Chase.

Pitt had no difficulty in reaching the final round, disposing of M. Parker Nolan, Congressional, 8 and 7. He was out in 34, missing a short putt for 33, and was 6 up at the turn. Sasscer had a more strenuous battle, being 3 down at the tenth tee. He won the tenth, eleventh and twelfth holes, however, and thereafter the match continued even until Herrman failed to reach the seventeenth green with his tee shot, holing out in 4, while Sasscer, whose drive was within 8 feet of the cup, had no trouble in securing a par 3, making him 1 up. With the eighteenth halved in par 4s, the match was over.

Sasscer Makes Row of Pars.

Sasscer had a remarkable incoming nine, playing in nine successive pars. Herrman kept the match alive by playing out of a trap on the fourteenth hole and running down a 15-foot putt for a par 3, and with an equally fortunate shot out of the rough to the green on the fifteenth for another single putt.

The final round between Pitt and Sasscer was virutally decided on the first nine, which ended with Pitt 3 up. The beginning of the match failed to promise anything sensational, for Pitt, after hooking far into the rough on his drive and playing a weak second, finally reached the green in 3, while Sasscer, in a trap on his second, pitched out within 4 feet of the pin, but failed to run down his putt for a 4 and Pitt secured a half in 5. On the second hole Pitt again pulled his drive into the rough and sliced his next shot into the rough across the fairway, but by a fine recovery was able to run down a single putt for a half, with his opponent, who, failing to reach the green on his second, pitched close to the cup. On the third hole, however, Pitt's long drive was followed by a fine mashie niblick to the green with a resultant birdie 3, Sasscer playing his third shot out of a trap.

Pitt Loses on Fourth Hole.

The fourth hole was won by Sasscer, in a par 4, Pitt taking three shots from off the green, but on the fifth Sasscer topped his brassy and failed to get home, losing in a 5 to Pitt's par 4. Both secured birdie 4s on the long seventh with single putts, Pitt playing a fine third shot to the green from a bad lie in the rough and running down a 12-foot putt. On the eighth hole Sasscer, playing his second out of the rough, clubbed the shot and Pitt won the hole. On the ninth hole, although Pitt drove into a trap, Sasscer again missed his second shot almost completely, and Pitt

La Barba Proves a Worse Fighter Than Battalino and Feather Title Is Retained

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.
Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, May 22.—Handsome his profile may be and pleasant his manners and his head full of knowledge out of college books, but Fidel La Barba, once of Stanford University, known as the perfect little gentleman of the prize-fight business, was the most monotonous bore of many a year when he tried to take the featherweight championship of the world from Bat Battalino, of Hartford, Conn., a common journeyman prize fighter in the Garden ring this evening.

Battalino entered the inclosure quoted at 2 to 1 at the cauliflower bourse which holds its sessions in the lobbies on fight nights and the weight of expert opinion against him, if expert opinion had any weight, would have been sufficient to squash him to the floor before a glove was thrown. But Battalino, whose first name probably stands for battered, spent most of the time walking in on the flat soles of a set of uncommonly large feet, pumping away at La Barba's middle with both hands and the end of the bout found the officials unanimous in their decision that the title had not passed.

Home-Town Delegation Cashes in Again.

Battalino then babbled the traditional "hullo mommas" and "hullo papas" into the microphone in one of the odd corners of the ring and hopped over the ropes to join his home-town delegation of Yankees, who had come down to New York and helped themselves to many shillings of sophistocated Broadway money for the second time in a few months.

Last winter, in legitimate defense of the title after a year's tenure as titular champion Battalino paid his first visit to the Garden and great was the consternation in the delicatessens along the main street where the books are made when he beat Kid Chocolate, the Cuban.

It will be no injustice to either of the young men to sum up this evening's bout as a terrible prize fight. Battalino had no skill but after the first round, neither had he any respect for aL Barba's left hook, which seemed to be Fidel's only punch. Battalino's left was the longer and he soon discovered that in the jabbing he could outstab the California brain. La Barba quickly went to grips and he marred his fight most of the way by shrinking close to his opponent and gazing out over Battalino's shoulder, with an expression of dreamy detachment in his gray eyes.

LaBarba Opens Up In Fifth.

So they wrestled, round after round, Battalino trying to punch in the clinches and La Barba holding him, until the fifth, when La Barba abruptly changed his plan and began dancing in with sharp left hooks to the chin and ribs. A few of these entered the score in the fifth and sixth, but still Battalino was outpointing him n aggressiveness and untidy mauling around the head and body.

La Barba left off clinching in the seventh and eighth to win a couple of rounds by aggressive punching, even heaving over a couple of rights to the jaw, but he backslid in the ninth and by that time it was apparent that the two boys were going to waltz it out to the distant, dreary end.

Battalino's reputation as a nuisance and an accidental champion becomes a puzzle now. He has beaten Chocolate and La Barba, but he remains, nevertheless, a clumsy kid with no decisive punch, the most unconventional champion, but a better fighter than two who have been rated among the genuine artists of the present day.

La Barba lost none of his beauty, but his prestige became a salvage job tonight.

Fascisti Salute Nets Little Response.

The Italian amateur champion boxing team entered the ring for a moment before the semifinal bout to rouse Joe Humphreys to a hysterical burst of oratory. With original remarks about fighting sons of sunny Italy and references to Garbaldi, Maroni and Macaroni, Mr. Humphreys finally got around to the point of stating that the Italian boys would meet the national A. A. U. champions in the Garden next week.

Although both fighters in the main event and five members of the preliminary ensemble were Italians, there seemed to be little Italian business in the house for the visiting amateurs raised their right arms in the Fasciati salute without arousing much response friendly or otherwise.

FRIENDS NETMEN WIN.

In one of the best-played matches witnessed on the Friends School courts this season, the team representing that school defeated the Eastern High racqueters by the score of 3 to 2. Austin's play in the singles, when he defeated Murphy in three sets, two of which went to deuce, was the feature of the afternoon.

SINGLES—Hunt (E.) defeated Robertson, 6—2, 6—0; Boyle (F.) defeated Deland, 6—4, 1—6, 6—3; Austin (F.) defeated Murphy, 6—4, 5—7, 11—9.

DOUBLES—Schuchardt and Didden (E.) defeated Robertson and Eaken, 6—1, 9—7; Austin and Boyle (F.) defeated Hunt and Del. 2—6, 6—2, 6—4.

NATS BATTLE YANKEES TODAY

Brown Will Oppose Pennock; Clubs Play for Second Place.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Post Staff Correspondent).

NEW YORK, May 22.—Second place in the standing will be at stake in tomorrow's game with the Yankees and the Nationals keyed up after a most successful jaunt through the West, during which they lost but two of eleven games each. Indeed, despite the fact that the Washington club has a slight edge over the New Yorkers in games between them so far, every one of the games has been a down-and-out affair from start to finish, with one ending in a fourteen-inning deadlock.

Lloyd Brown, called to Washington earlier this week, has been working out in Griffith Stadium in preparation for the pitching assignment in tomorrow's game, and, if he is right, he stands a good chance of leading the Nats to victory. The southpaw, Herb Pennock, is likely to oppose the Nats.

Won 11 of 19 Since Leaving Home.

Although since the Nationals left home on April 29 they boast a record of eleven victories in nineteen starts, it was against the Western clubs that they made their best showing. In fact,

DIVISION OF POINTS.

Eastern	48

By BOB CONSIDINE.

TRUE to the dramatic background which lies behind every final performance, Grover Everett appearing in their last high school meet and Fred Hutchinson yesterday afternoon lifted the colors of Eastern High upon their shoulders and alternately ran, jumped and hurled the Lincoln Park School into first place in the annual inter-high track and field meet, run off at Central Stadium before 1,000 spectators.

Two records, one an untouched mark since 1905, and one which was wrought only last year, fell before Grover Everett who fairly outdid himself in three thrilling performances. Hutchinson was the best of his class in three more categories to share with Everett the high scoring honors of the day, fifteen points.

Although the glory of Eastern was manifest as it scored 48 points to gain its third leg on the trophy and with that leg outright ownership of the prize emblematic of the public schools championship, something resembling the handwriting on the wall was seen as an adolescent Central High Team roared into second place with 42 points. Tech finished a comfortable third, with 29 points, while Western limped into last place, with a three tallies.

Batters Hurdle Record Set by Slye.

Eastern maintained the upper hand throughout, but only through the Trojan work of Everett and Hutchinson. Everett really shattered three records to bits yesterday—morally, if not officially—and only the eagle eye of Hap Hardell, followed by a subsequent investigation, curtailed the official recording of three. In winning his heat in the 120-yard high hurdles, the tow-headed Easterner soared down the cinder path in 0:15 4-5, bettering his running mate, Bob Slye's, record of 1930 by 2-5 of a second. A toppled hurdle ruined the performance for the record books, however. But coming back in the finals of the event, Everett broke the record for keeps by negotiating the timbered stretch in 0:15.

The mark of 21 feet 7½ inches for the broad jump, set June 9, 1905, by Sid Kent, of Central, when the meet was held at Georgetown University, was superseded as Everett, the ubiquitous, hunched up his spikes to sail 21 feet 8¼ inches, his greatest mark since he first donned an Eastern uniform and took his first lessons in jumping from keen-eyed old Mike Kelley.

Deprived of Mark in Low Hurdles.

Everett, after leading the field home in the 220-yard low hurdles, was announced as not only the winner of the event, but the breaker of the existing record of 0:26 2-5 by 1-5 of a second. But Coach Hardell, of Tech, discovered that Everett had not only leveled a hurdle, but had finished in the second lane, the first being his

Illness May Keep Cochet Off Davis Cup Team, He Fears

LYONS, France, May 22 (A.P.).—Henri Cochet, French tennis ace, told the Associated Press tonight that his health was such that he might be unable to aid France in her defense of the Davis Cup this year.

The world's first-ranking amateur came back to Lyons tired out from a continental tour and fell easy prey to a severe attack of grip. Although he was forced out of the French championships at Auteuil, it had been believed Cochet would be in shape to play in Davis Cup competition.

"I do not know whether my health will permit me to play Davis Cup tennis or not," Cochet said tonight.

He denied an announcement by a boxing promoter in Paris that he had decided to turn professional after playing in the Davis Cup challenge round. "I don't know what I'll do," Henri said. "For the moment my business occupies me sufficiently but I don't know what I'll do tomorrow. That's all I can tell you."

MANGAN AND MITCHELL IN SEMIFINAL TESTS TODAY

Elliott, Shore To Oppose Favorites

Mangin and Markey Win Easily in Doubles Play.

Women's Semifinals Due Today in Tournament.

PLAY in the City of Washington tennis championships, being run off this week on the courts at Sixteenth and Kennedy streets, all but marked time yesterday, as but five doubles matches were played, and fans and players alike looked forward to today's feature productions. Starting at 2 o'clock today, the finest matches of the tournament to date are promised, as men's and women's semifinal matches will be contested, and bitterly, it appears.

Dooly Mitchell, seeded No. 1 and doped to win the tournament for the first time in his three years' participation in the city-wide joust, meets a stern foe today in Bob Elliott, the net-charging former Baltimorean, who has accounted for two seeded stars' scalps already in his trek through four rounds of play.

Mitchell doubtless will attempt to take the sting out of Elliott's game today by taking the net himself in an effort to beat the volleying Baltimorean to the punch. There is little comparison between the back court games of the two young stars, Mitchell being far superior in this respect. Elliott is conceded to be the better volleyer. Their serves are about equal in their devastating speed and placement.

Mangan and Shore To Battle.

One of the oldest and one of the youngest members of the tournament, Tom Mangan veteran former District of Columbia champion, and Frank Shore, local junior champion, clash in the other semifinal round bracket, with Mangan a favorite to best the stirring play of Shore by greater experience and a higher grade of back-court play. Shore's chief bet is at the net, and today will see him camped at his favorite post every time Mangan's whacking froehand drives permit.

Mrs. Ruth Martinez, seeded No. 1 in the women's section, meets the strong-stroking Clara Tabler today in one semifinal, while Mrs. Charles P. Stone will be thumping drives into the court of Frances Walker, one of the steadiest choppers in this section.

The remaining matches today will be of the doubles variety, in the semifinal round of play.

Mangan and Markey Win Easily.

Mangan and Markey, seeded No. 1, advanced easily over a dangerous hurdler yesterday when they toned down the two volleying youngsters, Shore and Latona, in straight sets, 6—2, 6—4. O'Neill and Love, finalists last year, eliminated Trigg and Termann, 6—4, 4—6, 6—0. Rutley and Howenstein were too steady for Elliott and Decker and so won, 11—9, 6—2.

The remaining two matches yesterday saw the Tabler sisters, Clara and Amy, best Frances Walker and Margaret Graham, 6—3, 10—8, and Mrs. Stone and Mrs. Newbold nose out the Misses Kingsbury and Raver, 7—5, 7—5.

—Churchill Downs Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

CHURCHILL DOWNS, Louisville, Ky., May 22.—An interesting card of seven races has been programmed for the final day's racing at the popular Churchill Downs course. The Granger Memorial Handicap, carrying an added purse value of $10,000, which attracted a smart field of eight 3-year-olds and older routers, will be contested over the grueling 1¼-mile distance of the feature.

Supporting the main event will be an allowance affair for 3-year-olds and upward over the 6-furlong ground. A field of six speedsters will contest the issue to be run as the sixth number.

In the Granger, GALLANT KNIGHT, sturdy Audley Farm colt, appears well suited by the conditions and is selected to annex the major portion of the feature. The son of Bright Knight established a new world's record at 6½ furlongs and figures to carry his remarkable speed over this route. MIKE HALL, owned by R. M. Eastman and winner of the Agua Caliente Handicap, is asked to tote 122 pounds. The Eastern color bearer may falter under the heavy impost, but should last to save the place. C. V. Whitney's improved BARGELLO, coupled with JIMMY MORAN, should hold the others safe for the minor award.

The secondary feature, which received six entries in the overnight list, should prove an easy victory for Mrs. C. Gregory's ALL HAIL. The golden brown colt was timed in 1:11 3-5 in his last winning effort at 6 furlongs and, duplicated here, will be hard to beat. JEAN LAFITTE has trained well and figures to annex the place. FLIMSY has turned in some speedy trials and may prove dangerous.

FIRST RACE—Fourteen maiden juveniles will face the barrier in the opening 5-furlong dash. DIS DAT, from the French Lick Springs Stable, turned in a brilliant effort last start in better company, and figures to lead this band of nonwinners to the wire. BEAUTY BRIDE is a promising youngster and with several speedy trials to her credit should force the pace. BARASHKOVA ran a sparkling race in the Bashford Manor Stakes and must be placed in the money.

SECOND RACE—PERKINS will be favored by the heavy track conditions and is given the call in the 6½ furlongs of the second event. WITCHWAY surprised with a splendid victory the other day and is favored for the place. FUDGE is a seasoned campaigner and with a race as a conditioner may upset the calculations.

THIRD RACE—An evenly matched field of eight milers will battle it out in the third heat. GOLD RUSH has displayed speed in his recent efforts and is the logical choice. C. V. Whitney's CHENE is rated close up and is capable of gaining the major award. FLYING CHEROKEE and FAIR ROSALIND may contest the show placing.

FOURTH RACE—Thirteen 2-year-olds will be dispatched over the 5-furlong distance of the fourth, with UNENCUMBERED, from the H. Woolf string, as the selection for premier honors. MATINEE GIRL, a fleet filly in the Whitney Stable, is given the place call, with FLYING favored over the others for the show.

SEVENTH RACE—In the concluding number, which attracted a limit field of twenty platers, AIMEE GOLDSMITH, a consistent filly owned by A. P. Canale, should carry her impost to victory over the mile and an eighth route. WHISK ARROW should furnish the opposition, with DUELIST as the show selection.

PITT DOWNS SASSCER IN FINAL

Manor Club Star Is Winner, 5 and 4, at Indian Spring.

won the hole, making him 3 up at the turn.

When on the tenth hole Sasscer struggled through the rough and holed out in 6, losing the hole, the end was in sight. It is true that he won the twelfth with a par 4, but on the thirteenth his drive into an unplayable lie, followed by an encounter with a trap, gave him a fatal 6 and he was again 4 down. With the fourteenth halved, Pitt brought the match to a conclusion by running down of a 12-foot putt for a birdie 4 on the fifteenth. The cards:

Out—
Pitt	5	4	3	5	4	3	4	4	4—36
Sasscer	5	4	5	4	5	3	4	5	5—40
In—
Pitt	4	4	5	5	3	4
Sasscer	6	4	4	7	3	5

Many of the semifinal and final rounds were marked by extended matches. Emmons S. Smith, jr., Chevy Chase, carrying Volney Burnett, Beaver Dam, to the twentieth hole before surrendering when he failed to reach the green with his second shot. When the handsome prizes were presented, Herbert A. Mihills, president of the club, introduced former Gov. E. P. Morrow of Kentucky, whose son, Charles R. Morrow, tied with Sasscer for the medal in the qualifying round. Gov. Morrow, whose reputation as an orator is not confined to his native State, made the awards in a series of happy remarks.

G. W. Netmen Bow To Temple U., 4 to 2

The curtain swung down on the poorest year George Washington has had in tennis in the last four seasons yesterday afternoon on the cement courts at the Monument Grounds, when the netmen of Temple University handed the Colonials a 4-2 trimming in a series of matches called to a halt by the expiration of time limits on the courts.

G. W. started off well when Bob Considine, playing his last match for the downtown school, ran away with McMullin, Temple's No. 1 singles player, 6—0, 6—4, but for the remainder of the singles matches G. W. was only able to score once more as Laurence Sherfy took a straight set, 7—5, 6—4, decision over Sharp.

No doubles matches were completed, but in the two which had got under way George Washington was leading.

Temple plays Navy today, at Annapolis.

SINGLES.

Considine (G.W.) defeated McMullin, 6—0, 6—4; Perchonock (T.) defeated Staubly, 7—5, 6—2; Cohen (T.) defeated Goldsmith, 6—3, 3—6, 6—1; Freedman (T.) defeated R. Sherfy, 6—3, 7—5; L. Sherfy (G.W.) defeated Sharp, 7—5, 6—4; Badderack (T.) defeated Lee, 6—0, 6—1.

DOUBLES.

Considine and Staubly were defeating Perchonock and Cohen, 6—4 (canceled); Sherfy and Sherfy were defeating Badderack and Freedman, 7—5 (canceled).

Solly Joel, Diamond King, Turfman, Dies in England

Rose From Slums to High Place in Finance, Racing.

NEWMARKET, England, May 22 (A.P.).—"Solly" Joel died today at the age of 65, and thus relinquished a place as one of the most romantic and colorful figures in the history of the British turf and finance.

He was born Solomon Barneto Joel, but to half the population of Great Britain he was known as "Solly"—the diamond millionaire whose vast wealth and lavish expenditures dazzled London and international society at the beginning of the century.

His fame as a race horse owner and sportsman equalled that of his financial name.

Many of his contemporaries in the South African diamond mining industry gathered great wealth there, but Joel's fortune once was estimated as high as £20,000,000 sterling and there are few men in the British Empire who amassed such fortunes.

Child of Poor in London Slums.

He started life as the child of a poor family in the London slums. To many his success appeared meteoric. Those who knew him described him as an indomitable worker whose devotion to business was constant.

As a racehorse owner, his famous salmon pink and green silks were seen in almost every race of importance, over a period of many years. His Humorist won the derby in 1921, but his big year was in 1915 when his colt Pommern made a clean sweep of the three principal classics of the British turf—the 2,000 Guineas, the Derby and the St. Leger.

The horse Polymelus, which he bought for £4,200, was credited with having netted him something like £100,000 in bets. Many other great horses were included in his stables, and his breeding stud at Maiden Erlegh was famous throughout the world.

His country house at Reading was a gathering place for politicians, stage stars, jockeys and leading figures in the commercial world. He held a commission as lieutenant colonel and was a nephew of the late B. J. Barneto. His principal business interest was in the diamond industry, but he also had important holdings in public utilities in both England and South Africa.

In Diamond Rush Of 1880's.

Joel's career dates back to the South African diamond rush of the 1880's, when he went with his Uncle "Barney" to the diamond fields. Through a spectacular struggle with Cecil Rhodes for supremacy in the industry, he emerged as the world's undisputed diamond king when the two elder men died shortly after combining their interests.

His widow, who was his second wife, a brother, two sons and two daughters survive him.

MARYLAND AND HOPKINS RENEW LACROSSE RIVALRY

Baltimoreans Face Test Today

Muddy Field Would Enhance Chances of Old Liners.

Hopkins Aims to Stay in Race for U. S. Championship.

IT'S own hopes for the national championship shattered by a defeat from St. John's two weeks ago, Maryland University's twelve this afternoon in Baltimore Stadium may play the villainous role against Johns Hopkins, with which St. John's tops the collegiate lacrosse heap with an unbeaten record. The game begins at 3 o'clock.

Because the game means the difference between success and failure for the powerful Hopkins twelve in the championship scramble, and owing to the natural, warm rivalry between Maryland and Hopkins, the contest has stimulated more interest than any other lacrosse tilt in Baltimore since the Olympic play-off series of 1928.

Mindful of Hopkins' championship aspirations, Coach Jack Faber, of Maryland has been bearing down on his Maryland players for the past week, trying to build up a defense that can stop the speedy attack of the Blue Jays.

Rain Would Enhance Maryland's Chances.

In the event of rain or a heavy turf, or the combination of both, Hopkins will be at a distadvantage, because its natural speed needs dry footing for the best results. Speed does not play as important a part in the Maryland offense, and Coach Faber will be much gratified if the going is heavy.

Hopkins, according to reports, has a twofold purpose in view. In addition to keeping its 1931 record clean it seeks revenge for a 6-0 defeat administered by Maryland last year. It was the only time a Hopkins lacrosse team had failed to score in the history of the sport at the Baltimore institution.

The players in whom Maryland has placed much dependence are Jimmy Lee, Gordon Pugh, Freddie Steiber and Bill Wood, on attack, and Charlie May and Jack Norris, on defense. Hopkins boasts of one of the best scoring combinations it ever has had in Jack Turnbull, Lorne Guild and Donaldson Kelly.

DEVITT NET TEAM WINS.

Devitt Prep's tennis team triumphed over the St. John's netmen yesterday by the score of 4 to 1 in a hard-fought match on the Friends School courts. The victors were obliged to come from behind on several occasions, especially in the doubles matches, to gain the verdict over the Cadets. By virtue of its victory, Devitt retains its firm grasp on second place in the Prep School Tennis League, while the Johnnies remain third.

SINGLES—Willis (D.) defeated Smith, 6—3, 6—8, 6—3; Nicholson (D.) defeated Buchannon, 6—2, 6—0; Scheele (S.J.) defeated Dabney, 6—1, 6—4.

DOUBLES—Willis and Kendall (D.) defeated Buchannon and Smith, 3—6, 11—9, 8—6; Nicholson and Dabney (D.) defeated Scheelee and Jones, 2—6, 6—4, 7—5.

EASTERN WINNER OF SCHOOL MEET

alloted track. Thus the record did not stand.

Central showed tremendous ability in the sprints, garnering all three places in the 100 and the first two posts in the 220. Naylor, making good his promise shown in the C Club meet last week, breezed in to win the 100 and was beaten in the 220 only by a hurtling finish on the part of his colleague, Ditzler.

Central came through handily in the javelin toss and the high jump, first places falling to Koscis and Boucher, respectively.

Tech Relay Wins By Half Lap.

Tech's great iron-legged relay team, composed of Livingstone, Achstetter, Moorhead and Reichman, might well have walked into their victory over Western, the only other starter. By the time the police billy was handed to Reichman, running anchor, Tech was almost a half lap ahead.

Reichman turned in two driving finishes to win the 880 and the mile, beating St. John, of Central, in the former and Achstetter in the latter. The mile developed into the feature event of the day, as Reichman, trailing in fourth place on the last turn, fairly sprinted down the remaining 100 yards to wind up his high school career in an atmosphere charged with the cheers of 1,000 fans. Summary:

100-YARD DASH—Won by Naylor (Central); second, Price (Central); third, Smith (Central). Time, 0:10 1-5.

120-YARD HIGH HURDLES—Won by Everett (Eastern); second, Sive (Eastern); third, Beers (Western). Time, 0:16. (New meet record. Old record, 0:16 1-5, established by Sive last year.)

220-YARD DASH—Won by Ditzler (Central); second, Naylor (Central); third, Pohl (Tech). Time, 0:23 3-5.

ONE-MILE RUN—Won by Reichman (Tech); second, St. John (Central); third, Lynch (Eastern). Time, 4:47 1-5.

440-YARD DASH—Won by Moorhead (Tech); second, Rickard (Eastern); third, Smoak (Eastern). Time, 0:53 1-5.

220-YARD LOW HURDLES—Won by Everett (Eastern); second, Sive (Eastern); third, Beers (Western). Time, 0:26 1-5. (New record disallowed.)

880-YARD RUN—Won by Reichman (Tech); second, Achstetter (Tech); third, St. John (Central). Time, 2:08.

ONE-MILE RELAY—Won by Tech (Livingstone, Achstetter, Moorhead and Reichman); second, Western. Time, 3:35.

HIGH JUMP—Won by Boucher (Central); second, Howard (Central); third, Sprinkle (Eastern). Height, 5 ft. 9 in.

POLE VAULT—Won by Hutchinson (Eastern); Vass (Tech) and Sprinkle (Eastern) tied for second. Height, 11 ft.

DISCUS—Won by Hutchinson (Eastern); second, Coleman (Central); third, Corriden (Eastern). Distance, 110 ft.

BROAD JUMP—Won by Everett (Eastern); second, Sive (Eastern); third, Kosis (Central). Distance, 21 ft. 8¼ in. (New meet record. Old record, 21 feet 7½ inches, established by Sid Kent, Central, in 1905 meet at Georgetown.)

JAVELIN—Won by Koscis (Central); second, Mickeljohn (Tech); third, Caldwell (Western). Distance, 155 ft.

SHOT PUT—Won by Hutchinson (Eastern); second, Koscis (Central); third, Gibbons (Central). Distance, 47 ft. 3 in.

DOBBS STARS FOR ALABAMA.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., May 23 (A.P.).—"Buddy" Dobbs, husky right-hander, has been the mainstay of Alabama's pitching staff this spring.

He holds victories over Illinois, Kentucky, Ole Miss and L. S. U. He has lost only to Mississippi A. & M. and Spring Hill.

SPORTS ON COAST.

San Francisco sports enthusiasts have a wide selection in Golden Gate Park's 1,013 acres. Nine baseball diamonds, 12 tennis courts, a bowling green, a 30-acre speedway, football and track stadium are ready for use.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

HELEN FOX, playing for St. Scholastica's Academy, scored 60 field goals, while her teammates added 20 points, to defeat the Fort Smith High School, 140 to 2.

In a game played the week before, Miss Fox scored 86 points. In the season 1929-30 she scored 621 points in 17 games—a high score, season record. This was an average of almost 37 points a game.

BROWN, PENNOCK OPPONENTS TODAY

it was their work in the other sector which made up for some of their failure before they left the East. They lost two out of three in both Boston and New York, dropped a Sunday game in Washington to the Mackmen and bowed in their first game in Detroit.

It was in the Tigers' lair that they dropped out of the pennant fight last year, but they followed their defeat in their opener there this spring by staging a streak of six victories in a row, which carried them through Cleveland, and until the final day of the St. Louis series, when they bowed in the first game of a doubleheader.

After having looked at all of the clubs, Manager Johnson and his men can not see why they should alter their preseason dope. The Browns, Chisox and Tigers were not rated particularly high and the slump of the Indians was predicted, but not in the manner in which they did fold up, for they did not win a single game during their home stay against the Easterners. More than ever, it looks like a three-club race between the Mackmen, Yankees and Nationals.

In general, the Nats outclassed their collective Western opponents by a large margin in every department of play.

Johnson Eluted at Bluege's Hitting.

One of the items which has caused Skipper Johnson much pleasure has been the sudden awakening of Ossie Bluege at bat. Besides hitting close to .400 in the games in the West, the "noisy" third-sacker has "out-Ruthed" Babe Ruth with respect to circuit hits, having six to his credit, one more than has the Bambino.

No longer does Ossie stand at the plate with his bat calmly resting on his shoulder while opposing pitchers are shooting strikes past him. "I just made up my mind that I could not hit 'em if I didn't swing at 'em," is the player's explanation—and it looks as if he has the right dope. He also added that he was not going to be trying to poke and push the ball over the infield for dinky singles as long as the stands are so close; hence his suddent development into a long-distance hitter.

POLICE LEARN YAWARA.

San Francisco, May 23 (A.P.).—Yawara, a form of jiu-jitsu is being taught San Francisco policemen. F. A. Matsuyama, Japanese expert engaged for the purpose, won the confidence of some of the skeptical members of the force by flooring a 240-pound exponent of wrestling at one of the first lessons.

Alexandria Sports

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., May 22.—The third district annual track meet slated to be held here tomorrow will probably be canceled or held on a later date in the season, it was learned today from Alexandria High School authorities.

Fredericksburg High School track men will be unable to take part in the competition because of lack of interest in the cinder-path sport, while no word has been received from Manassas, Washington and Lee and Warrenton High Schools about entrance into the games.

J. Prex Wilson, track coach of the "Twins," is getting in communication with the officials of the other schools today and will decide whether or not the games will be held here this year.

The Virginia Juniors will travel to Washington tomorrow for a game with the Brentwood Market nine. This contest will be played on the Monument Lot. Coach Cronin requests all players to report at Whitestone's Store, Prince and Royal streets, at 12 o'clock to make the trip.

On Sunday the Virginia Juniors will meet the Capital Heights Seniors in a game on the R., F. & P. diamond.

Manager Potter, of the Braves, a newly organized club, requests all players to report at the Alexandria High School tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock to travel to Fort Humphreys for a game with the Humphreys Juniors.

This game is slated to begin at 10:30 o'clock. Players to make the trip will be B. Mason, F. McMenamin, G. Deane, C. Penn, R. Sillex, K. Foltz, P. Brewer, F. Harlowe, W. Mendelson, E. Hammerseley, G. Rhodes, J. Anderson and Player-Manager Potter.

Teams wishing games with the Braves will communicate with R. Sillex at his residence at 1200 Prince street, or phone Alexandria 2502.

The St. Mary's Celtics play the undefeated Rockville Club here Sunday. Doc Dreifus, Celtics star southpaw, will play in Sunday's tussle. Dreifus has been out of the game due to illness.

The Columbia Fire Company nine will meet the Washington A. C. on Haydon's Field Sunday. Murphy Shapiro, star infielder, will perform in the game. Shapiro has been on the bench with an injured wrist.

Gray and Bowstrom Honored at Annapolis

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., May 22.—A Pennsylvania boy was today announced winner of the highest athletic honor within the gift of the Navy Athletic Association. He is Albert Downing Gray, of Gwynedd, member of the graduating class, and he will receive the association sword, presented for general excellence in athletics during the academic year.

Gray won his spurs on the football team and crew. He played tackle on the eleven for the last two years, and has rowed in the varsity crew for a like period. He will finish his career in the latter sport when the Middie eight participates in the annual Poughkeepsie classic, June 16.

Robert M. (Blimp) Bowstrom, Rockford, Ill., will have his name engraved on the Thompson trophy cup having been adjudged the midshipman whose influence did most for the promotion of athletics during the year. Bowstrom was captain of the football team last fall, playing tackle on the team for three years. He also won his letter in basket ball. The Thompson cup is a silver trophy presented by the late Col. Robert M. Thompson, of New York and Bayonne, N. J., graduate of the academy in the class of 1868, and for years recognized as the academy's greatest benefactor in athletics.

MANERO OUT AS PUTTER FAILS HIM

Whitcombe Sinks Chip Shot to End Hope of U. S. Entry.

LEEDS, England, May 22 (A.P.).—Ernest R. Whitcombe, member of Britain's Ryder Cup team, today shattered Tony Manero's hopes of lifting one of the biggest plums of British professional golf, beating him, 2 and 1, in the semifinals of the Leeds $5,000 golf tournament.

Manero, sole survivor of the American contingent, lost his putting touch, and that, in brief, cost him the match. The Elmsford, N. Y., pro had played in excellent form to conquer Percy Alliss, British professional, at a Berlin country club, 4 and 3, in the quarter finals this morning, but his game was not up to par in his afternoon match.

Tony took three putts, missing one of a foot, at the seventh green, and three more at the eighth which he should have won. As it was, he turned two down and then lost the eleventh. He struggled back to within striking distance by winning the twelfth and thirteenth, but a pulled second shot cost him the sixteenth.

Whitcombe Holes Chip Shot.

He was 8 yards from the flag at the seventeenth, but Whitcombe holed his chip from rough for a 3 and the match was over.

Whitcombe will meet Tom Barber, Derbyshire entry, in the 36-hole final tomorrow. Barber defeated A. J. Lacey, Ryder Cub nominee, 3 and 1.

Manero, whose pluck and animation have won for him many friends here at the Sandmoor links, refused to be discouraged over his defeat.

"I certainly am glad to have got so far in my first match play tournament in England," Tony said as he stepped from the seventeenth green. "I might be in those Ryder Cup matches yet."

IOWA LEADS IN BIG TEN MEET

Qualifies 16 Men for Finals; 15 Placed by Michigan.

DYCHE STADIUM, Evanston, Ill., May 22 (A.P.).—Iowa, hardly considered in the advance dope, swooped into Dyche Stadium at Northwestern University today and placed sixteen men to lead the qualifying for the finals of the thirty-first annual Western Conference track and field championships tomorrow.

The Hawkeyes were given little consideration on the basis of season performances, but Coach George Bresnahan turned loose a flock of field event men who made his team a definite threat for the title now held by Michigan.

The Wolverines did about as expected, qualifying fifteen men, while Ohio State and Illinois turned up with fifteen and thirteen, respectively. Wisconsin placed ten, Indiana, eight, Minnesota six, Northwestern three and Chicago and Purdue two each.

Woodward Leading Nation's Trap-Shooters

Dayton, Ohio, May 22 (A.P.).—E. F. Woodward, veteran marksman of Houston, Tex., is leading the trap-shooters of the nation so far this season, according to standings announced here today at headquarters of the American Trapshooting Association.

Woodward missed but three targets in 500 chances and has average of .9905 for the period from January 1 to May 13. Last year Woodward won the high average title and his record so far this year includes 199 out of a possible 200 on two different occasions.

George T. Petef, of Phoenix, Ariz., with .9828, is second in the 500 to 1,000 target division, while Frank M. Troeh, Portland, Oreg., is third, with .9700.

Other standings were: 1,000-2,000 target division—First, Mark S. Hootman, Hicksville, Ohio, .9759; 2,000-3,000 target division—First, Mark Arle, Champaign, Ill., .9751. Women's division—First, Mrs. P. P. Shutt, Punta Gorda, Fla., .8900. Professionals—First, Art Killam, St. Louis, .9818.

N. Carolina, Tulane Each Win Two Southern Titles

Tulane Takes Honors in Outdoor Track and Team Golf; Tarheels Win in Tennis Doubles and Indoor Track.

ATLANTA, Ga., May 22 (A.P.).—With the college sports season virtually completed, a review of the year shows North Carolina and Tulane were the only Southern Conference schools to win more than one championship.

Tulane took top honors in team golf and outdoor track, while North Carolina won the indoor track and the tennis doubles.

Tulane, however, was runner-up in several sports. The Greenies from New Orleans finished second in the individual golf championship and in boxing and also tied Alabama for first place in football. North Carolina took second honors in tennis singles.

The other titles were fairly evenly divided between the teams from all sections of the South, but none of these was able to win more than one championship. Virginia won the boxing title and placed second to Tulane in outdoor track.

The various championships and the winners and runners-up follow:

Football—Alabama and Tulane tied for first.
Indoor track—North Carolina and Washington and Lee.
Basket ball—Maryland and Kentucky.
Outdoor track—Tulane and Virginia.
Golf (team)—Tulane and Vanderbilt.
Swimming—Georgia Tech and Georgia.
Tennis (doubles)—North Carolina and Georgia.
Tennis (singles)—Sewanee and North Carolina.
Golf (individual)—Vanderbilt and Tulane.
Boxing—Virginia and Tulane.
Cross country—V. M. I. and V. P. I.
Baseball—Auburn and South Carolina.
Wrestling—No championship held.

District and Virginia Horses Take Prizes

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., May 22.—Invading a country famous for its jumping stock, By Request, a big chestnut gelding from the Trillora Farms at Shrewsbury, in the flat lands of New Jersey, today carried off three firsts, a third and a fourth in events for hunters and jumpers during the second day's meeting of the Worthington Valley Horse Show.

By Request started the day off well by capturing the blue ribbon, teamed with The Wasp, another Trillora entry, in the first event for pairs of hunters or jumpers over jumps about 4 feet high.

Two horses from Fort Myer, Va., Garcon and Sir Knight, won second place, while to Papoose and Gold Foyle, owned by Mrs. C. D. Herron, of Bethesda, Md., and Percy M. Neipold, of Washington, respectively, went the third honor.

The

STOCK PRICES GAIN IN STEADY MARKET

Rails Put Lists on Upward Track; Day's Sales Total 1,600,000 Shares.

New York, May 22 (A.P.).—Most stocks were steady to firm today, ignoring group weakness in the chemicals and coppers. Trading was dull, but the market closed fractionally higher, on the average. Not since early in the month had it been able to maintain a rally for two successive days.

Rails put the list on the upward track with a rally of a point or two in the morning. The carriers eventually lost part of their gains, yet their recovery, based on the move for a rise in freight rates, was followed by a relaxation of pressure against the pivotal industrials and utilities. Air pockets were more or less isolated, confined chiefly to the two groups mentioned and to Eastman Kodak, Peoples Gas, Allied Chemical, Warner Bros. Pictures preferred, United States Industrial Alcohol and Gulf States Steel preferred. Chemicals reduced extreme losses of one to nearly five points. Sales for the session totaled 1,600,000 shares, 800,000 less than Thursday's turnover.

Farrell Affects Market.

The pointed remarks made by President Farrell, of United States Steel, at the semiannual producers' meeting, concerning price cutting, were followed by an early afternoon dip in the market. Mr. Farrell not only said that if the situation did not improve some companies would fail to earn their preferred dividends, but he also added that unless stabilization could be expected "something is going to happen."

Whether he meant his company was prepared to do some price cutting itself was not disclosed, but Wall street is rather of the opinion that such a step by the industry's largest interest would not exactly be welcomed by many of its competitors. A closer study of Mr. Farrell's speech suggested that his seemingly bearish references might have a constructive effect if the conditions he complained of were remedied.

Weekly trade reviews were mildly cheerful. Bradstreets said retail business over the country had shown a little improvement and that business and buying were "beginning to adjust themselves to the new conditions in most sections." Dun's asserted that the progress of trade during the week had been "about at recent levels."

More Regular Dividends.

Dividend actions of the day included the declaration of regulars by General Electric and Chrysler Corporation, and the omission of the Gulf State Steel preferred payment. The last named stock broke 7 points. Case rallied more than 4 points in response to the regular disbursements on common and preferred shares voted after yesterday's close.

People's Gas threatened to drop below 200, but held at 203 after a 15-point tumble and cut its loss to 3. American Telephone, National Biscuit, American Can, North American, Southern Railway and Woolworth gained 1 to 2 net. U. S. Steel, closing at 100, was one-eighth higher. Sears Roebuck, whose sales from April 24 to May 21 were off only nine-tenths of 1 per cent, firmed. Eastman Kodak had a sharp reaction, losing 3 points on the day.

Corn was heavy. September, December and July futures sold at new seasonal lows, but net losses were small. Firmness of wheat, which advanced one-half to three-quarters of a cent, reflected an improved export demand and frost reports in Kansas. Cotton lost 2 to 6 points.

Foreign exchanges were firm, especially sterling cables, which advanced three-thirty-seconds to 4.86 19-32.

Europe's Pencil Firms Merge to Cut Expense

Berlin, May 22 (A.P.).—Several of the leading pencil manufacturers in Europe have combined into a holding company with capital of approximately $5,000,000 to eliminate intercompetition and to reduce expenses.

Those in the combine are A. W. Faber and Johann Faber, both of Nuremberg, and Hardtmuths Budweis and its affiliated concerns. The holding company includes the Johann Faber Pencil Corporation of Wilmington, and plants in Brazil, Poland, Roumania and other places. Headquarters of the combine probably will be in Switzerland. The A. W. Faber Co. has existed since 1761, and Hardtmuths since 1790.

Chrysler Declares Dividend.

New York, May 22 (A.P.).—Chrysler Corporation directors today declared the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share. The stock has been on a 25-cent quarterly basis since January 3, last, prior to which the quarterly rate had been 75 cents from the second quarter of 1926.

Gulf Steel Omits Dividend.

New York, May 22 (A.P.).—Directors of Gulf States Steel Co. today omitted the quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the preferred stock due at this time.

BONDS CLOSE HIGHER IN IRREGULAR SALES

Gains in Prices Widen as Rails Rise; Foreign Loans Share Upturn.

New York, May 22 (A.P.).—Bonds were irregularly higher today, and the strength had the appearance of broadening because of the gains in rails following the conference on an increase in freight rates.

The averages, composed of the closing prices of ten rounds each of the rail, public utility and industrial groups, were all higher than on Thursday. Trading was somewhat less active, however.

The upturn in rail obligations was unmistakable. Pennsylvania Consolidated 4s, Union Pacific first 4s and refunding 4s, Atchison general 4s, Baltimore & Ohio 4s of 1941, Burlington general 4s and Cleveland Union Terminal 4½s reached new high prices for 1931. Most other rail loans closed higher. Nevertheless, it was apparent that the demand was strongest for the high-grade issues.

Receding prices for rail bonds recently have been caused in part by the expectation that some of them would be removed from the list of investments of various States which are considered legal for savings bank and trust funds. Because of the decreased earnings of the carriers, the plans of the Eastern railroad presidents to seek higher freight rates served to stimulate rail bonds today.

Foreign obligations closed irregularly higher after some of them had reached further new low levels. City of Cordoba 7s, Caldas 7½s, Argentine 8s of 1945, City of Buenos Aires 6½s, Province of Buenos Aires 6s and 6½s and New South Wales 5s of 1957 and of 1958 were so affected. However, Argentine, Berlin City Electric, Republic of Chile, Chile Mortgage Bank and some Brazilian and Bolivian obligations usually made good gains.

Loans of the United States Government fluctuated and showed mixed changes at the close.

Interest in the public utilities and industrials was limited, but the high-grade bonds reflected the demand for gilt edge issues.

NORTH AMERICAN'S REVENUE DETAILED

Subsidiaries Pay Heavily in Dividends, Trade Body Is Told.

(Associated Press.)

Middle Western utilities controlled by the North American Co. were described yesterday at a Federal Trade Commission hearing as furnishing the bulk of the income for the profitable operations of the utility holding concern.

A. E. Lundvall, commission accountant, testified that dividend income in 1929 furnished 97 per cent of the company's net income of $17,864,627.

Most of this, he said, came from the North American Edison Co., a subsidiary which controls the operation of power plants in Cleveland, Milwaukee, St. Louis and other Middle Western cities.

Edison Dividends Are Heavy.

Lundvall testified that dividends received by the parent company from the North American Edison amounted to $13.10 per share in 1927, $15.55 per share in 1928 and $23.20 in 1929.

The Western Power Corporation, another subsidiary which operates utilities on the Pacific Coast, also was a large income source, he said, but its dividend returns per share were considerably lower than those of the North American Edison.

In 1927, he added, Western Power paid dividends of only $2 per share to the North American, but in 1929 this had grown to $9 a share.

"Taxes" Are Paid Company.

Lundvall said the largest item of miscellaneous earnings to the North American Co. were Federal income taxes paid by subsidiary companies to the parent company.

He explained that the North American filed a consolidated income tax return, but charged the subsidiaries the amount each would have to pay if it filed a separate return. Lundvall said this difference was not returned to the subsidiaries.

He testified, however, that no management or supervision fees were charged the subsidiaries and that generally speaking they were operated independent of the holding company. He said there were no "write ups" of consequence in the financing of the North American and its subsidiaries.

London's Night Club Queen Jailed Again

London, May 22 (A.P.).—For the fourth time in her career as "Night Club Queen of England," Mrs. Kate Meyrick, mother-in-law of two peers, was sent to jail today for her alleged irregular activities as a professional entertainer.

Accused of selling liquor at her "43 Club" without a license and of permitting unlawful gaming there, she was sentenced to seven months at hard labor, fined £30 sterling and assessed £30 sterling court costs.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Weather Bureau Washington, Friday, May 22—8 P. M.

Forecast for the District of Columbia—Clearing and cooler Saturday; Sunday fair with rising temperature; fresh northwest winds, becoming gentle variable Sunday.

For Maryland and Virginia—Clearing and cooler Saturday; Sunday fair with rising temperature; fresh northwest winds, diminishing Saturday night.

The disturbance that was central over western Texas Thursday night has moved rapidly east-northeastward to the Middle Atlantic States, Washington, D. C., 29.85 inches, and it has been attended by general rains from the southern Plains States eastward to the interior of the Middle Atlantic States and North Carolina. Pressure is low and falling over western Canada, eastern Alaska, and the Plateau and northern Rocky Mountain region, Gordon, Alaska, 29.50 inches, and Boise, Idaho, 29.66 inches. This disturbance has caused light rains from the north Pacific coast eastward to western Montana. Pressure is high from Hudson Bay southward to the west Gulf coast and the lower Rio Grande Valley, Marquette, Mich., 30.34 inches, and it remains high over Alaska. St. Paul, 30.60 inches, and over the Atlantic Ocean south of Newfoundland, S. S., President Polk, 30.34 inches. The temperature is falling over the southern Lake region, the Ohio Valley, Tennessee, the Appalachian region and the interior of Texas, and it has risen over the western Canadian Provinces, southern Utah, Colorado, Kansas and western Missouri. The weather has become much warmer over a considerable part of the country.

Except for rain in New England, New York and the northern portion of the Middle Atlantic States, and local showers in the northern portion of the Florida peninsula Saturday, fair weather will prevail Saturday and Sunday east of the Mississippi River. The temperature will be lower in the Atlantic States Saturday, but it will rise in the Ohio and middle Mississippi Valleys, and the western lower Lake region Saturday, and over all sections east of the Mississippi River, except in the extreme South.

FLAVOR TO MEATS IS GIVEN BY CHEESE

American Product Especially Provides Innumerable Inexpensive Uses.

Recipes.

Cheese and Bean Loaf with Tomato Sauce

1 pound can kidney beans or
1 cup dried beans, cooked until tender
1 cup grated cheese
1 small onion
1 cup soft bread crumbs
Salt
Pepper

Put the beans and onion through a meat chopper. Add the cheese and seasonings and sufficient bread crumbs to make the mixture stiff enough to be formed into a roll. Bake in a moderate oven until delicately browned, basting with hot water combined with two tablespoons fat. Serve hot with tomato sauce.

Cottage Cheese Patties.

2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
2 tablespoons fat
2 cups cottage cheese
2 cups dry bread crumbs or
1 cup cooked rice and 1 cup bread crumbs
¼ cup peanut butter
Salt
Pepper

Cook the onion in the fat until tender, but not brown. Mix with other ingredients and salt, and pepper to season. Form into flat cakes and dust lightly with fine bread or cracker crumbs, or cornmeal. Fry a delicate brown in a little fat in a hot frying pan. The mixture should be stiff since the cheese tends to soften during the cooking.

Dutch Cheese Cake.

3½ tablespoons flour
2-3 cup sugar
½ cup milk
2 eggs
1 cup cottage cheese
Lemon juice and rind
Mace or nutmeg

Mix the cornstarch thoroughly with the sugar, slowly add the milk and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Take from stove and stir in the cottage cheese, well beaten eggs and flavoring. Bake in a shallow greased dish for 25 minutes in a moderate oven. This makes a very firm custard. Serve cold.

Baked Indian Pudding.

1-3 cup yellow cornmeal
1 teaspoon salt
¼ cup molasses
½ to 1 teaspoon ginger

Cook the milk, cornmeal and salt in a double boiler for 20 minutes. Add the molasses and ginger, pour into a greased baking dish and bake in a very moderate oven (about 300 degrees F.) for 2 hours. Serve hot or cold, with or without milk.

Missouri Pacific Lines To Coordinate Buses

Cleveland, Ohio, May 22 (A.P.).—Missouri Pacific Lines, Van Sweringen controlled railroad, will coordinate its railway and motor coach traffic, L. M. Baldwin, president of the railroad, announced today.

P. J. Neff, assistant to Baldwin, was given jurisdiction over both train and bus passenger operations, under the titles of vice president, general manager of the Missouri Pacific Transportation Co., the bus subsidiary and assistant vice president in charge of traffic for the railroad.

Four Miners Are Killed In Coal and Rock Slide

Shenandoah, Pa., May 22 (A.P.).—Four miners were killed today in a fall of coal and rock at the William Penn Colliery of the Susquehanna Collieries Co.

A fifth was seriously injured.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

BRENTWOOD STATION REMOVAL IS FEARED

Proposal Would Leave Rail Spur, but Discontinue Local Agent.

The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad is considering discontinuing maintenance of a station agent at Brentwood, although retaining the spur track at this point, it is reported. While no official action has been taken on the change, F. G. Hoskins, superintendent of the Maryland district, has called on several local merchants who use the station.

The company has recently made attempts to remove the station agents at Branchville and Riverdale, as well as several other points outside the county. Applications for permission to make these changes were filed with the Public Service Commission, and the abolition of the station agent at Branchville was allowed.

Almost unanimous protests by residents and civic groups of Riverdale, however, resulted in the railroad withdrawing the application. All the changes are understood to be economy moves, based on the claim that the business at the stations does not warrant the agents. It appears likely that the trend of opinion in the Brentwood matter is being sounded out before the petition is made, to prevent a repetition of the Riverdale complaints.

Twenty-six of the 31 booths to be provided at the Prince Georges County Industrial Show June 4, 5 and 6, have been reserved, according to the committee on reservations, headed by Henry Hiser.

The Bureau of Mines and the Agricultural Department have been invited to send exhibits, and school children may also display work done in school. The Harmonica Band of the Hyattsville Elementary School will be on the program.

The show will be held in the Armory in Hyattsville. It is being sponsored by the Exchange Club of the county.

An attempt to take refuge in the Maryland law allowing possession of a quart of liquor yesterday failed William W. Latimer, of Silver Hill, who claimed that although he had more than a quart of beverage, half of it was ginger ale.

Judge J. Chew Sheriff overruled the defense in Marlboro Police Court and fined Latimer $50. The man was arrested by Constable Roger B. Ouraler, who also made a charge of attempting to drive while drunk. This count was nolle prossed, however.

James Berry, of Silver Hill, asked a jury trial on charges of sale and possession, and was freed in bond of $300 on each count, pending the trial. He was arrested by Sheriff W. C. Hopkins and Special Deputy Frank Prince after a purchase with marked money is said to have been made. The money was found in Berry's possession when he was arrested, police say. Ten gallons of alleged liquor was seized in a shed in Silver Hill.

Ira Whittington, of Oxon Hill, was fined $50 for possession. He was arrested after a raid by Sheriff Hopkins.

Elzie Thompson, a taxi driver, of Pennsylvania avenue near Eleventh street southeast, was fined $10 for permitting his car to be driven by an unlicensed person and $5 for allowing his car to be parked without lights. Ruben Gore, a sailor attached to U. S. S. Cormorant, who was in Thompson's car, was fined $10 for driving without a permit and $5 for parking without lights.

Guy Tippet, of Croome, was fined $10 for driving on an instructor's license and $5 for having bad brakes. George W. Tippet, also of Croome, who was arrested with him, was fined $100 for driving while drunk, $1 for reckless driving and $10 for driving without a license.

An appeal was noted by Charles E. Simpkins, of Naylor road southeast near P street, against a fine of $101 for driving while drunk and reckless driving. He also was fined $5 for disorderly conduct when he protested against the arrest. He was arrested by Deputy Sheriff A. C. Thompson.

Knighton Parker was fined $10 for driving without a license, after being arrested by State Policeman W. A. Rogers.

Alleging that her husband, Joseph Clarence Rose, "simply lived on the family of the plaintiff from the time of the marriage until the time of the separation," Mrs. Georgia Leverne Rose yesterday filed suit for absolute divorce.

The couple was married in 1923 and has two children, Dorothy Leverne and Margaret Juanita. Mrs. Rose, who lives in Laurel, says that her husband deserted her in 1925. His address is given as Washington. Through her attorney, Joseph Donovan, State senator from Howard County, she asks for custody of the children.

The husband filed an answer at the time her suit was filed through Attorney C. Ferdinand Sybert, of Ellicott City. In it he says he neither admits nor denies the allegations. Mrs. Rose's bill states that her husband lived with her at the home of her mother during their married life.

Two new applicants for the county police force yesterday filed with the county commissioners, bringing the total number of applicants now to 46. Eleven men are to be appointed to the new force, which will take office June 1.

The new applications were received from Clifford J. Garry, of Seat Pleasant, and Harry C. Ripples, of Bladensburg. In addition to those who have filed formal application, there are known to be others who want places but have not yet come into the open.

The Prince Georges County Law Enforcement League has decided to advise county commissioners to exercise great care in the selection of the new police force, after a protracted discussion of an alleged gambling house on the Bladensburg road. The advice will be embodied in a resolution to be presented to commissioners at their next meeting.

Several of the speakers at the meeting of the league expressed confidence in ability of the commissioners to choose worthy men, pointing out the large list they had to choose from.

Gen. E. E. Hatch named a nominating committee to select a list of candidates for offices of the organization. The committee is composed of E. B. Dunford, Frank Stephens and Mrs. A. H. Seidenspinner. The nominations will be presented to the group at a later meeting, whose date and location has not yet been decided upon.

Descendant Named To Unveil Statue

Miss Janetta Smith Will Undrape Monument to Noted Educator.

Lexington, Va., May 22 (A.P.).—Miss Janetta A. Smith, daughter of Dr. Livingston W. Smith, professor of mathematics at Washington and Lee University, will unveil the statue of her great-grandfather, Gen. Francis H. Smith, at the Virginia Military Institute ceremonial on Alumni Day, June 10.

The monument will be in bronze by Chevalier F. Legnaioli, of Richmond, with a granite base, erected near the west corner of the Jackson Memorial Hall, and facing the V. M. I. parade ground.

The inscription on the monument follows: "Major General Francis H. Smith, superintendent, November 11, 1839, to December 31, 1889, builder and rebuilder of the Virginia Military Institute."

The statue represents Gen. Smith in the act of delivering a diploma to a graduate and memorializes his custom of giving a Bible to every cadet at the end of his first class year.

SALE OF FIREWORKS OPPOSED BY WOMEN

Federation Asks for Law Prohibiting Their Use in Montgomery.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

Four resolutions were adopted at the annual meeting of the Montgomery County Federation of Women's Clubs yesterday in the clubhouse of the Bethesda Women's Club at Alta Vista. One resolution urged prohibition of fireworks in the county and three related to schools. The resolutions were presented by Mrs. Edward W. Koch, of Woodside, chairman of the resolutions committee.

The first resolution, urging enactment of an ordinance prohibiting sale and use of fireworks in the county except under proper supervision, originated in the Woman's Club of Somerset and the Woman's Club of Chevy Chase. The second, which originated in the Woman's Club of Kensington, asks that county schools be closed February 22, Washington's Birthday.

Manual training and domestic science courses at the Rockville Colored High School are asked in a resolution sponsored by the Wednesday Club of Sandy Spring and the provision of a teacher of lip reading with two 30-minute periods of instruction each week in the county schools is asked in another resolution originated in the Woman's Improvement Club of Silver Spring.

County Library Is Sought.

In her annual address and report Mrs. B. Peyton Whalen, president, urged the clubs to work for establishment next year of a county library.

Guest speakers were Mrs. J. Enos Ray, of Chillum, Maryland director of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, who spoke on the recent biennial council at Phoenix, Ariz.; Mrs. Floyd R. Younkin, of Frederick, president of the First District of the Maryland Federation, and Mrs. Rudolph S. Allen, of College Park, president of the Sixth District.

Mrs. Edgar W. Moore, treasurer, reported on the disbursement of $6,388 in the past year, of which $2,505 was given to the Social Service League, $888.51 to educational work in the county and $772.50 to the Montgomery County General Hospital at Sandy Spring. The balance for the most part was spent on social welfare work.

Reports were presented by the following: Mrs. Jones Hoyle, of Wheaton, credentials committee; Mrs. George W. Young, of Washington Grove, secretary; Mrs. Grace Sherman, of Kensington, auditor; Mrs. A. R. Speare, of Rockville, corresponding secretary; Mrs. E. G. Bauersfeld, Bethesda, education; Mrs. George A. Chadwick, Washington Grove, conservation; Mrs. George C. Shinn, Capitol View, public welfare; Miss Annie M. Wilson, Kensington, fine arts; Mrs. Frank M. Hoadley, Chevy Chase, press and publicity; Mrs. Lavinia Engle, of Forest Glen, legislation; Mrs. Earl F. Keeley, Chevy Chase, read report of Mrs. R. Harvey Sargent, chairman at large; Mrs. George A. Furzer, Dickerson, American home; Mrs. Earl W. Chaffee, Chevy Chase, club extension.

28 Clubs Represented.

The delegates were welcomed by Mrs. Edward M. Willis, newly elected president of the Women's Club of Bethesda, with a response by Mrs. Whalen. The guests were presented by Mrs. P. G. Ligon, of Brighton. There were about 250 delegates present, representing 28 Montgomery County women's clubs.

The meeting was concluded with presentation of the one-act play, "Fourteen" which won the prize in the recent drama contest of the federation, presented by the Bethesda Woman's Club, with the following cast: Miss Louise Massey, Mrs. Edward M. Willis and Mrs. L. M. Mattingly, directed by Mrs. Roland Marshall.

CONFEDERATE FLAG DESIGNER ACCEPTED

Southern Woman's Research Work Obtains Honor for Nicola Marschall.

Montgomery, Ala., May 22 (A.P.).—By official action the Alabama Legislature has accepted the word of Mrs. Chappell Corey, of Birmingham, as establishing that Nicola Marschall, an artist of Marion, Ala., was designer of the first flag of the Confederacy, the Stars and Bars.

The origin of the flag long has been disputed and the honor claimed for Maj. Orrin Smith, of Raleigh and Henderson, N. C. Mrs. Corey for years has compiled documentary evidence to establish Marschall's claim.

In an exhaustive treatise entitled, "The True Story of the First Confederate Flag, the Stars and Bars," Mrs. Corey sets forth the claims of Maj. Smith and his descendants and those of Marschall, backed by affidavits from residents of Marion and relatives of former Gov. A. B. Moore, at whose request the Alabamian's design was made.

Smith's Claims Cited.

The treatise cites the claims of Maj. Smith as follows:

"When at Sumter the shot was fired that was heard around the world, I realized a new country had been made, and that the new nation must have a flag. * * * The idea of my flag, I took from the trinity (three in one).

"* * * I had the flag completed in my mind before the Confederate congress advertised for models, and when the advertisement appeared, I went to my friend, Miss Rebecca Murphy (she is now Mrs. S. H. Winborn, of Wilson, N. C.), and asked her if she would make me a little flag. I'd tell her how.

"I tore the 'bars and cut the stars,' and she sewed the stitches, and when finished the little flag was sent to Montgomery with the suggestion that a star be added for each State that joined the Confederacy. The flag committee, as you all know, accepted the flag and named it 'The Stars and Bars.'"

Marshall's Story Told.

Mrs. Corey quotes from Marschall's own story, which appeared in the Florida Times Union, Jacksonville, Fla., May 17, 1905, as follows:

"Mrs. Napoleon Lockett, a beautiful Southern woman of an old Virginia family, and the elder daughter of Gov. Moore, * * * came to me one day and said, 'Mr. Marschall, we have seceded, and the Confederate government wants a flag. Will you make us a design? * * * At once I took a pencil and paper and made three different designs. The first was two red stripes and one of white, a blue field bearing seven white stars—indicating the number of States that had then seceded—in the upper left-hand corner——"

It was this design, says Mrs. Corey, that was accepted and was flown from the staff of the Confederate capitol here on March 4, 1861. Mrs. Corey points out that Maj. Smith's story said, "When at Sumter the shot was fired" inspired him, which was on April 12, 1861.

Extension of the Social Service League of Montgomery County annual drive for funds to merchants of Washington, who serve large numbers of county residents has been decided upon by the finance committee, according to W. B. Armstrong, chairman.

Letters were mailed yesterday to more than 500 firms in Washington asking their cooperation. The letter points out that the Social Service League, the only central relief agency in the county, does not share in the Washington Community Chest despite the fact that thousands of its potential contributors are donors to the Washington fund.

The annual drive for funds officially closed yesterday in Montgomery County and optimistic reports have been received from branch committees. Many citizens of the county have not been approached by the solicitors and these persons are urged to mail their contributions to the league headquarters in Rockville.

Chairmen of the branch committees have been requested to make their reports before Tuesday, so a detailed report can be prepared for the annual meeting June 1.

Bethesda police have started an intensive campaign against dumping of trash on or near highways in the county. Two men have been arrested so far in the campaign. They were Lorenzo Matthews and Walter Campbell, of Esnor, Md., who were arrested by Policeman Windsor C. Poole, of the Bethesda Substation.

The men are alleged to have dumped trash on the edge of the Jones Mill road. They were charged under the county ordinance and required to post bond of $100 each for appearance in county police court at Rockville June 6.

Features in Tomorrow's Post

Just exactly what role is Soviet Russia now playing in world trade, and what significance does the trend of commerce events have for the United States? David Rankin Barbee goes back of the scenes and describes in an absorbing article in Sunday's Post the power being wielded by the Communist Republic in markets over the globe.

Silent speed craft of the pirates arising in the wake of the eighteenth amendment slipped in and out of Chesapeake Bay for more than a year, finally coming to grief at Taylor's Island. The story of the smash of the liquor trafficking there is told by a writer at the scene in "Where High Tide Means Rum Tide" in the tabloid magazine of Sunday's Post.

"A Tariff Bill Her Fairy Godmother" is an article also in the magazine telling of a charming Canadian girl, sister of the Dominion's premier and chatelaine of the Canadian Legation here.

The scourge of the poppy is pictured in another article which tells of the determined effort at Geneva to curb narcotics production.

An increasingly popular feature of the tabloid is "The Counselor," where scores are finding accurate answers to their countless questions each week.

Fiction and other features combine with these headline articles to give the readers of Sunday's Post the best to be found.

Live Stock Rates Held Unreasonable

Virginia and West Virginia Shippers Win Fight Before I. C. C.

(Associated Press.)

Rates on live stock in carloads from Virginia and West Virginia to destinations north of the Potomac River were held unreasonable yesterday by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

A new basis was prescribed and reparations awarded to the shippers.

The commission also held that proposed increased rates on live stock from points in Virginia and West Virginia to Eastern markets are not justified, and they were ordered canceled. The complaint was brought by Virginia and West Virginia live stock growers and shippers.

LEGION AUXILIARY HOLDS POPPY SALE

Alexandria Women Will Give Proceeds for Relief of Veterans.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU, 907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va. Phone Alexandria 523.

The annual Poppy Day sale of the American Legion Auxiliary will be held today. The auxiliary has established headquarters at 715 King street, with Mrs. Margaret Bailey as chairman.

Members of the committee who will sell poppies on the streets today include Mrs. F. Clinton Knight, president of the Auxiliary; Mrs. W. Cameron Roberts, Mrs. L. H. Dudley, Mrs. W. Milton Glasgow, Miss Kathleen Douglas, Mrs. John H. Trimyer, Mrs. Leroy Peabody, Mrs. George W. Roop, Mrs. Robert Insko, Miss Mae Cavanaugh, Mrs. J. Wilmer McMenamin, Mrs. Louis Hoy, Mrs. Forest Remschell, Mrs. R. Samuel Luckett, Mrs. Sidney Weil and Mrs. Irvin Diener.

Profit from the sale is used for the relief and rehabilitation work of the auxiliary. Each American Legion unit contributes $2 a month toward the department program for rehabilitation work, $15 a year for a comfort kit for some veteran entering a hospital for treatment, and 10 per cent of the proceeds of the poppy sale to national headquarters to assist in keeping the American Legion headquarters in Washington with a full corps of workers to expedite cases of service men before the Veterans Bureau.

An American flag curb decoration will mark each house on the list of those in the tour of Alexandria homes today under auspices of the Rectors Aid Society of St. Paul's Episcopal Church. Mrs. Edward H. Kemper, chairman, and Girl Scouts will be on the streets to assist visitors in locating the homes and directing them to the parish hall of the church, where luncheon will be served from 12 to 2 o'clock. Tea will be served from 4 to 6 o'clock at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Robert South Barrett, 404 Duke street, where the portrait of the late Dr. Kate Waller Barrett, national president of the American Legion Auxiliary, may be seen.

Many beautiful homes will be open to visitors today, with a nominal fee to be paid at the first house visited. Two members of the sponsoring society will be hostesses at each place on the list.

The will of Dr. J. Stewart Jamieson, who died Monday, disposes of an estate valued at $187,000, of which approximately $169,000 is left to his widow, Mrs. Alice J. Jamieson, with the provision that the money be held in trust for her during her natural life. It is further provided that she shall have the right to will the residue of the estate to whoever she chooses.

The Jamieson home at 217 South Columbus street, is left to the Alexandria Hospital. Final disposition of the house will be decided upon by the trustees of the hospital shortly.

There are several bequests, ranging from $5,000 to $1,000, one of $1,000 going to Mrs. Jane Ashley Dempsey, widow of the late Phineas J. Dempsey, of Alexandria, and a similar sum to her daughter, Mrs. Ashley C. Carter, of Norfolk. The sum of $300 is bequeathed to the trustees of the Presbyterian Cemetery for the upkeep of the family lot.

The will is dated January 13, 1931, and the First National Bank of Alexandria is named as testator. The bank has qualified, giving bond of $200,000.

The Daughters of the Confederacy and the Sons of Confederate Veterans today will place flags on the graves of the Confederate dead in the various local cemeteries. Those who will participate in this service will meet at Lee Camp Hall at 3 o'clock this afternoon, when Mrs. Charles W. Howell, president of the Seventeenth Virginia Regiment Chapter-Mary Custis Lee Chapter, will distribute lists and flags.

Beginning tomorrow and continuing until May 29, the office of Charles H. Callahan, commissioner of revenue, will be open from 7 to 9 p. m., in addition to the regular office hours, to receive State tax returns. The commissioner states that no business or professional returns, including detailed expense accounts, will be handled during the evening hours, as this period is for taxpayers unable to make their returns during regular office hours.

Although the blank forms were distributed some time ago, only about one-half the taxpayers, according to Mr. Callahan, have made returns. A penalty is automatically imposed upon those who fail to make returns prior to June 1.

Andrew Samuels, Negro, recently fined $250 and costs and sentenced to three months in jail by Justice W. S. Snow, in police court, appealed to the corporation court. However, while his appeal was pending, he escaped from the city chain gang. If, and when, he is apprehended, he will hear that yesterday a jury increased his fine to $500 and also doubled his jail sentence. He was charged with violating the dry ordinance.

Funeral services for James W. Thomas, who died Wednesday, will be conducted at 5 o'clock this afternoon from Wheatley's mortuary chapel by the Rev. D. L. Snyder, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church South. Burial will be in Bethel Cemetery. Members of Andrew Jackson Lodge of Masons, to which Mr. Thomas belonged, will attend the services.

CADETS, AUXILIARY GUESTS AT BANQUET

Washington-Lee Group Paid Honor in Address by School Head.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST. Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

The cadet corps of the Washington-Lee High School and the recently organized girls' auxiliary, totaling more than 200 members, held its fifth annual banquet last night. S. P. Vanderalice, principal, was toastmaster.

County School Superintendent Fletcher Kemp, principal speaker, congratulated the cadets for the showing made at the recent Apple Blossom Festival at Winchester, and also for having carried off the honors in the recent competitive drill with the cadets from Alexandria City.

Among guests were State Senator Frank L. Ball, Maj. E. W. Cushing and A. D. Davis, members of the county school board; Maj. Raymond Wells, of George Mason High School, Alexandria; Col. Clarence Deems, in charge of cadets at the Alexandria High School, and Maj. Joseph Rice, U. S. A. R. C.

Maj. Rice presented a silver loving cup to Company B, winners in the competitive drill held at the school yesterday.

Following the banquet there was a special drill by the Cadet Corps in the school auditorium. The banquet was prepared and served by members of the domestic science class.

Failing to reach definite agreement on an adequate charge for water to the town of Falls Church, the special committee headed by Maj. L. P. Daniels, J. V. Turner, Harry A. Fellows, Charles C. Gage, and John R. Harris, following a conference with members of the County Board of Supervisors, yesterday announced that water for the system would be obtained from deep wells in addition to a connection with the county system for an emergency supply.

Maj. Daniels, mayor of the town, said Falls Church was willing to pay 10 cents per 1,000 gallons, but could not afford to meet the price set by the supervisors—30 cents per 1,000 gallons.

Supervisor B. M. Hedrick pointed out that Arlington County citizens were paying a front-foot charge in addition to the $24 a year charged for water, and the county could not supply water to the town for less than the price set.

W. R. Rose, a lifelong resident of Arlington County, announced yesterday he will be a candidate for membership to the county board of five which replaces the present board of three members, effective January 1, 1932, in accordance with the new form of county government.

Mr. Rose said he is a candidate subject to the county Republican convention which meets early in June.

Dr. P. M. Chichester, county health officer, has been elected president of the Virginia Public Health Association.

Pupils of the Thomas Nelson Page School at Ballston yesterday afternoon presented its annual May Day program in the presence of more than 300 patrons.

The program included a doll dance by the second grade, scarf dance by the sixth grade, minuet dance by the third grade, fairy dance by the fourth grade and the maypole dance by members of the fourth and fifth grades. Doris Walkins was May queen.

Music was under direction of Mrs. J. Forney Donaldson, supervisor of music in the county schools.

Newly elected officers of the Business and Professional Woman's Club of Arlington County were installed at a dinner meeting last night at Windsor Arms.

Those installed were: Mrs. Millicent Wills, president; Mrs. Katherine Cohen, first vice president; Miss Norine Kloss, second vice president; Mrs. Agnes J. Conradi, treasurer; Mrs. Ethel Jackson, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Helen Collins, recording secretary.

The following committees were announced by the president:

Public relations—Mrs. Katherine Cohen, chairman; Mrs. Mae E. Jacobs and Mrs. Rachel White. "Legislation—Mrs. Dorothy Dunn, chairman; Miss Anne Hedrick and Miss Norine Kloss. Membership—Mrs. Jessie Hunt, chairman; Mrs. Edith Corder and Miss Esther Cooper. Program—Mrs. Pearl Sharpe, chairman; Mrs. Wall and Miss Anne May Sasher. Education—Mrs. Mae E. Jacobs, chairman; Miss Samuels and Mrs. Lorena Ellis. Dinner—Mrs. Rachel White, chairman; Miss Lucy Moss and Mrs. Pearl Sharpe. Music—Mrs. Lorena Ellis, chairman; Mrs. Rachel White and Miss Lucy Moss. Research—Miss Lucille Hamlin, chairman; Miss Ethel Jackson and Mrs. Agnes Conrad. Health—Mrs. Teresa Clark, chairman; Miss Bennett and Mrs. Sue Brown. Finance—Mrs. Edith Corder, chairman; Mrs. Emma Weekley and Mrs. Lorena Ellis. Publicity—Mrs. Kathleen Clarke, chairman; Mrs. Emma Weekley and Mrs. Charlotte Benton. Interrelations—Miss Lucy Moss, chairman; Miss Esther Cooper and Mrs. Pollard. Independent woman—Mrs. Dorothy Potterton, chairman; Miss Esther Cooper and Mrs. Bertha Kelly. Emblem—Mrs. Mary Moore McIntosh, chairman; Mrs. Salada Ruppert and Mrs. Bryan Gordon. Transportation—Miss Norine Kloss, chairman, Miss Nellie Spencer and Mrs. Helen Collins.

Mrs. Helen Collins, Mrs. Dorothy Dunn, Miss Samuels and Miss Nellie Spence were elected delegates to the State convention in Richmond, Va., July 3 and 4. Alternates are Mrs. Bertha Kelly, Mrs. Charlotte Benton, Mrs. Dorothy Gordon, and Mrs. Rachel White.

Mrs. Millicent Willis was elected delegate to the national convention in Richmond July 6 to 11, inclusive. Mrs. Pearl Sharpe was chosen alternate.

Mrs. Jacobs, chairman of the committee on education, announced plans are being completed to entertain members of the graduating class of the Washington-Lee High School the evening of June 11 at dinner.

Mrs. Charles Franks was elected president of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Stonewall Jackson School at Bon Air last night. Other officers are Mrs. Fenton Herrell, vice president; Mrs. Marshall Gore, secretary, and Mrs. Reeves, treasurer.

Services at the Clarendon Methodist Church tomorrow will be conducted by the pastor, the Rev. John H. Pearson. At the morning service his subject will be "The Street Called Straight." In the evening he will preach on "The Great Salvation."

Tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock, there will be a special musical service at St. Mary's Episcopal Church, Rixey Station, Arlington County. The choir will sing Gaul's oratorio, "The Holy City." The choir will be assisted by Mrs. F. W. Camp, soprano; Mrs. T. C. Osterhaus and Mrs. T. K. Burchard, mezzo soprano; T. K. Burchard, tenor, and Warren Grimes, bass.

Dr. Samuel M. Johnson, president of the National Boulevard Association, was taken to the Emergency Hospital, Washington last night by Traffic Officer Martin Novotny as he was crossing Fourteenth and G streets northwest, where he was taken suddenly ill.

Dr. Johnson's condition was said to be undetermined, but it is expected he will be able to return home today.

Dr. Johnson led the movement more than four years ago for construction of the Lee boulevard across Arlington County, the first link of which is now under construction by the Virginia State Highway Department.

MR. EDISON ABANDONS HIS TEST.

THERE will be no Edison questionnaire this year. Mr. Edison gives no reason for abandoning the annual quiz, but he probably feels it would be folly to shoot questions such as "Who was Cleopatra?" and "What is the function of leucocytes?" at a public interested only in the right answer to the question, "When do we eat?"

* * * *

However, the Edison test had come to be regarded as an annual institution and the Wizard of Menlo Park might have framed a questionnaire suitable for 1931 with a little effort. Something along this line:

YOU are the head of an expedition, which has come to grief in the desert. There is enough food and water to enable three persons to get to the nearest outpost. Your companions are:

(2)—A scientist 60 years old.

(3)—A market expert who said prices were at buying levels eighteen months ago.

(4)—The man who originated the remark, "Nobody ever lost money in steel."

(5)—The banker who recommended New York Central as an investment.

(6)—Your broker.

(7)—A margin clerk.

Which would you save?

* * * *

IF you owned the following items, at what price would you sell them?

(a) A seat on the Stock Exchange?

(b) A dozen marbles for which you had been offered 5,000 shares of a "blue chip" stock?

(c) A patent, which would bring artificial sunshine into brokerage houses?

(d) Ten acres of land in a country where they can sing, "Happy Days Are Here Again?"

(e) Definite proof that a leading corporation would not pass its dividend?

* * * *

IF you had three brothers, one of whom wanted to be a poet, another an artist and the third a stock broker, which would you fear would starve first?

* * * *

Where does copper come from and why does nobody want it at present prices?

* * * *

What is the smallest length mirror, standing vertically, in which a man can see his entire length and then does it do justice to his long face?

* * * *

* * * *

IF cast adrift on an island with 100 shares of Radio, 100 shares of Can, 100 shares of Columbia Graphophone, 100 shares of Montgomery-Ward and a pound of baloney, which would you keep as a protection against possible adversities?

Who was the author of the phrase, "Business is fundamentally sound?"

Is there a Santa Claus?

FAIRFAX STUDENTS TO COMPETE TODAY

Annual Field Meet Will Be Staged; Fight Launched Over Teachers.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST. P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va. Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

The annual field day of the Fairfax County High School Athletic Association will be held today in the fair grounds at Fairfax. John Watt, of Lee-Jackson, has been selected as official starter for all races and track events. E. J. Hegler, of Herndon High School; C. P. Scott, of Falls Church, Claude Cox, of McLean, and Dorothy Otley, of Clifton, have been appointed as judges of all field events. Miss Elizabeth Shank, of Falls Church, will act as official scorekeeper.

To the school scoring the highest number of points the association will give a large silver cup. Two smaller trophies will be awarded the individual boy and girl winning the largest number of points. A banner will be given the school winning second place, and a merchandise prize to the boy winning the largest number of points is promised by Mr. Knight, of Alexandria. The association will give ribbons for first, second and third place winners in each event.

Starting at 10:30 o'clock, the morning events include 100-yard dashes for boys and girls, 50-yard dash for junior boys, weighing less than 110 pounds; baseball throw for girls, high jump for boys, 440-yard dash for boys. Lunch will be from 12:30 to 1. After recess there follows the 75-yard dash for junior boys, 50-yard dash for girls, pole vault for boys, basket ball throw for girls, 880-yard run for boys; discus throw for boys, broad jump, girls; 220-yard dash, boys; high jump for girls, 220-yard relay, junior boys; broad jump, boys; relay for girls, shot put for boys and relay for boys.

The Northwest Citizens Association of Falls Church at its regular meeting addressed an open letter to the town school board, asking why the board failed to reappoint the teachers of the first and fourth grades for next year's term. Besides sending each member of the school board a copy of the letter, President R. E. Kendrick and Secretary E. L. Brandon, of the association, were appointed a committee to appear personally before the board to ask whether these teachers will be reappointed, and if not, to request the board to state its reasons for ignoring the request of school patrons, as expressed in several petitions already presented to the board.

When the school board announced the teacher appointments for the coming year, about two weeks ago, many persons were surprised that the names of the two teachers in question were not included. It has been stated that both of them have taught in the Falls Church School for two years and, according to the petitions, are popular with both patrons and pupils, and are considered capable, conscientious and especially efficient with young children. The notices to the two teachers, Miss Alice Williams and Miss Mary Upson, gave no reasons why they were not reappointed. The patrons of the school demanded a hearing before the local school board, at which time they expressed their high regard for the ability and character of the two teachers.

At the hearing Miss N. G. Edwards, principal of the Falls Church schools, stated to the patrons that she had not recommended the reappointment of the teachers, as she felt that Miss Williams lacked "force," and Miss Upson "taught by deduction rather than induction."

The patrons of the school expressed the belief that the real reason for the situation has not been brought out, and that they have understood that Miss Edwards informed Miss Williams that she would reconsider her decision and reappoint her if she would promise to attend Sunday school, but later rescinded the tentative appointment. The association has taken the stand that an injustice has been done the two teachers and demands an answer to its request, stating that the wishes of the majority of the parents interested should not be ignored by the school board.

The Friendship Circle at Chesterbrook will give a play this evening in the auditorium of the Chesterbrook Schoolhouse for the benefit of its welfare fund. The cast of the play, "Aunt Jerusha's Quilting Party," includes Mrs. E. P. Kirby, Mrs. R. O. E. Saunders, Mrs. Albert Phillips, Mrs. Clinton Florence, Mrs. Ernest Thompson, Mrs. Charles Dorsey, Mrs. J. Hammond, Mrs. Charles Burkeholder, Mrs. Eldridge, Mr. and Mrs. J. Croson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Furlong, Ralph Thompson and Raymond Ball, under the direction of Mrs. A. S. Muterbaugh.

The Girl Scout Troop of Falls Church will hold a mother and daughter banquet this evening in Falls Church for about 25 girls and their mothers. The troop leader, Mrs. Margaret Mathis, is chairman of the food committee; Miss Betty Ward will have charge of decorations, and Miss Mildred McNair in charge of entertainment.

The leaders of the Home Demonstration Clubs of Fairfax County will hold a meeting today in the auditorium of the schoolhouse at Fairfax. Miss Mary B. Settle, demonstration agent from Blacksburg, Va., will give demonstrations on the care of clothing and the care of wood work in the home.

The Acacia chapter, Order of Eastern Star, at Falls Church, will hold a food sale today in Snyder's store, in East Falls Church. The committee in charge of the sale will include Mrs. Snyder, Mrs. M. Tillett and Mrs. Queens Grasty.

The Sunday school of the Salem Methodist Protestant Church has been reorganized for the summer term. Miss Annie Cornwell has been selected as superintendent, Sidney M. Follin, assistant superintendent; Harry Henderson as treasurer, and Mrs. Bertha Marshall as secretary. The classes will be taught by Miss Dorothy Follin, Mrs. Faye Brown, Henry Shroy and Harry Henderson.

The following candidates have qualified for the town election of Herndon, which will be held the first part of next month: Stanley B. Hanes, for mayor; Mrs. Baldwin Fisher Aud and Charles J. Sager, clerk, and Ray N. Wrenn, Edgar E. Gillette, Silas F. Hutchinson, Walter H. Wiley, John R. Hurst, William Henry Moffett, Ernest Gibson, Julian D. Thompson, Willis W. McGlincy and George Bready for members of the town council.

Trespass Decision Hits Home Owner

Annapolis Man Held Guilty if He Steps Over Foot Strip of Land.

Annapolis, Md., May 22 (A.P.).—A strip of land only one foot wide separates Alonzo Slaysmen's property from the street in front of his home, but he can not step over it without committing trespass, the Court of Appeals ruled today.

The strip is owned by a realty company which built the street, and the concern and Slaysmen have been at odds for months over a $300 assessment for paving the new street.

Claysmen refused to pay, whereupon the company reduced the width of the street from 50 to 49 feet so as to keep it from touching Slaysmen's property. An injunction kept Slaysmen from touching the one-foot strip, but he got around that by stepping over the strip. He was upheld by a county court, but the appellate ruling favored the company.

ALEXANDRIA GIVEN TEMPLAR CONCLAVE

Lieut. Gov. Price Is Elected State Commander of Ancient Order.

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., May 22.—Electing Lieut. Gov. James H. Price, Richmond, their grand commander, and selecting Alexandria as next year's meeting place, Virginia Knights Templars concluded their 109th annual conclave here today.

His elevation to topmost rank in Templar Masonry places Mr. Price in a position occupied by comparatively few members of this ancient fraternity. He has served as grand master and grand high priest of these two branches, and as potentate of Acca Shrine Temple. Mr. Price also is recorder of Imperial Shrine Council.

Other officers elected today are: Claude William Fletcher, Alexandria, deputy commander; Byrd Leavell, Culpeper, generalissimo; Frank Fravely Payne, Roanoke, captain general; William Moseley Brown, Virginia Beach, senior warden; the Rev. Frank T. McFaden, D. D., Winchester, recorder; Fitzhugh Lee Grimstead, Norfolk, junior warden; Charlton Ridgeway Moore, Richmond, standard bearer; Farrar Caleb Verser, Crewe, word bearer; Lesley Cone West, Richmond, captain of guard, and Eugene H. Marshall, Danville, warder. J. J. English, jr., Richmond, was appointed deputy treasurer and James M. Clift, Richmond, deputy recorder.

George C. Scarborough, Norton, retiring grand commander, was presented the past commander's jewel in recognition of his services during the last year. Grand Prelate McFaden was appointed to represent Virginia at the thirty-eighth triennial encampment of grand commanderies at Minneapolis this summer.

Luray was awarded the cup donated by W. Crews Wooding, Danville, for the commandery making the most improvement during the year.

Commander Price appointed the following district inspectors: District 1, Byrd Leavell, Culpeper; 2, Ridgeway Moore, Richmond; 3, F. L. Grimstead, Norfolk; 4, Frank G. Payne, Roanoke; 5, William Moseley Brown, Virginia Beach; 6, Claude W. Fletcher, Alexandria; 7, Eugene H. Marshall, Danville; 8, Farrar C. Verser, Crewe.

Sweet Briar Wins Leadership Again

1930 Psychological Test for Freshmen Retains Place in South.

Sweet Briar, Va., May 22 (A.P.).—Results of the 1930 freshman psychological examination, according to the spring issue of the Educational Record, placed Sweet Briar College sixth among 137 colleges, the first among Southern institutions. Last year Sweet Briar was fifth among 138 colleges and first in the South.

The rank was determined by the median grade, which the record explained as being the grade above and below which the number of cases was the same. Sweet Briar's median grade for 1930 was 188.08. Next to Sweet Briar, among the Southern colleges, was Sophie Newcomb College, with a median grade of 163.44. Sophie Newcomb was twenty-first among the 137 colleges.

Sweet Briar has used the tests for three years, and each year the median grade has increased, being 165 in 1928, 175 in 1929 and 188.08 in 1930.
